LATEST NEWS OF MICHIGAN

WRECK OF THE CYPRUS AND LOSS OF TWENTY-TWO LIVES LATEST DISASTER.

WENT DOWN LIKE A SHOT

Story of the Sole Survivor Shows that Carelessness with Hatches Caused the Sinking of the Steamer.

Survivor's Story Confirmed.

There now seems little doubt that the most terrible marine disaster of the present season, the sinking of the Lackawanna freighter Cyprus Friday night near Deer Park, on Lake Superior, was due directly to the failure of the captain and the crew of the wrecked vessel to cover the hatches with the canvas tarpaulin designed for that purpose. The story of the sole survivor, Second Mate C. J. Pitt, and of Capt. Harbottle, of the Pittsburg Steamship Company's steamer George Stephenson, the first vessel to see the Cyprus before she sunk, confirms this belief.

It was late Saturday afternoon before Mate Pitt had recovered from exhaustion sufficiently to give a coherent account of the wreck. He says the Cyprus was making fairly good weather in the seas, when suddenly the cargo shifted, giving the craft a heavy list. Water began pouring into the hatches and a panic ensued, many of the crew putting on life preservers. Capt. Huyck, however, felt confident he could reach shelter behind Whitefish point, and the boats were not lowered.

Both engine and pumps were working, and the crew felt sure the vessel would not sink without warning. But the big freighter rolled over on her side and almost instantly plunged to the bottom.

When the vessel rolled over the first and second mate, a watchman and a wheelsman were close to a life raft, which they cut loose and cast off just in time to escape the whirlpool which was caused by the Cyprus, as she plunged beneath the surface.

The boat sunk about 7 o'clock, and until 2 a. m. the four men clung to this frail support, while the waves drove them ashore. Five times in the angry surf on the rocky shore the raft was upset and carried off by the undertow. After the last time with the surf the raft had but one occupant. The others, benumbed and exhausted, having given up the fight. The sixth time the raft was thrown high on the beach and Pitt crawled to safety, where he was found later by the life-saving patrolman.

The story of the captain of steamer Stephenson throws additional light upon the mystery surrounding the sinking of the large freighter in an ordinary gale of wind not sufficient to drive any but smaller lake craft to shelter. The captain of the Stephenson expressed the conviction that the vessel had foundered because her pumps were unable to handle the flood of water pouring into the doomed ship through her hatches.

The Cyprus passed the Stephenson about 1 p. m. Friday, so closely that Capt. Harbottle, of the latter ship, could easily see the deck of the Lackawanna freighter. He says the cabin was coverings for the hatches were not in place and that the seas which were coming in on her quarter kept the decks of the Cyprus continually awash. The latter's pumps were working and the water discharged was highly discolored by iron ore, indicating that the water had entered the hold of the ship. Inasmuch as the Cyprus was a brand new vessel, there seems little likelihood that her plates had been strained in any manner, or that a leak had developed below the water line.

The Cyprus was on her second trip from the head of the lakes, having been built at the Lorain yard of the American Shipbuilding Co., and launched August 17.

Shot by Careless Boy.

Miss Frederica Appell, aged 18, comely and accomplished Muskegon school teacher, is at Hackley hospital, where doctors say she may die as the result of a gunshot wound in her left leg.

Miss Appell was shot by Alvin Raddiz, 15, at whose home she was visiting. The boy loaded a double-barreled shotgun about 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon and not knowing it was cocked, pointed it in the direction of Miss Appell. The gun fired from one barrel took effect and the victim's clothes started to blaze. Sisters of the boy hurried to the room and smothered the fire with blankets.

The injury was not noticed at first and Miss Appell lost considerable blood. She was taken to the hospital, where the injured member was amputated, just below the knee. Blood poisoning is feared. Miss Appell exonerates young Raddiz from all blame.

Prosecuting Attorney Stewart, of Battle Creek, is out with his "hook" again, and this time it is for proprietors of pool and billiard halls, who even allow boys under 17 years to "look on."

