Frenzied Advertising.

These are days of Frenzied Advertising as well as Frenzied Finance. Two of our dry good merchants are out with full sheet advertising bills. The north end dealer says "The south side man is guilty of fake closing out sales, his cellar filled with bum goods that are shop worn, old style and worthless."

COFFEE

Whitehead & Mitchell. We mean a cup that has that rich nutty flavor, brown like unto a hazel nut, and pleasing to the most fastidious taste, worth perhaps 40 cents a pound.

THE THIRD FIRE! A GREAT SUCCESS BIG FAIR PROFITS

A Marks' Hoop and Slave Mill Burns Early Sunday Morning—Loss $4000.

No sound was made, but a deep sea heard, Everybody slept, And never heard a word.

People coming down town early Sunday morning were astonished to hear that during the night the best manufacturing plant in our village had been wiped out by fire and nothing done to extinguish it.

People within the length of two city blocks were undisturbed and all slept the sleep of the righteous even the factory, almost the nearest house to the factory, was not disturbed until the fire had done its work then one of the spectators called out to the fireman, Mr. Allen and told him all about it.

Sunday morning Mr. Whitehead called Mr. Marks up by telephone and informed him of his loss and in a stolid philosophical manner asked him how he felt about it.

Was the New England Supper by the Presbyterian Ladies Last Week Friday.

The New England supper last Friday evening in the O'Neal hall, given by the ladies of the Presbyterian church was the success, realizing about $45. The menu, consisting of pork and beans, scalloped potatoes, corned beef, etc., was the finest ever accompanied by appropriate favors, white hearts tied with red, white and blue ribbon and having pictures of George and Martha Washington on them.

Fred Postal, President of the Michigan Agricultural Society Says It is a Sure Thing.

It may not be generally known, but Mr. Fred Postal, of Detroit, Michigan, is one of our associate editors on this great modern journal. With all his wisdom, trials and tribulations he still edits the sporting columns of The Eclectic and says and believes what he says like this:

"I have not my stakes at $100,000 as the net profits that are going to be made out of the state fair in 1906, and it is going to be that or bust with me," said Fred Postal, president of the Michigan Agricultural Society.

"I have not a word to say about how the state fair has been managed in the past, but the contingent that we have in the fair is probably the best that has ever been under the circumstances, but conditions have changed, and there are a score of ways in which we can see that the fair can be made more profitable to all concerned."

"For instance, one concession that we got $2500 last year, you are selling to the highest bidder this year, probably between $600 and $700, with half a dozen others yet to be heard from. Another concession that we got $1000 for the privilege of letting the people try to throw rings upon the heads of crows, we got $150 for the same, and this year we got $300, with an advance deposit of $100 that we already have in our hands."

"We are going to spend about $150,000 on free attractions, and they are going to be of such a nature that they will draw the people from all over the state. J. H. Moore, manager of the fair, is going to be able to take care of them. This is no joke, I think the city will be spending 40 ways to spend what to do with the crowds."
