Internal Application. He found his hair was leaving the top of his head, and took his barber to task about it. "You sold me two bottles of stuff to make this hair grow." "It is very strange it won't grow again," interrupted the barber. "I can't understand it." "Well, look here," said the man. "I don't mind drinking another bottle, but this must be the last."

FOR WOMEN. IN HOURS OF REST. IMPORTANCE OF PROPER SLEEP TOO LITTLE UNDERSTOOD. Good Looks Impossible Without Systematic Regulation of the Time of Slumber—Has Great Effect on the Complexion.

We do not attach half importance enough to sleep in our endeavors to promote the beauty of our appearance. Too much sleep or too little will have a great effect on our good looks. Beauty sleep is supposed to be enjoyed before midnight. We cannot live without sound sleep, and we never look well or healthy nor are our complexions seen at their best when the body has been refreshed by healthy sleep. But, like all things this can be abused. It is quite as necessary to sleep well as to eat and drink, for during sleep the whole organism is renovated and the nervous system is enjoying healthful repose. Rest is good, but rest without sleep with its insensibility to all surrounding conditions, would not restore us after the labors and excitements of the day.

Nature asserts itself. When we are tired out the muscles relax, the eyes grow heavy, and the blood flows languidly through the lungs; our thoughts become confused, our healthy subject fresh air, active exercise, and a full life make sleep come easy. But the more regular our sleep the more we become refreshed and healthy. If we do not have enough we become languid and exhausted; if we sleep too much our bodily and mental powers become benumbed. Children and ADVICE FOR LITTLE WOMEN. One of the Sisterhood Willing by Leaves Nature Alone.

"We little women appreciate the days so much that we don't," said one of them, "although we know that we are hopeless, and that nothing in the world can make us taller than an inch, and that we are going to be fat, but you would laugh to hear the funny things recommended to me for the acquiring of a couple of inches of height."

"I am instructed to keep slender, to hold up my head, to dress my pompadour higher, to wear long neck dresses, to abstain from skirts, to keep to French heels, to affect trailing gowns, to wear high-trimmed hats, to adopt Grecian draperies, to habitually wear belts, to keep up a hopeful spirit on the principle that a bold bowed down by weight of wear also pulls the shoulders down, and to do various stunts of running, jumping, skipping, stretching and reaching."

"All these things I do religiously, and then dress and go out with the conventionalities that I am not one fraction of an inch taller than I was before, and nobody is deceived into thinking so, either. My particular pet is dancing on my head."

"Saleswomen say: 'My, what a little thing you are!' I still have to jump up in the air to see what people are looking at. I guess I have

Handy Receptacle for Trinkets, Rings, Bracelets, Etc.

Our sketch illustrates a useful little article for the toilet table. It would be one is perhaps dozens of washing on the hand and rings or bracelets left on a washstand are apt to be forgotten and sometimes even lost. It is also useful for carrying trinkets when traveling, and the five inches square will be found a very good size for the case, and almost any small odd piece of material that we may happen to have, will answer for the purpose. It should be lined with soft wash-leather, to keep the jewelry bright, and the flaps on either side are lined with felt, and may be folded over and fastened together with ribbon ties.

She Never Could Master It. "Talkin' about spellin'," said Mrs. Chubb, "I've been a spellin' it for years. They can't even spell common, every day names twice the same way. We met a soldier in Paris by the name of John, and he spelled it J-o-h-n. Oh, I'd just go crazy if I had to learn that gibberish."

An Evening Scarf. A scarf of light-colored chiffon, with silk leaves arranged in graduated horizontal rows, is one of the smart new evening accessories that has become a favorite with theater-goers, because it is so becoming and so easy to slip on over the head and around the neck.

These scarfs are decidedly pretty made in any of the light pastel tints and trimmed with rows of petals in a shade to match the material or in white. They are made quite wide in the center so that they entirely cover the head and fall forward over the forehead to protect the hair. From the center the sides taper prettily to the ends, where they form a point that is fitted with a cluster of the leaves or with a pompon of chiffon.

For Evening Wear. Black, ivory with rose and green are much in favor for evening wear. Black is always becoming and stylish, but it demands some little skill, such as spray of bright flowers. Some of the new season's black dresses have tulle sleeves and these are decked