The Menominee police have in custody Anton Schick, 15, who fired a shotgun point blank at his sister Ella, 17, and Kate Lentz, 20. Schick was arrested while playing cards. He displays an astounding indifference. The girls are in the hospital suffering from shot wounds through the lungs.

Gov. Warner refused the request of the naval reserves to recommend the increase of the naval tax from three-quarters to one cent. Two ships are now under construction.

There are thirty-eight students in the U. of M. forestry department, which is the largest assembly of young men studying the science in the United States.

Bert Goodall, colored, is under arrest charged with assaulting Alderman Jackson, of Jackson. It is alleged that the alderman caught Goodall stealing coal from his coal yard and was struck on the head with a chunk of coal, injuring him seriously.

After being up all night, dancing, singing and playing at a wedding of a relative in his own home, Matthew Lotocki, a Williams township farmer, went to his barn to rest. He pulled hay into a piece of canvas over him self and went to sleep. He was found dead. Doctors say heart disease killed him.

The Ann Arbor fair grounds have been chosen as the athletic field of the U. of M. "co-eds" and will likely be purchased as a permanent field.

Kalamazoo college will ask the churches of the state for $55,000 needed to obtain the $25,000 offered by the Baptist national board of education.

Selina Pearise, aged 4, of Pontiac, at green apples and died.

Governor Warner appointed Andrew J. Dole county agent for Antrim county. He takes office at Bellaire.

Farmers of Monroe county will organize a protective association to prevent the theft of farm property.

Following disclosures of Matilda Brown, aged 16 years, the police have started a campaign to close all resorts.

William S. Edwards, a Union station porter, was crushed between two baggage trucks in Lansing and died from his injuries.

A new rural high school has been instituted at Orleans, Ionia county, by Deputy Superintendent of Public Instruction French.

William W. Mercer, of Somerset, a Democrat, was elected chairman of the board of supervisors, which has a Republican majority.

The Peoples State Savings bank of Fenton, capital $25,000, has filed articles of incorporation with the state banking commissioner.

A pimple on the neck of Edward W. Hoyt, of Jackson, a mail clerk, developed into erysipelas and the doctors say he cannot live.

Martin Wright, aged 20, of Lansing, fell asleep when sentenced to two and one-half to five years in Ionia for larceny, and his mother swooned.

Mrs. William Day, a prominent Camden woman, slipped and fell down a flight of steps in the rear of their home, and broke her wrist.

Many mayors and county officials have asked Gov. Warner for permission to join his party to the Jamestown exposition for Michigan day, October 26.

Thirty-five machinists, who demanded the reinstatement of three men who were discharged by the Clark Motor Co., of Jackson, for being active unionists, have gone out on a strike and refused.

Mrs. Jane H. Calkins, wife of a Port Huron cigar manufacturer and former mayor of Owosso, died in that city as the result of a stroke of paralysis while attempting to lift a heavy grip.

Chris. Bassick, aged 11, and Carl Glogofski, aged 12, are under arrest in Lansing for stealing a cow. When approached by officers the boys cut, ran them, but were later captured.

M. Fisher, of Lansing, and Mrs. Susan Spencer, of Bell Oak, believed to be the oldest twins in Michigan celebrated their 85th birthday at the home of the latter. Many guests were present.

State Railroad Commissioner Dick Dinon has returned from a trip to Ohio, where he conferred with rail road commissioners of that state, full of tips and information relative to rail way matters.

James Gross, a Chicago steelworker fell 65 feet down an elevator shaft in Battle Creek, broke a hardwood plank at the bottom, and as he got up unin jured remarked: "I have had just as bad falls as that before."

Thomas Walker, 14 years old, of St. Joseph, died Thursday from injuries received several days ago when he fell from a pile of lumber. He lost consciousness shortly afterward and never regained his senses.

Angel Frastor, 9 years old, has arrived in Lansing from Greece with tags in four languages attached to his clothing. He traveled alone the entire distance, nearly three weeks being required for the trip.

