How to Listen to Music.
People often get intensely excited in listening to music—letting their emotions run rampant and suffering in consequence a painful reaction of fatigue, says Leslie's Magazine, if they would learn to yield so that the music could pass over their nerves as it passes over the strings of a musical instrument, and then, with the new life and vigor derived from the enjoyment, would turn to some useful work they would find a great expansion in the enjoyment of the music as well as a new pleasure in their work. If you enjoy good music, let it glow over your personal pleasure in it, do not speak, it takes the life out of us. If we let the music carry us along instead of trying to get our excitement to carry the music, it brings new life to us.

Man's Many and Varied Occupations for Valuable Documents.
A German town householder who has been writing valuable papers to his wife so late care of recently hunted all over the house for the insurance policy on his furniture, and could not find it. His wife, who had hidden it from him, said she had it, and he went to her room, and he found it under a pile of papers.

Life in all its primitiveness is to be found in Scandinavia.
In the north, perhaps, is most simple than in Dalecarlia. The pastures there are rich, and consequently the raising of cattle is the chief industry.

The Dollar Sign.
Have you ever wondered why this is used for the dollar mark? It is said that it was first used by a certain American colonist who used a small Spanish coin.

The Magical Cups of Tin.
This little trick, performed in a parlor, will make you appear quite a magician. Get beforehand two perfectly plain tin cups, without handles and with the bottom sunk about a quarter of an inch, and straight sides.
