Detroit is cheap tickets for the workingmen, universal transfers and many concessions are greater than we expected to see offered to the people of our first city. If some new-born company with a fanfare of trumpets, had made all these offers, the Aldermen to unite, without doubt would be shouting, "amen," "glory," "hurray" etc., etc. Even some people are kicking and a yelling for more and more. It is a habit and becomes chronic with some people. We think from what we know about the D. U. R., its excellent service, clean cars and its up-to-date, great stoves, that Detroit will be glad to accept the offer. We would if we had a vote.

In all the papers we find a lot of gawk about the man behind the counter—and the man behind the gun; the man behind the buzz-saw and the man behind the son; the man behind the times and the man behind the rents; the man behind the jaw-shave and the man behind the fence; the man behind the whistles and the man behind the horns; the man behind the kodak and the man behind the bars; the man behind the whippers and the man behind his fist; But they have skipped another fellow of whom nothing has been said—the fellow who is even a little ahead of what he gets; whose bills are always signed—he is a blamed sight more important than the man who is behind. All we editors and merchants and the whole commercial class are indebted for their existence to this honest fellow-man. He keeps us all in business and his town is never dead; and so we take our hats off to the man who we adore.