E. E. Hinaw, 67, is dead at his home in Leland. He was county clerk of Leelanau county for 12 years. He came to Michigan from Ohio 40 years ago and was one of the northern Michigan's best known residents.

Many farmers round about Carleton are reporting that their potato crop is rotting in the hills, caused by the recent rains. It is feared that the crop will be short and that excessive prices will prevail before next spring.

Joseph Abair, a Fairhaven farmer, took his son, John Abair, home from the Pontiac hospital. The boy had been ill and wandered about the state, finally making his home for several weeks in a deserted Royal Oak barn.

In a 50-foot launch Simon and Jacob Shunk, of Sault Ste. Marie, have their families left for Florida, via Lake Michigan drainage canal and the Mississippi and expect to return next year by way of the Atlantic ocean and Erie canal.

About to climb down a steep embankment to the railroad tracks at Nestoria, Michael Phillips, an employe of the D. S. S. & A. railroad at that place, missed his footing and fell and broke his neck. When picked up he was dead.

John Van Vleet, convict, who stabbed Charles Douglass, another convict, to death, was arraigned before Judge Jenks in the Michigan state prison Thursday afternoon on a charge of murder. He demanded an examination and it was set for October 18.

A Port Huron man whose wife has asked the circuit court for a divorce, alleges in his cross-bill that she at one time entered a saloon in St. Clair with their little child in her arms, and after requesting a drink made the remark, "a schuper of beer in one hand and a baby in the other, drink hearty."

A verdict of $18,250, the largest ever awarded in the Bay circuit, was given to Frank Mason, a former switchman, against the Michigan Central railway. Several months ago Mason caught his foot in a frog, which he alleged was not properly protected, as he stepped from a train. He lost one leg as the result, and his wife's memory he was overcome with emotion.

The body of Edward Strole, suicide was taken from Battle Creek to Akron O., Sunday for interment. It was the third sad chapter of this character in the life of unfortunate Henry Strole and his family, now nearly blind himself, has had two suicide sons and a murdered daughter brought home for burial.

After a separation of nearly fifty years, Charles Rahn, of Osego, is visiting his son and daughter in Rochester, N. Y.

When a man's wife goes away for a month's visit the chances are that he enjoys it as much as she does.

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

STATE SOLONS OPEN UP AGAIN AND A NEW PRIMARY BILL IS WORKING.

TAX BILL FEELS A CHILL

The So-called "Boxers" Are Busy Over a Bill—The Lobby Bill Not Warmly Supported.

The Work in Hand.

The legislature is working again. The "Boxers" are preparing a primary bill which will change the present law so that candidates for the United States senate shall be nominated at primaries, and for one instead of two primaries in the year. These will be the only amendments. The 40 per cent requirement for governor and lieutenant governor will be retained.

Gov. Warner said last night that even these two amendments would be a good thing.

Concerning the lobby bill it may be a surprise to many of the good taxpayers of Michigan that there is opposition to it among the legislators. In conversations some members sneer and ridicule the bill. Some other members are soberly scanning it for flaws and what they pretend to suspect may be flaws. It would prohibit a client talking with his lawyer about a legislative bill if the lawyer happened to be a member of the legislature, is a sample of the reasons that the knockers are throwing at it. Then, too, the knockers are singing the lobbyists' song one inch. At any rate this session is too short to consider such an important bill."

Representatives of telegraph and telephone companies are beginning to arrive in Lansing for the public hearings before senate and house committees on the Bland-Jerome bill for ad valorem taxation of telegraph and telephone companies. The senate's disposition to pass the bill remains unchanged, but the house seems colder, though the floor organization which drove the popular bill through last session is at work for this bill.

The express companies will not be allowed to figure ocean mileage in their computation on which their taxes are based, it is said, whether the legislature expressly forbids such computation, as recommended in the governor's message, or not. The state tax commission is disposed to take the initiative and compute the taxes without the absurd mileage, and let the express companies fight in the courts if they see fit. The effect of affairs heightens the likelihood that the bill prohibiting the computation of ocean mileage will pass.

