

FUN FOR "HAPPY COUPLE."

Modern Wedding Described with Poetical Slight Exaggeration.

The young pair had as many friends as the police were quite unable to cope with the situation. The bride was headed up in a barrel and thrown into the river, while the groom was bound and gagged and suspended by his feet from a tall tree.

At this point the military was called out and arrived at double quick just in time to save the baggage from being passed over with insulting placards.

A number of shot were exchanged. At a late hour the city was reported quiet and the authorities, though not denying the popularity of the high contracting parties, were confident that there would be no more violence. —Puck.

Hat as Badge of Slavery. With the ancient Greeks the hat was simply an appendage of the traveler. The free citizen preferred to go bareheaded and only put on his broad-brimmed petasus for protection against the sun when on a long journey. The unenslaved head was part of his dignity, for the slaves and workmen wore always a kind of pointed skull cap.

A SURGICAL OPERATION

If there is any one thing that a woman dreads more than another it is a surgical operation. We can state without fear of a contradiction that there are hundreds, yes, thousands, of operations performed upon women in our hospitals which are entirely unnecessary and many have been avoided by LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND.

For proof of this statement read the following letters:
Mrs. Barbara Base, of Kingman, Kansas, writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "For eight years I suffered from the most severe form of female troubles and was told that an operation was my only hope of recovery. I wrote Mrs. Pinkham for advice, and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has saved my life and made me a well woman."

Mrs. Arthur R. House, of Church Road, Moorstown, N. J., writes: "I feel it is my duty to let people know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered from female troubles, and last March my physician decided that an operation was necessary. My husband objected, and urged me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and to-day I am well and strong."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN. For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulcerations, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, and backache.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

The Pumpkin

By JOHN GREVELLAR WRITTEN

A—On Thanksgiving Day, when from East and from West, From North and from South come the pilgrim and guest, When the gray-haired New Englander rest next to the sea, The old bridge links of affection restored, When the care-worn man sets his weaker one more, And the soprano strains where the girl smiled before, What moistens the lip and what brightens the eye? What calls back the past, like the rich Pumpkin pie?

Sing unto the Lord with thanksgiving. —Psalm 147.

THANKSGIVING is one of our highest and holiest seasons. God pours out His blessings more abundantly upon the grateful than upon the ungrateful. Our Lord felt keenly the ingratitude of the lepers who returned not. "Where are the nine?" was His question. God pours out His gifts and blessings every day upon His children; and wherever no voice of thanksgiving is heard in return He misses it. If one human heart fails to utter its praise amid life's routine blessings, he is disappointed.

Many there are who think that certain definite days are set apart for thanksgiving. God pours out His gifts and blessings every day upon His children; and wherever no voice of thanksgiving is heard in return He misses it. If one human heart fails to utter its praise amid life's routine blessings, he is disappointed.

The ideal life is one of gladness. Unthankfulness and fretfulness are disorders in the soul. We have no right to live gloomily or sadly; only where we may, we hear the music of joy, unless our ears have become tone-deaf. The world is full of beauty and full of music. Yet it is strange how many people seem neither to see the loveliness nor hear the music. It were well if the heart would turn ourselves to see the glory and goodness of God, as revealed in nature. It will be sad to leave this world, after that we have seen the wonders of years without having seen any of the ten thousand beauties with which God has adorned it.

A Few Things to be thankful for

Just to be alive. We sing: "I would not live alive," but most of us are thankful not to have that limit too rigidly defined. Life may be a "vapor of days," but it is fairly lively none the less.

For health if I have it; for not being any sicker if I haven't.

For what I am, that if I am it is good; for what I can't if I can't.

That there is no law to force the wearing of the season's monstrous millinery.

That prosperity has not pushed food prices beyond Thanksgiving dinner possibilities.

For that dinner in prospect, with a prospect of enjoying it.

For living in a day of prodigious food if digestion is not up to the mark. That I'm a woman in an age when woman scorn is in vogue.

Thanksgiving dwells in the heart, not in the stomach.

Thanksgiving and thankfulness are not the same.

TRUTH AND QUALITY

The eye brows, declares a German oculist, tell us far more about the true inwardness of our dispositions and temperaments than all the rest of the body. Study the eye-brow formation of your friends, and you will find that where the indications are similar like personal characteristics will be themselves.

When the eyebrows meet at the outer angles, it denotes a cold and calculating disposition; they do not always denote persons of superior intelligence. Thin eyebrows invariably show a lack of grandeur of character. Dark, bushy eyebrows indicate the existence in their possessors of a highly vitalized temperament together with great power of bodily energy.

When the eyebrows meet at the inner angles, it denotes a sincere character is expressed, though here it is interesting to recall, incidentally, that every character of the face is formed by the day of Aristotle has declared that such eyebrows indicate, unquestionably, a peevish disposition.

NOT EXACTLY.

Fliese Footlight—Part of the Japanese wedding ceremony consists in the burning of the discarded toys of the bride. Winnie Wingers—Horrors! You don't mean cremating her cast-off love, do you?

The Fatal Chamindae.

A high-browed young lady was playing on the piano to the great edification of all the other high-brows present. After a while she announced arrogantly that she would play a "Chamindae," and proceeded to do so. At the close of it there was a gasp. Then an unsuspecting low brow piped up:

A Preference for the Rod.

Two-thirds of the small boys in the public schools would rather take a thrashing than submit to any nice, quiet punishment, such as being shut up in a dark closet. So says a teacher. This is a fact, no matter how eloquently those who don't know—and half the people who talk don't know—may point about the shame and ignominy, not to mention the physical distress, of a whipping.

Odd Uses for Gramophones.

A dumb tramp, 62 years old, has been arrested in Berlin for begging by means of a gramophone. He visits private houses, and the machine produces out a heartrending tale of his own misfortunes.

Sacrifice.

The bankrupt rolled up in an automobile to a meeting of his creditors. "Gentlemen," he began, giving them a descending nod and all around, "these debts of mine shall be paid though I suffer for it."

Not Even Imaginable.

"There is no such thing as an impossibility," declared the epigrammatic poet.
