

FOR CRUSE OF LABOR DEATH CALLS LADY GURZOR

AMERICAN FEDERATION ENTERS FIELD OF POLITICS. APPEAL MADE TO TOILERS

Washington, D.C., July 27.—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor Sunday made good its declaration of a general strike to enter the field of politics in the interest of the labor movement and to elect all members and friends of organized labor to the offices of men known to be favorable to labor's cause.

London.—Lady Curzon, of Kedleston, wife of the former viceroy of India who has been ill for some days, died at 5:40 o'clock Wednesday evening. She never fully recovered from serious illness at Welwyn, Hertfordshire, in 1904, and the recent hot weather brought on a pronounced attack of general debility.

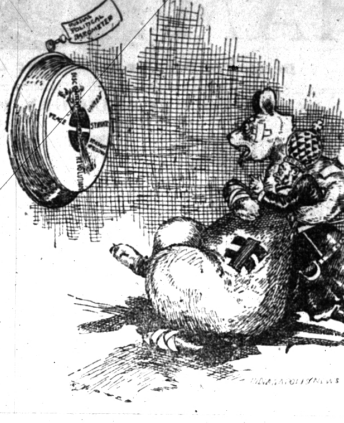

Washington.—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor Sunday made good its declaration of a general strike to enter the field of politics in the interest of the labor movement and to elect all members and friends of organized labor to the offices of men known to be favorable to labor's cause.

London.—Lady Curzon, of Kedleston, wife of the former viceroy of India who has been ill for some days, died at 5:40 o'clock Wednesday evening.

London.—Lady Curzon, of Kedleston, wife of the former viceroy of India who has been ill for some days, died at 5:40 o'clock Wednesday evening.

London.—Lady Curzon, of Kedleston, wife of the former viceroy of India who has been ill for some days, died at 5:40 o'clock Wednesday evening.

DEATH OF RUSSELL SAGE, NOTED GOTHAM FINANCIER

FAMOUS WALL STREET CHARACTER SUCCEMS TO HEART DISEASE—ESTIMATES OF HIS WEALTH VARY.

New York.—Russell Sage died suddenly Sunday morning at his home in New York City, at the age of 72 years.

New York.—Russell Sage died suddenly Sunday morning at his home in New York City, at the age of 72 years.

New York.—Russell Sage died suddenly Sunday morning at his home in New York City, at the age of 72 years.

New York.—Russell Sage died suddenly Sunday morning at his home in New York City, at the age of 72 years.

PRISONERS CANNOT BE TAUGHT TRADES SAVS SUPREME COURT.

Justice Carpenter's View of the Result Is That Consequences Will Not Be Serious, as Feared.

St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—The Supreme Court today in the case of Martin Meador and others against the warden and board of control of the state prison at Jackson, Mo., decided that the making of brooms by convicts amounts to the teaching of a trade in state prison and is therefore prohibited by the state constitution.

St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—The Supreme Court today in the case of Martin Meador and others against the warden and board of control of the state prison at Jackson, Mo., decided that the making of brooms by convicts amounts to the teaching of a trade in state prison and is therefore prohibited by the state constitution.

St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—The Supreme Court today in the case of Martin Meador and others against the warden and board of control of the state prison at Jackson, Mo., decided that the making of brooms by convicts amounts to the teaching of a trade in state prison and is therefore prohibited by the state constitution.

St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—The Supreme Court today in the case of Martin Meador and others against the warden and board of control of the state prison at Jackson, Mo., decided that the making of brooms by convicts amounts to the teaching of a trade in state prison and is therefore prohibited by the state constitution.

St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—The Supreme Court today in the case of Martin Meador and others against the warden and board of control of the state prison at Jackson, Mo., decided that the making of brooms by convicts amounts to the teaching of a trade in state prison and is therefore prohibited by the state constitution.

St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—The Supreme Court today in the case of Martin Meador and others against the warden and board of control of the state prison at Jackson, Mo., decided that the making of brooms by convicts amounts to the teaching of a trade in state prison and is therefore prohibited by the state constitution.

St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—The Supreme Court today in the case of Martin Meador and others against the warden and board of control of the state prison at Jackson, Mo., decided that the making of brooms by convicts amounts to the teaching of a trade in state prison and is therefore prohibited by the state constitution.

St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—The Supreme Court today in the case of Martin Meador and others against the warden and board of control of the state prison at Jackson, Mo., decided that the making of brooms by convicts amounts to the teaching of a trade in state prison and is therefore prohibited by the state constitution.

St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—The Supreme Court today in the case of Martin Meador and others against the warden and board of control of the state prison at Jackson, Mo., decided that the making of brooms by convicts amounts to the teaching of a trade in state prison and is therefore prohibited by the state constitution.

St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—The Supreme Court today in the case of Martin Meador and others against the warden and board of control of the state prison at Jackson, Mo., decided that the making of brooms by convicts amounts to the teaching of a trade in state prison and is therefore prohibited by the state constitution.

St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—The Supreme Court today in the case of Martin Meador and others against the warden and board of control of the state prison at Jackson, Mo., decided that the making of brooms by convicts amounts to the teaching of a trade in state prison and is therefore prohibited by the state constitution.

St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—The Supreme Court today in the case of Martin Meador and others against the warden and board of control of the state prison at Jackson, Mo., decided that the making of brooms by convicts amounts to the teaching of a trade in state prison and is therefore prohibited by the state constitution.

St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—The Supreme Court today in the case of Martin Meador and others against the warden and board of control of the state prison at Jackson, Mo., decided that the making of brooms by convicts amounts to the teaching of a trade in state prison and is therefore prohibited by the state constitution.

St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—The Supreme Court today in the case of Martin Meador and others against the warden and board of control of the state prison at Jackson, Mo., decided that the making of brooms by convicts amounts to the teaching of a trade in state prison and is therefore prohibited by the state constitution.

St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—The Supreme Court today in the case of Martin Meador and others against the warden and board of control of the state prison at Jackson, Mo., decided that the making of brooms by convicts amounts to the teaching of a trade in state prison and is therefore prohibited by the state constitution.

St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—The Supreme Court today in the case of Martin Meador and others against the warden and board of control of the state prison at Jackson, Mo., decided that the making of brooms by convicts amounts to the teaching of a trade in state prison and is therefore prohibited by the state constitution.

St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—The Supreme Court today in the case of Martin Meador and others against the warden and board of control of the state prison at Jackson, Mo., decided that the making of brooms by convicts amounts to the teaching of a trade in state prison and is therefore prohibited by the state constitution.

St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—The Supreme Court today in the case of Martin Meador and others against the warden and board of control of the state prison at Jackson, Mo., decided that the making of brooms by convicts amounts to the teaching of a trade in state prison and is therefore prohibited by the state constitution.

St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—The Supreme Court today in the case of Martin Meador and others against the warden and board of control of the state prison at Jackson, Mo., decided that the making of brooms by convicts amounts to the teaching of a trade in state prison and is therefore prohibited by the state constitution.