

Woman's Kidney Troubles

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is Especially Successful in Curing This Fatal Disease.

Mrs. J. W. Lang and Mrs. S. Frake

Of all the diseases known, with which women are afflicted, kidney disease is the most fatal. In fact, unless early and correct treatment is applied, the weak patient seldom survives. Being fully aware of this, Mrs. Pinkham, early in her career, gave exhaustive study to the subject, and in producing her great remedy for woman's ills—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—was careful to see that it contained the correct combination of herbs which was sure to control that fatal disease, woman's kidney troubles. The Vegetable Compound acts in harmony with the laws that govern the entire female system, and while there are many so-called remedies for kidney troubles, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the only one especially prepared for women, and thousands have been cured of serious kidney derangements by it. Derangements of the feminine organs quickly affect the kidneys, and when a woman has such symptoms as pain or weight in the loins, backache, bearing down pains, urine too frequent, scanty or high colored, producing scalding or burning, or deposits like brick dust in it; or unusual thirst, swelling of hands and feet, swelling under the eyes or sharp pains in the back running down the inside of her legs, she may be sure her kidneys are affected and should lose no time in combating the disease with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the woman's remedy for woman's ills.

The following letters show how marvellously successful it is.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound: A Woman's Remedy for Woman's Ills.

Human Skulls Plentiful.
Gwando, a native town in Africa, contains between 10,000 and 15,000 inhabitants, and is surrounded by a number of poles, the top of every pole being crowned with a human skull. There are six gates and the approach to each gate is laid with a pavement of human skulls, the tops being the only parts that show above ground. More than 2,000 skulls are laid on the pavement leading up to each gate. The pavement is of snowy whiteness, polished to the smoothness of ivory. It is the passage of hundreds of naked feet.

Work of Holland Women.
In Holland the women work hard, though their labor is in keeping with woman's natural sphere. When it is necessary to do hard work, they take to cultivating bulbs, flowers and vegetables. And yet, outside of the large trams, women work in the brickyards. They stand out in the warmest weather smoothing the bricks and gathering them in great piles.

Buy Drinks in Advance.
A Welsh magistrate has decided that in a future transaction, or any other purchase and sale, a sale takes place when the money is paid for an article. So one may pay for his drinks before he has had them, and he may take them in the hours during which liquor must not be sold.

DEGRADED NERVES
DISTRESSING TROUBLES LEFT BY ST. VITUS AND GRIP.

Woman Afflicted for Years by Strange Spells of Numbness and Weakness, and Her Recovery Therefrom.

When she was fourteen years old, Mrs. Ida L. Brown had St. Vitus' dance. She finally got over the most noticeable features of the strange ailment, but was still troubled by various nervous affections, which she recently described as follows:

"One hand, half of my face, and half of my tongue would go cold and numb. These feelings would come on, last for about ten minutes, and then go away. Several times a day. Besides I would have palpitation of the heart, and my strength would get so low that I could hardly breathe. As time went on these spells kept coming often and grew much worse. The numbness would sometimes extend over half my body."

"How did you get over them?"
"It seemed for a long time as if I never could get rid of them. It was not until about six years ago that I found a remedy that had virtue enough to equal the case. That was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and they have since entirely cured me."

"Did it take long to effect a cure?"
"No! I hadn't taken the whole of the first box before I saw a great improvement. So I kept on taking them, growing better all the time until I had used the second box and then I was perfectly well, and I have remained in good health ever since with one exception."

"What was that?"
"Oh! that was when I had the grip. It was in bed, under the doctor's care, for two weeks. When I got up I had dreadful attacks of dizziness. I had to grasp hold of something or I would fall right down. It was just miserable, and I began to feel the doctor's hand upon me. When I got to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills again, in a short time they cured me of that trouble also, and I have never had any dizzy spells since."

Mrs. Brown lives at No. 1705 DeWitt Street, Madison, Wis. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended to her by a friend, and she took them in great haste and through cure of nervous prostration. They expelled the poison latent in the system, by each dose as grip and dizziness, and she took of tonic all the time. They are sold by every drug store.

Lucrezia City of Milan

(Special Correspondence.)

