How to Distill Water.
There is much use for distilled (pure) water in every house. No eye wash, for Instance, should ever be used unless made with distilled water. But is costs something to get a little distilled water from the drug store, so most people do without it.
Your home need not do without it.

Take a couple of bottles and pre-pare a cork that will fit so tight into the necks of both bottles that they will be airtight. Bore a hole through

And no doubt these lime holes could account for many of the white buildioes, so often reported by hunters.

Game of Noted Man.

The hostess begins by saying: "I know a celebrated poet, the dist part of whose name is very black, and the list has an elevations end of some other noted person. For instance, "Shakespeare," saying: "I know a noted author and poet, the first part of whose name people do when cold: the last part is a weapon of warfare." Only give the profession, nothing else. The following names readily lend themselves to this simple but instructive little game: Words-worth.

would kill you instantly. Besides, a point attracts the lightning, and thus keeps it from striking other parts of the building. The point is made of metal that does not easily corrode because corrosion or rust, increases the resistance, and a rusty point, therefore, might cause a violent and destructive discharge. If you have a lightning rod on your house, no doubt it has emptted many body's knowing anything about it.
