The farm residence of Charles Cross burned one night last week, together with all its contents, not even their clothing being saved. Mr. and Mrs. Cross had been to the village, leaving the hired man and the children at home. The hired man was at the barn at work when he discovered the fire, and his first thought was to rescue the children from the burning structure, which he did, but was quite badly burned about his face and hands. He had just succeeded in getting out the last of the six children when the building collapsed. How the building caught fire is a mystery. Kind neighbors furnished sufficient clothing and aid for which Mr. Cross feels very grateful. He had small insurance but not enough to quarter cover the loss he sustained which is $3,000.

With the aid of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hendrickson, who invited the older friends and neighbors of Clawson the affair was a success. At the first table were seated those whose combined ages numbered 1081 years. After four tables had been served to chicken-pie and all other things on a first class menu, finishing with ice cream, Mrs. Bowers was then requested to present some gifts, one of which was a silver-mounted bamboo cane as a token of regard from the Birmingham and some of the Clawson friends. There were numerous other presents, all showing the esteem of neighbors and friends for Uncle George. The day was very much enjoyed by the 61 present, who returned to their homes wishing the whole Hendrickson family happiness and long life.

Health in the Canal Zone.

The high wages paid make it a mighty temptation to our young artisans to fight the force of skilled workmen needed to construct the Panama Canal. Many are restrained, however, by the fear of fevers and malaria. It is the knowing ones—those who have used Electric Bitters, who go there without this fear well knowing they are safe from malarious influence with Electric Bitters on hand. Cures blood poison, cure biliousness, weakness, and all stomach, liver and kidney troubles. Guaranteed by Charles J. Shain and Cobb & Cobb, Druggists, 50c.

AT THE THEATRES.

LYCEUM.
Broadhurst & Cox will present at the Lyceum next week, commencing Sunday afternoon, the four-act play of American frontier life, "Texas," by J. Maudlin Feigl, whose thorough knowledge of the plains is a birthright. "Texas" is a charming play of western life, and is unusually picturesque and romantic. In fact, it is as romantic as any costume play ever presented, and deals with a variety of subjects almost entirely new to the stage. It tells of the love and trials of the people of the plains in a captivating and realistic manner, and immediately wins the heart of every auditor. The play is at times exciting, as western life is apt to be with its cowboys, Mexicans, and "gun men," but it also has its moments of love and sentiment, its touches of pathos and noble self-sacrifice, as well as its moments of happiness, when all is laughter, joy and sunshine.

The engagement opens with a Sun day matinee, in addition to which the regular Wednesday and Saturday matinees will be given.

WHITNEY.

A merry musical comedy of acrobatic artists, with a clever mingling of music, tumbling, dancing, comedy, and a well defined plot, is what is promised by the four Huntings and their company of comedians and pretty girls, who appear at the Whitney next week, commencing Sunday afternoon, in the merry farce, "The Fool House." The plot of this comedy is as follows: A party of visitors to an insane asylum meet each other in the building for the first time and all imagine each other to be one of the lunatics and during the mistakes that result, a daring scheme is unfolded disclosing the villainy of an unscrupulous guardian of his late friend's riches. The guardian endeavors to have the heir consigned to the asylum, and thus inherit the riches for himself.

The engagement is for one week with matinees daily except on Wednesday.