Vinci. The head of the youthful Saviour in the Ambrosian library collection in Milan is a picture that you may contemplate with great mental satisfaction, and which, as you continue to look at it, seems to open out infinite suggestions to the mind. There is a loving carefulness evident in the painting of it which seems to light upon the intellectual spirit of the artist. While it would be rash to judge the whole moral character of an artist from the work he has produced, one cannot but admit that he who has painted such a work must have felt all the beauty and pathos that appeal from it to the mind and heart of the spectator.

Figures of Saints in Frescoes.
In the church of San Stefano, where the church is divided into equal parts by a wall—the part nearest the street being allotted to public worship, and the other to the private chapel of the nuns, who were banished from this home of theirs in the last century—Borardino Luini has left many frescoes. His single figures of saints, standing in circles, bearing the palm of martyrdom, and his groups of angels, and the instruments of their torture, furnish fine examples of the large style of treatment and magnificent types that are characteristic of a restoration in necessary to their appreciation.

The works that are here, interesting as they are, do not fully express the great artistic qualities of this admirable painter. They are fragments of fresco decoration which he made for the church of San Stefano. In the room of the painter, which was situated near Monza. It is told of him that while here he fell in love with the daughter of a painter, who was a girl of surpassing beauty—and she always loved beauty. She had two other suitors, one a friend of Borardino Luini. These two artists had a tournament for the sake of Laura. Luini's friend was successful, but he would not marry her. Luini was set upon at night by the disappointed suitor, and Luini's friend was killed. Luini himself escaping almost by a miracle. The girl refused to consider the suit of the murderer, her affections going to the artist. Her friends would not hear of her marrying a painter, and she was finally abandoned to him. Years afterward, when Luini went to paint his exquisite frescoes at Lugano, he learned that she was an inmate of a convent in that city.

Artist's Portrait of Himself.
What the artist Borardino Luini was like to those who knew him, we see in the portrait of himself he has left in the "Dupate of Christ with the Doctors." He is an old man, with keen, thoughtful eyes, the brow wrinkled, as if with looking carefully at the world without, stern and calm, with his long flowing beard, and his thin way locks. Altogether, he is a type of great interest. Again he gives a profile portrait of himself, the "Adoration of the Magi," where in royal robes he kneels to the right of the picture with palms pressed together.

What an admirable work this "Adoration"—one of the Saronno series—! How noble and fully the tale is told. The virgin who holds the babe upon her lap is a figure that the artist has repeated in many pictures. In this, she is vigorous, with a most boy expression of countenance, on regular features, forming altogether a vision of real beauty reminding us of the work of the Greeks. The ox and the ass, that most interesting group which early fourth century art began to display, and which has held its ground as an

Medici Statue, Milan.
This painter so loved: Here is St. Cecilia, with the tubes of the broken organ standing at her feet, with her hands and feet and her crown of martyrdom in her left hand. This is no finished, meagre dweller of the doctor, but a lady of high birth and distinction. The arrangement of her drapery is in keeping with the dignity of her bearing and the grace of her features and her figure, and in appearance, and weighs nearly four tons.

"Bug Wagon" Death to Germs.
San Francisco's "bug wagon," the Board of Health's latest enterprise aiming toward the extinction of all forms of germs and bacteria, has had a practical test in a workshop at 233 Polson street. The various varieties of germs were placed on cards and in boxes, and the rate of air and mattress, which were placed in the oven or sterilizing box. Steam to the amount of thirty pounds pressure was turned on after twenty minutes it was withdrawn and a formation of chemical gases was allowed to take place in vacuum. Whether the germs met their death cannot be determined until after a post mortem, which is now in progress, the city of San Francisco, and the city of its kind to be built, is self-propelled and has a speed of about five miles an hour. The machine resembles a bicycle, and is made of iron and steel, and weighs nearly four tons.

Japanese Patriotism.
An enthusiastic admirer of the mikado's nation was extolling the patriotism of the Japanese to a little circle of friends in the University club the other evening.

"Why," said he, "every one of these little fellows will make any sacrifice to help his government along. Even the poor peasants do it, and never grumble at the taxes. There isn't a man of them that wouldn't willingly give up his last dollar to protect the remainder. The taxes are mighty hard on them, too. The tax on leather and shoes comes especially hard on the laboring people."

