Hay's Premonition of Death. Secretary Hay, less than a year ago, edicted that he would not live elve months longer. This was in nversation with James Dubois, a conversation with James Dubois, a state department official, and others. The latter expressed the hope that Mr. Hay would remain in the cabiteti during this presidential term, and thus serve longer as secretary of state-than any of his predecessors. The secretary said: "No, I shall not live to serve another year."
