Coryell, West of this Village, Is Proving a Success.

"Yes," responded Mr. R. J. Coryell to the Eccentric, who called at his nursery it west of the village recently, "this is a nut factory. While I have been her ly four months, I now have growing N'My specialty is ornamental stock, yet there will be fruit trees and berry plants as well. The great demand at present is for good, atocky shrubs and ornamental plants with lots of roots and young, well-branched heals. These transplant easily and are sure to live. I have a fair stock of about all the best and most hardy kinds and will increase it as fast as I can. "Come on," said Mr. Coryell, "we will look around and I will explain as we go along. Here near the house is a collection of roses that comprise over yo kinds.

The are the monthly re with bloom. The are the monthly roses. I counted among them.

They flower from June to October. Of the two or three hundred varieties of this type, I have the crasm of the list. These rows that are out of bloom are the port of the cross and the Crimson Rambier and its hybrids. Of these there are new kinds pringing up every year, so now ne may have a Crimson Rambier in any color.

herbaccous plants, these latter are the coming thing in laws decoration. They die down in fall and reappear in the spring, and selection of several kinds will give a home flowers from Aprill to October. It is no wonder that the public are forsaking the annuals that have to be planted every year for these kind of plants that endure for a term of years. There are about 9,000 of these in this block and as many more in the propograting beds. Some of them are new to the Hastern growers. I have been doing invadesane work in Colorado for the past block and as many more in the propo-gating beds. Some of them are new to the Rastern growers. I have been doing landscape work in Colorado for the pest four years and I have brought back as me very fine things. They will flower next year and then you can see some of the plants of the mountains.

Another step was taken last week in the Tabor litigation which attracted considerable attention some three years ago. As the result of that litigation the subtered to the result of the result was ended W. J. Tabor. Before the suit was ended W. J. Tabor. The accounts were assigned to Warner and several others were creditors of W. Warner and be brought suit in the circuit court against Tabor by attachment claimed to own Tabor is in the property.