By the figures in the governor's message the average valuation per mile would be $49.62, if ocean mileage is reckoned on. If it is not considered, the valuation per mile would be $184.86 and the total would be $292,045 and $968,278, so the valuation at stake is about $675,000.

GREAT GUNS.

The Eighth District Indorses Cannon for President.

Speaker Joseph G. Cannon was indorsed for the presidency and the delegates to the national convention asked to support him after a warm argument in the eighth district Republican convention at Owosso between Congressman Joseph W. Fordney and Odell Chapman, of Shiawassee county.

President Roosevelt's administration was indorsed. The fight began over a clause in the platform offered by the committee on resolutions. It read:

In view of the reiterated refusals of President Roosevelt to permit the use of his name in connection with the next presidential nomination for that office, we earnestly recommend the name of Hon. Joseph G. Cannon, of Illinois, for that office, and supported the policies of President Roosevelt.

In the vote all of Tuscola, Saginaw, Clinton and some of the Shiawassee county delegates voted with Fordney, while Chapman had only the support of Frank Watson and five loyal Shiawassee men.

The resolution adopted also opposed further reduction in tariff rates on imports from the Philippines, advised following the policy of protection to American labor and capital, and indorsed the Panama canal work and the service of Fordney.

The latter and E. O. Dewey, Owosso postmaster, were selected as delegates and F. W. Gilchrist, who withdrew from the race four years ago to permit the convention to be harmonious, was indorsed as delegate-at-large for next year.

An outbreak of diphtheria has closed the Sunday creek schools.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hinman, of Caledonia township, celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary last week. They have lived in the township 52 years.

John Kelliher, a Grand Trunk engineer, was thrown from the cab of his engine near Marcellus, Monday, and lies in a critical condition.

Mrs. J. E. Brewster, wife of a Bay City railroad man, took strychnine following a quarrel with her husband. The prompt arrival of a physician, who worked over her for two hours, saved her life and she is no longer anxious to die.

An honorary commission as major has been issued to Leonard C. Sparks, commandant of the Michigan Military academy cadets.

Fishermen operating in Lake Superior are in receipt of information of a recent act of the legislature reducing the size of the mesh in catching blue fins. If not only means a loss of several thousand dollars' worth of nets of the larger mesh which now are valueless, but the new law is incongruous. It was the purpose of the legislature to eliminate catching of "small trout," and fishermen argue that it is odd policy to use a small-mesh net in order to avoid catching small fish.

It was not the world's base ball championship games that attracted Newell A. Eddy, Jr., and Miss Mary F. Moore, to Detroit Saturday, as their friends in Bay City really suppose. Dan Cupid was the real attraction and the announcement of their marriage was more than a surprise. Even their parents had no inkling of the young people's plans. Both are prominent.

While waiting for her train, Mrs. Michael Kolcotski, of Detroit, was taken ill and fell to the stone floor of the Bay City depot. She struck her head and suffered a slight concussion of the brain.

Compromise Failed.

The legislature reached a definite stage at the close of the first week of the special session. The Mt. Pleasant school appropriation bill passed both houses, with only $5,500 added to the bill as it passed the house last spring, $6,000 of this sum being needed for a heating conduit and the balance being an additional allowance needed to convert an unfinished portion of the main building into class rooms.

The various efforts of the administration to pass a primary bill culminated when the first compromise bill failed of passage, receiving seventeen votes, only 16 votes, the 16 senators who voted against the primary bill last session voted against it at the special session. The anti-administration members discussing the advisability of presenting a primary bill. Senator Cropsey said in open senate that they would have a bill Monday, yet the conference Wednesday night did not bring a decision. The final vote on the primary bill was:

Yeas—Senators Allen, Bates, Bland, Edinborough, Fairbanks, Fuller, Fyfe, Kline, Lugers, Martindale, Ring, Russell, Seeley, Wetmore, Yeomans—16.

