MINNESOTA SHIPPERS WILL START A BIG CONFLICT TO DARE FEDERAL JUDGE

Prepare to Disregard Lochren's Injunction and Strike High Officials Under the State Law

Minneapolis, Minn., A conflict between the state and federal courts, similar to that recently in Alabama, over the question of railway rate regulation is impending. State officials will not be parties to the trouble, since they already are enjoined.

The movement comes from the Minnesota Shippers and Receivers' association. Members of that body have all received letters from headquarters, asking if they will do their part in the coming campaign. Several have already replied and declared themselves willing to act.

The program is to file complaint before the county attorneys all over the state against the highest railway officials for violation of the commodity rate law. Under that law each official found guilty of refusing to adopt the rates provided is liable to imprisonment in the county jail for more than 90 days, without the option of a fine. Imprisonment is not necessary. The railroads are bound by Judge Lochren's restraining order, not to obey the commodity rate law. They will bring this up as a defense, and have the question of jurisdiction before the court. The program is to bring several suits, both in Hennepin and Ramsey counties, and name the president of the state and officials of each road as parties defendant.

May Be Jailed for Contempt. Complaints will be filed in several counties by members of the association, and some shippers not in the association are expected to act. Counties where the prosecuting officers are known to be in sympathy will be picked out. The association stands ready to give legal assistance in any locality where it is wanted.

The shippers realize that they run danger of being held before Judge Lochren for contempt, but some of them would court such a trial, to know that sympathy will not be lacking, and that habeas corpus proceedings would speedily be granted, getting the whole issue before a higher court.

Coal men are much concerned in the situation. They say that local coal dealers over the state are buying their winter supply, for fear the rate will be put in after they have shipped and will give their competitors an advantage. The rate will be as long as possible, and the situation may become acute when cold weather begins.

FATAL RIOTS IN BELFAST. One Killed and Many Wounded by the Soldiers.

Belfast—Serious and fatal disorders occurred here at a Monday evening. The troops fired on a crowd and a woman and a man were shot dead and a number of others were seriously wounded.

The riot act was read, but the madmen would not disperse and kept up a terrific fusillade of stones, broken bottles and bricks against the police and the military. Bayonet and baton charges failed to rout the frenzied rioters and ultimately the order to fire was given.

No Lives Lost in Tornado. La Crosse, Wis.—A person unaccounted for after Sunday's tornado, the worst ever experienced at La Crosse, have been located and it now is believed that the lives were lost when the tornado struck were down upon the numerous craft on the river. Many streets are still impassable but large crews of men are working and in another 24 hours it will be expected that the greater part of the wreckage will have been removed. The damage to churches, factories, residences and crops in this country is conservative, being estimated at $200,000.

Passenger Train Wrecked. Springfield, Mo.—Passenger train No. 186, the fast Memphis-Kansas City train, on St. Louis & San Francisco railroad, was wrecked near Mountain Grove, Mo., 70 miles from here, Sunday, resulting in the death of Engineer James McKenna, of this city.

Irrigated Land Opened. Cheyenne, Wyo.—The Wyoming land board has announced the opening under the Carey act of 150,000 acres of the Eden Valley lands, in northern Fremont county, north of Rock Springs, on the Union Pacific railroad.

Cald MacLean Is Set Free. Tangier—Cald Sir Harry MacLean has been handed over by his captor, the bandit Kaimul, to the Kirkmies tribe who in their turn set him at liberty.

Would-Be Lynchers Are Foiled. Lexington, Ky.—Two Charles Tarr, negroes, were spirited from their cell at Georgetown Sunday by Sheriff Waring and brought to this city to prevent being lynched. The negroes walked into the place of business of Albert Sacer and, after forcing him into a quarrel, struck him across the back with a club, fatally injuring him. Warring learned that a mob was on the way and he immediately telephoned the authorities of Richmond, Lexington and brought the mob to this city.

ALMOST BRINGS DEAD TO LIFE

Apparatus for Resuscitating Persons Apparently Dead.

An apparatus for resuscitating artificial respiration has been devised whereby in cases of suspended animation the action of the heart and lungs can be renewed. Prof. George F. Scott, inventor of the apparatus, does not insist that with its use life can be brought back, but claims, according to the Scientific American, that by a rational method applied through the instrumentality of the respirator persons killed by asphyxiation, poison or drowning can be brought back to life. The apparatus consists of persons under the influence of an anesthetic while being operated upon can be prevented, and its use will prevent fatal asphyxiation. It is with that a drunken person who is sobored in a few minutes; that persons electrocuted or hanged—the latter case where the neck has not been broken—can be revived, and that the freezing to death of arctic explorers can be averted. These results are accomplished by stimulating normal respiration through artificial means. A demonstration was made on a subject who had been asphyxiated for ten minutes, after which four ounces of ether were administered. It was believed that the apparatus that life was positively extinct, as the application of every known test failed to reveal any sign of life. In this respect the subject for the day had to do with Mammion and the corrupting influences of great riches.

