

WILL FORFEIT $50,000 IF HE DOES NOT RETURN SOON.

Thirty Years Ago, When a Mere Youth, John Wilson Left Home After Quarrel with Parents—No Word from Him Since.

Omaha, Neb.—John Wilson will receive a fortune of approximately $50,000 if he shall return to his home in Tecumseh within the next three months to reclaim it. If he fails to return within that time the money will go to relatives of his.

A strange and story is the story of this man to whom a fortune has been left, and who will probably never know it. Thirty years ago when a mere boy Wilson quarreled with his father, John Wilson, Sr., a proud, unyielding old Scotchman, and in the heat of anger he ran away from his home in Tecumseh.

His father, believing that he would grow out of taking the buffaloes of the world and return to his home, made no effort to track the boy and would permit no one else to do so.

The days lengthened into weeks, the weeks into months, and the months into years and young John Wilson did not return to his home. His father loved him and longed for him, but he was unable to find him. He was heartbroken over his absence, but the father's longing and the mother's grief were futile.

Twenty-five years ago by and no word came to the parents concerning their absent son, now grown to manhood if he were living. They were grown old and their hair was white, but their hearts were still beating for their son.

A man whom they suspected might be their son was in Alaska. He was 80 years of age the parents set out for there hoping against hope that they might find him.

They made the journey to Alaska safely, but found no trace of their son there and returned to their home with broken hearts. With a few months the father died and soon afterward the mother followed him to the grave.

Seven years ago the age couple made a will in which a large part of their estate was bequeathed to their absent son on condition that he returned to Tecumseh within three months. If he failed to do so, the money was to go to his relatives.

Gov. Ansel then conveyed to the president the congressional bill. The installation of the telephone in large apartment houses accounts for a portion of the increase.

Mrs. William McKinley, widow of the president who was assassinated at the Pan-American exposition in September, 1901, passed away at her home in Canton Sunday afternoon.