Nays—Senators Cady, Carton, Cropsey, Jenks, Kane, Keyes, Kinnane, Linsley, John D. MacKay, William McKay, Moriarty, Peck, Smith, Traver, Tuttle, Whitney—16.

Gov. Warner's second message read to the house Thursday morning, contained a section which aroused considerable discussion.

Final Adjournment.

Though the legislators wish strongly to cease business the last of this week and to have the date of final adjournment in next week, the business still before the session is very great, and it may be impossible to adjourn so soon.

The Mt. Pleasant Normal school bill has passed. The members hope to settle the primary bill, the military bill, the Jackson courts bill, and the soldiers' home bill, by Thursday. But the ad valorem tax bill, the bill against stock watering, and the ocean mileage bill, are still left. These bills make the prospect of sessions next week look more real. If the legislature sits next week the house must divide the day with the constitutional convention, which under the law must meet in Representative hall.

A Pathetic Story.

A pathetic story was revealed at the county board of supervisors following the death of Mrs. Lydia Mack, 85, an inmate of that institution. Her husband, John Mack, also an octogenarian, came to see the undertaker who had been called, and informed him that in an old shop in the city of Dowagiac, hidden away in a tin can in a pile of rubbish, a fortune could be found, would be found money to pay the dead wife's funeral expenses. A search revealed a can containing $29, which had been saved by the old man's meager earnings during his later years and had been stored away by him when he worked in that shop. Not even the dire poverty which forced them to the county house a few weeks ago tempted him to use it for any other purpose.

AROUND THE STATE.

While returning on a visit to his mother in Ludington, Archie Upper, of Scottville, met his fate on a freight train. Both legs were cut off and he will probably die.

With his home burning, C. M. Bump, of Bay City, a brother of the late Orrin Bump, attended to the burial of a funeral, and left the firemen in charge of his blazing home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ebenezer Pennock, of Hastings, who came to Barry county 63 years ago when it was a Hyan meaps, celebrated their 64th wedding anniversary last week.

Judge C. C. Chittenden will retire from the twenty-eighth judicial circuit next year, and a resident of Alpena will be chosen to succeed him. He resides where his sons now live and where he has extensive interests.

Disregarding his physician's advice, Walter Hale, aged 19, played football with the Hamilton high school team after recovering from an attack of typhoid fever, and died from paralysis.

Judge C. H. Gage in the circuit court ordered Saginaw officials to accept running water of Flint and Holly without the union label, holding the provision requiring it unconstitutional.

A baby, given to its grandparents by its mother on her deathbed, was stolen, it is charged, by Mrs. Thomas Jones, from the home of the grandmother, Mrs. Ferdinand Smith, in Traverse City.

Herman Lowe, of Washington, D. C., died last week in that city, where he had for many years been in the pension department. Ionia was his home, he having been, for many years in business there.

A dog given to a friend in New Orleans two years ago by William Farmer, of Bay City, returned to its former owner last week, the faithful animal found its way from New Orleans is a mystery.

More than 200 farmers of Orleans met at the town hall and took the first steps toward organizing a township grade system in Ionia county. It is proposed to merge eight schools in one and put up a $12,000 twelve-grade school building.

Secretary Taft writes J. A. Wagner, president of the U. of M. Taft club, that he accepts the invitation of the club to a banquet. The secretary will probably speak at the Alumni Lecture association when he visits the university April 1.

Moy Lin Sam, a Chinaman who was held in Lansing with four others, was released by commissioner Dickinson showing that he was born in Seattle, Wash., and had not entered the United States in violation of the exclusion act. The others were released on bail.

After sailing on salt water for 13 years, Capt. I. L. Evans, of Baltimore, Md., master of the sandsucker General Gillespie, operating on the east shore of Lake Michigan, has resigned to become a law student at the U. of M. He served as pilot of the battleship Missouri on her trial trip around the Horn.

