

The smiling snowflakes all the all-weather that flutters here and there...

And while the miller trooped on by with quip and jest...

And while the miller trooped on by with quip and jest...

And while the miller trooped on by with quip and jest...

And while the miller trooped on by with quip and jest...

And while the miller trooped on by with quip and jest...

And while the miller trooped on by with quip and jest...

And while the miller trooped on by with quip and jest...

And while the miller trooped on by with quip and jest...

And while the miller trooped on by with quip and jest...

And while the miller trooped on by with quip and jest...

And while the miller trooped on by with quip and jest...

And while the miller trooped on by with quip and jest...

And while the miller trooped on by with quip and jest...

And while the miller trooped on by with quip and jest...

And while the miller trooped on by with quip and jest...

And while the miller trooped on by with quip and jest...

And while the miller trooped on by with quip and jest...

And while the miller trooped on by with quip and jest...

And while the miller trooped on by with quip and jest...

And while the miller trooped on by with quip and jest...

And while the miller trooped on by with quip and jest...

ADVENTURE OF A NEW

By JOHN MORTON (Copyright, 1945, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

"What's the matter with Eaton—has he ever jittered?" asked Perkins lighting a fresh cigar and gazing curiously at the receding figure of the confirmed old bachelor of the club...

"Why?" asked Brown. "Has he been jittered you a bunch of some?"

"Well, I should think so," replied Perkins. "I've seen Eaton and Ed twice in the last few days."

"No fire ahead, old man," responded Perkins. "It must be an apoplexy."

"It's a strange story," said Brown. "I've seen Eaton and Ed twice in the last few days."

"Well, money began to come easy and Pixley got tangled up with a lot of Pixley's swift friends in a business that was no more than a con game."

"When it was all over Eaton went to the entire matter before a court in order to straighten out the estate."

"I don't know," said Brown. "I don't know what the fact is, Mr. Reed. I retired from the field of neurological research quite early in life."

"On the 15th she was killed by an auto," said Brown. "I don't know what the fact is, Mr. Reed. I retired from the field of neurological research quite early in life."

"I'm so glad you like them," said the young woman, quietly. "I thought you'd like them."
