

The Working Girl in the City

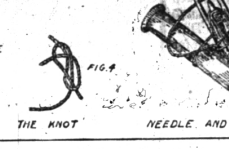

FORCED TO SEEK RECREATION IN PUBLIC PLACES.

Crowded and Unattractive Homes Make Such Activities Necessary. Have Legitimate Title to Fun and Agreeable Society.

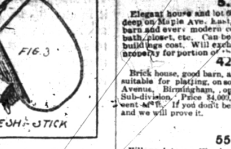

BY MARGARET E. SANGSTER. Anywhere on the east side of New York or in a similar quarter in any large commercial city, the streets overflow with young people in the evenings. If there happens to be a park or a bit of open space with an occasional tree and benches here and there, the student of social conditions will note that a good deal of unemployed leisure-making is going on.

Looking as if she had taken a bath and combed her hair in her own room, as her sisters on the Avenue do, the result is simply another proof of the enormous powers of the modern woman. The only spot in most of these quarters where any of the family can be seen is also living room and dining-room by day and sleeping room by night.

A working girl who has stood at her loom or sat at her desk or waited on customers all day, is tired at nightfall and wants fresh air and exercise. She wants to breathe, she wants to see the millionaire's daughter whom she envies, she wants to see the girl who is also living room and dining-room by day and sleeping room by night.

Netting is an art easily acquired, and is a pleasant pastime for housewives, the greatest difficulty being to tear oneself away from the fascination of the work once the stitch has been learned. There is just enough movement to prevent your feeling wholly idle, leaving the thoughts to wander over the coming summer season when your hammock or tennis net will be put out. Besides, it lends an additional charm to those sought-after objects to know that they are the work of your own hand, says the Montreal Herald. It may be too early to start making summer articles, but there are still things such as fishing nets, chair seats, and the like, which may be made for immediate use.

A COLLEGE PRODIGY.

Freshman at Tufts Who is Only Eleven Years Old.

There entered Tufts college recently as a freshman a lad who holds the record as the youngest collector in the country. He is Norbert Wiener, 11 years of age, the son of Prof. Leo Wiener, of Harvard, and of Prof. Leo Wiener, of Harvard, and of Prof. Leo Wiener, of Harvard.

WHENCE CAME THE BIRDS?

An Indian Legend that is Still Believed by Many Tribes.

An Indian story that has been handed down and is still believed by many Indian tribes, is one about the transformation of leaves into birds. Long years ago, when the world was young, the Great Spirit went about the earth making it beautiful. Whenever his feet touched the ground, leaves and flowers sprang up. All summer the Great Spirit went about the earth making it beautiful. Whenever his feet touched the ground, leaves and flowers sprang up.

Work Bag Easily Made at Home

Dainty, Appropriate, and Always Welcome Gift.

For any friends who are housekeepers, bags of all sorts and all purposes are always welcome presents. For a friend who is never idle, the work bag here illustrated would be an appropriate gift. It is useful and may be ornamental as well.

Make it of any material preferred. An embroidery was chosen in this instance for the inside. Cut a perfect circle about 18 inches in diameter of the material, and draw down nearly to the middle of the circle, and then draw the ribbon to draw the bag up. This idea can be improved by adding a ring, or by attaching the edge. This bag is designed to hold catch-up for odd moments, but could be used for other purposes.

Lace Veil Has Feminine Fancy

Simple Treatment to Make Material Almost Like-New.

Velvet so easily plishes that it is an extravagant article to use. Grease spots or a stain caused by wear may be removed with turpentine rubbed on behind with the hand. Two or three applications may be necessary. The pile of the velvet may be raised by stretching it tightly over the top of a basin holding boiling water and stretching it gently in the opposite direction with a soft brush. Most velvets will wash, not once, but many times, if they are handled properly. But through two or three washings of warm water, and a moderately stiff brush along the pile as the material lies stretched on the washing board. Rinse in cold, clear water to which has been added salt and hang drying wet in a shady place to dry. Do not squeeze or rub but if dirty, use the brush liberally.