Pontiac high school students or others besmeared the high school and the walks leading to the school with black paint and various inscriptions calculated to provoke mirth at the expense of the school management. The matter has been taken in charge by the officials and, as this is the second similar offense within the past year, severe punishment is promised the offenders.

Paul Hemble, a Hungarian, was crushed under a ton or more of cement and instantly killed at the Hecla cement plant in Bay City. He leaves a widow and one child in the old country.

TOWN BLOWN UP. THIRTY DEAD

ONE HUNDRED INJURED BY THE AWFUL EXPLOSION OF POWDER MILLS.

FONTANET, IND., WRECKED

The Whole Village Wiped Out and the Country Round About is Panic-Stricken.

Inhabitants Homeless.

From 25 to 30 persons dead and dying, 100 injured and every house in Fontanet destroyed, rendering 700 residents homeless, is the result of the explosion of the mills of the Dupont Powder Co., near Fontanet, at 9:15 o'clock Tuesday. The mills burned and the bodies of the killed cannot be recovered. Every building in the town and within a radius of half a mile, including the school house, is wrecked. The Big Four railroad has a special train at the scene of the accident with physicians and the injured will be brought to the hospitals in Brazil. Supt. Monahan, of the powder mills, is missing and is supposed to be in the debris. Panic prevailed among the residents of the surrounding country.

There were three explosions shortly after 9 o'clock and a fourth one at 10 o'clock, in which a number of the physicians were slightly injured, among them Drs. Willien and Moore, of Brazil.

The shock from the explosion was felt in Indianapolis. At Crawfordsville, 35 miles from Fontanet, the shock cracked a brick wall and sank tiling in a floor one inch. At Terre Haute, 75 miles from Fontanet, nearly all the windows in town were shattered and many buildings damaged. The full force of the explosion was employed at the powder mill, which was working to its capacity to supply orders.

A slight shock similar to that of an earthquake, was noticed in Cincinnati. Prof. Porter, of the University of Cincinnati, reported it as very slight, but distinctly noticeable. In southern Indiana several points reported a shock in a more severe form and it was also reported from Hamilton, O.

Issue Sharply Drawn.

The nineteenth annual convention of the National Association of Railway Commissioners, which met last week, while the disposition to run counter to federal control of railways is not so strong as at the opening of the convention, the committee on "rates and rate making" takes a sharp issue with the national government. It holds that federal control is impossible without an amendment to the constitution.

The committee maintains that the demand of the people is that the control of rates be lodged as near at home as possible. The committee also urged uniformity of action between the federal and state railway authorities and that, in some instances at least, the state railway commissioners act as agents for the interstate commerce commission.

The report of the committee on uniform classification is adopted and has a strong debate. It asks that the interstate commerce commission be given the power to classify interstate rates uniformly.

John Mitchell to Retire.

John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers, announces that he will not be a candidate for re-election as president.

He says that he does not regard himself as well enough to attend to the office. It is said at headquarters that Mr. Mitchell will finish his present term as president, which expires April 1 of next year.

Mitchell underwent a surgical operation about six months ago, and it is said that he has not fully recovered and that it is possible it will be necessary for another operation to be performed.

Queen of the Seas.

The turbine steamship Lusitania is queen of the seas. She finished her second run to New York Friday morning and anchored near the Sandy Hook lightship, waiting until sunrise before entering the harbor through the new Ambrose channel. She made the voyage from Daunt's Rock across the Atlantic in four days, nineteen hours and forty minutes. She is the first four-day boat to cross from land to land and she now holds all the records of the western ocean.

For Roosevelt.

Brig.-Gen. George M. Helm, commanding the Second Brigade, Mississippi division, United Confederate Veterans, one of the wealthiest planters of the Delta, and a lifelong Democrat, publishes an open letter in which he urges that party lines be dropped and that Roosevelt be elected for a third term.

Gen. Helm appeals to voters of the south to send this message to the rulers of the south and north.

Here's a Mess.