Toward the close of the exercises, says Harper's Magazine, the superintendent called upon the infant class to repeat the golden text, which had special reference to man's inability to save his creature and the money he got at one and the same time. The class failed to respond as it should, when the superintendent, noticing his own young hopeful in the ranks, who had that very morning been drilled thoroughly on the text, called him to the front. The response was immediate, though a slight departure from the original, for in a voice that was distinctly heard in all parts of the room there came the following motto:

"I cannot serve God and mammon."

NO RELIEF FROM ECZEMA. For Over Two Years—Patent Medicines, Quack Cures and Doctors' Fall—Cures Succeeds.

"I was very badly afflicted with eczema for more than two years. The worst attacks were on my face, neck and hands. I tried all the physicians in the town and some in the surrounding towns, and also tried all the patent medicines that I heard of, besides all the cures advised by old women and quacks, and found no relief what-so-ever until I consulted the Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent. In the Cuticura Remedies I found immediate relief, and in a few days my skin was clear. I have not had a return since."—Wm. B. Peck, Tippecanoe, Ind., Nov. 15, '05.

Prince Consort a Hero. Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, distinguished himself the other day in the eyes of his royal highness's subjects by rescuing a hundred-year-old fisherman, who had had lost while walking in a pine forest near one of her residences. The story of this heroic deed is told in the following interesting correspondence: "The queen was exceedingly sorry for she was much distressed to learn that a fisherman, Henry therefore, particular dog. Prince Consort determined to go on a fishing party to look for the missing favorite. He went at once to the forest, and after a long search, he found him at night upon the first tree down, when he began searching for the forest. In his great delight he was rescued by the queen's fisherman, and the prince consort unquestionably has his use."

Simplicity's Saving Grace. "I like simplicity," said Senator Beveridge. "Simplicity saves us a lot of trouble." "Two men met in front of the Blank hotel the other day and fell into a long argument. They were ordinary, everyday men, but the one of them had an extraordinary flow of polyvalent language. He talked half an hour, and his companion listened to a 'now,' the speaker pompously concluded, 'perhaps you will coincide with my opinion, but I don't care.' "The other's face brightened up. "Why, yes; thanks, old man," he answered heartily, moving toward the barroom door, "I don't care if I do."

Superstitious Customs. Many of our customs go back to the dark ages and are based on superstition. We sit up with our dead because long ago our ancestors kept watch by night lest evil spirits come and bear the body away.

We shake hands with the right hand because that is the dagger hand and the left hand we draw ourselves in the presence of a friend.

We bow the head in passing others because our ancestors were wont to bow before their superiors and their superiors. Men bare their heads because they had to unmake in the days of chivalry before the queen of beauty.

Privileges of Old Age. Old age has its drawbacks, but it also has its privileges. One of the greatest is that it is not necessary that you be so busy as you were in your youth, and that you are not so much of a slave, but as a master.—Senator William P. Frye, in the Circle.

Destroyed His Statue. Within the last month there was displayed in the Fine Arts Hall at the Tokyo industrial exhibition a marble statue of a young girl bending over a globe. The girl was the daughter of the sculptor, Shikita Kitaro, who was killed in the earthquake. The statue was destroyed by the earthquake, and the girl's name was the same as that of the girl who was killed.

IN THE NAME OF CHARITY.

Jack London's Story Carries Sting of Truth and Pathos.

Jack London's famous definition of charity—'a box with a hole in it when you're as hungry as a dog'—has made a story about charity, said a magazine editor who heard Mr. London speak at a general dinner in New York before he sailed away for the South.

"The hostess of the ball and an old woman appeared," said the editor. "Confound you, stupid!" said the host. "Didn't I tell you I wanted the Scotch?" Take this back, and bring what I asked for, you old fool!"

"Come, come," said the guest, after the old woman had hurried away in a great fright. "Come, come, my friend, don't you think you are rather too sharp with your old servant?"

"Oh, said the other, 'she's not a servant. She's only a poor relation I'm keeping at home.'"

"The guest looked relieved. "That alters the case, of course," he said.—Washington Times.
