Walled Lake Is Again Very Much Wrought Up Over This Strange Animal.

A few years ago, while do Laphsm, a wealthy broker and the fire, of Detroit, maintained a summer/, middence on the banks of Walled Lake, furies of a great sea serpent hiving been seen in the like werg afloat, Mr. Lapham conformed the stories, and the excitement ran high. Hundred of people, arxious to see the mohster, came from; Detroit and other points to have their blood curiled. After a time the monster was found to be only a huge log with a limb on one end which a time the monster was found to be only a huge log with a limb on one end which would awing up into the air above the water, resembling the head of the serpent. But there is another "phenomonon" which has been giving rise to great ex-cutement this fall in these same waters, and it is the report that a peculiar sort of monster has been seen everyal times, and described as having the form of a sea horse, only on 'a much larger scale, being some three feet in length, with huge jaws and long teeth, and wings about 18 inches long, It is said to have been in the habit of fly-just into a long teeth, and it is said to have been in the habit of fly-ing into a large elm tree on the banks of the lake, where it would proceed to emit a few hideous barks, like a dog's, and then fly back into the lake, hiding until it should desire more barking, John Vogt and Jim Hoyt both declare that it is an actuality, and that it is a dangerous necise of eas acreant like. angerous species of sea serpent, living n chickens, geese, ducks and other mail truck