The supreme court has decided that the act annexing Fairview to Detroit is invalid, on the ground that the act is not as broad as its title. This throws open a grand jumble all of the various legislative processes which the city and the annexed village have gone through since last winter and unless properly corrected will lead up to endless legal complications.

Mars Inhabited.

Prof. David Todd, who spent four months in Chile with the expedition sent from the United States to observe Mars, has arrived in Panama on his way home. During the observations more than 7,000 photographs were taken, including 20 of the double canals on Mars.

In commenting on his observations, Prof. Todd said:

"It is reasonably certain that Mars has been inhabited in the past, and it is reasonably certain that it is inhabited now."

Word has been received from San Francisco of the marriage of Henry Wagner, of Cadillac, that he is ill in a hospital. That the news is hailed with joy does not seem strange when it is explained that the parents believed their boy had been killed in a railroad accident several months ago.

For many days past bills have been posted announcing the fall opening of Miss Cora Bell's millinery store in Grand Marias, Saturday, October 17. However, on that day the shades of the store were drawn close and crape was on the door. Miss Bell died the morning of her opening day.

Stood Roosevelt's Test.

If a 15-mile jog along good roads is an example of the hardships of war, then the officers of the department of the lakes are ready to go into action at an hour's notice. Such is the substance of a report based upon a test ride made by Brig.-Gen. Wm. P. Carter and 31 regimental officers yesterday.

The physical examinations were given the riders before and after the trial of horsemanship. These were conducted by Col. Philip B. Harvey, assistant surgeon general, of the army, and Maj. Edward L. Munson, post surgeon at Fort Sheridan. In advance they announced all of the officers fit to ride, and the second examination showed but slight signs of any disabilities.

The Tigers Trounced.

The fifth and last in the series of seven games for the championship of the world was played by the Chicagos Saturday and the Tigers lost to the Chicago Cubs. The games in their order show that the defeat was all that the Chicago fans and fans could ask. This is the result:

First game, 3d, 12 innings.....3 to 3
Second game, Chicago won.....2 to 0
Third game, Chicago won.....5 to 1
Fourth game, Chicago won.....6 to 1
Fifth game, Chicago won.....2 to 0

The tie game gave the equivalent to no game and there were really four games more to play had the Tiges won the game Saturday, but defeat ended all.

STATE NEWS BRIEFS.

Louis Shung, said to be a Detroit man, was killed in Wolverine in a falling tree.

Carl Jaschek, aged 19, released the trigger of a shotgun while cleaning it in preparation for a hunting trip, and was found dead by his mother with a charge through his stomach.

The seventh ward of Ann Arbor, the one in which a majority of the university faculty live, and said to be the only one which shows a steady gain in the school census, is to have a new school building.

Loading a scow, which will convey a complete sawmill and outfit, to North Manitou island, 70 miles away, is a Traverse City task. Not only will the mill machinery be taken over on the scow, but 25,000 feet of lumber to build a mill, horses necessary for logging, a complete outfit of camp quarters, and enough cattle to furnish fresh meat this winter. As there is no dock there, the horses and cattle will have to swim ashore.

Mrs. James Logg, a former Wales township resident, died at Detroit a few ago prominent in St. Clair county, became a heroine in Hyde Park, Fla., a days ago, when she warded off the attack of a bobcat and killed the reptile to save her husband, who was fill with consumption in their home a few feet away from the scene of action. Mrs. Logg used a rifle, revolver, and after she had several narrow escapes, shot the snake, killing it instantly. The reptile had seven rattles and one button. Mr. and Mrs. Logg left Wales because of Mr. Logg's poor health.

Homer Florence, 17, lies in Mercy hospital, unconscious from a crushed skull, received while at work in the Bay City sugar factory, but no one seems to know just how he was hurt, and his father claims the sugar factory management are very secretive over the affair. It is claimed the boy was repairing broken machinery which was started up before he had time to get out of the way.

A big turnout celebrated Governor's day in Wayne last Saturday. Gov. Warner and Senator William Alden Smith gave short addresses. A ball game, band concert and "red fire" made up the day.