He got into a still deeper mood when he tried to explain that a similar feeling in Ireland once was mitigated by making the sole leathers of wood.—New York Herald.

Perfection of Cement.
In Germany puzzolanic cement is now a well recognized trade product, with a good reputation for its properties and hard setting. Even the cement is produced by grinding and thoroughly mixed 85 per cent of anate slag with 15 per cent of lime hydrate. Slag has also been used in Germany largely by the Portland cement manufacturers as a substitute for marl and limestone, and the claims that the latter has for strength is stronger than the ordinary cement authorities.—London Engineer.

To My Wife.
Not beauty of the marble set
Nor depth of light and color met
Nor did I find, in interest, the thing
Nor these the loveliness impart.
For, wert thou by my side,
The charm that makes the all that art
And earnest fealty to thee,
I would be content to live
For that beyond all fair I see
Thy face and tender features,
That Art's endeavor to portray,
For all that Beauty seems to say
Is in the center of thy eye.—
—George Sterling, in "Testimony of the Poets."

Undeniable.
R. Hinton, in telling this story of a friend of his who is a landscape painter. A model knocked at his studio door one morning. He opened it.

"Do you wish a model?" she asked.
"No," he answered, "I am a landscape painter."
"You're no longer," she said.
"You bet," said she, "that I am no landscape."—New York Times.

Many Persons Have Catarrh of Kidneys, Or Catarrh of Bladder and Don't Know It.

President Newhof and War Correspondent Richards Were Promptly Cured By Pe-ru-na.

Mr. C. B. Newhof, 19 Delaware street, Albany, N. Y., President Montefiore Club, writes:
"I have been frequently troubled with urinary ailments. The bladder seemed to be inflamed, and my back was stiff. I was catarrh caused by a protracted cold which would be difficult to overcome in any case. I took Pe-ru-na, hardly daring to believe that I would be cured, but I found to my relief that I soon began to feel better. The irritation gradually subsided and the urinary difficulties passed away. I enjoyed excellent health now for the past seven months. I enjoy my meals, sleep soundly, and am as well as I was twenty years ago. Give all praise to Pe-ru-na."—C. B. Newhof.

Suffered From Catarrh of Kidneys, Threatened With Nervous Collapse, Cured By Pe-ru-na.

Mr. F. B. Richards, 609 E. Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., War Correspondent, writes: "Twenty six years ago I was ordered to Cuba as staff correspondent of the New York Sun. I was in charge of the Spanish American war. The effect of the tropical climate and the nervous strain showed plainly on my return to the States. Lassitude, depression to the verge of melancholia, and a general kidney trouble made me practically an invalid. This undesirable condition continued despite the best of treatment. Finally a brother newspaperman, who like myself had served in the war, induced me to give a faithful trial to Pe-ru-na. I did so. In a short time the lassitude left me, my kidneys resumed a healthy condition, and a complete cure was effected. I cannot too strongly recommend Pe-ru-na to those suffering with kidney trouble. Today I am able to work as hard as at any time in my life, and the examiner for a leading insurance company pronounced me an 'A' risk."

Pe-ru-na Only Remedy For Real Benefit.
Mr. John Nims, 215 King's Highway, Toronto, Can., a prominent merchant of that city and also a member of the Masonic order, writes: "I have been in poor health generally for over four years. When I caught a bad cold last winter it settled in the bladder and kidneys, causing serious trouble. I took two greatly advertised kidney remedies without getting the desired results. Pe-ru-na is the only remedy which was really of any benefit to me. I have not had a trace of kidney trouble nor a cold in my system."

Pe-ru-na Contains No Narcotics.
One reason why Pe-ru-na has found permanent use in so many homes is that it contains no narcotics of any kind. Pe-ru-na is perfectly harmless. It can be used any length of time without acquiring a drug habit. Pe-ru-na does not produce temporary results. It is permanent in its effect.

In Poor Health Over Four Years.
Pe-ru-na Only Remedy For Real Benefit.

It has no bad effect upon the system, and gradually eliminates the catarrh by removing the cause of catarrh. There are a multitude of homes where Pe-ru-na has been used off and on for twenty years. Such a thing could not be possible if Pe-ru-na contained any drugs of a narcotic nature.
