FOUNTAIN COMB FOR HAIR.

Automatically Sprays Scalp as the Tresses Are Being Fixed.

Every one knows a hair tonic is necessary to keep the scalp in good condition, but every one also knows that it is a wearisome task to rub it in.

One does not always have the money to pay a specialist, and one is always too tired to do it at home. In the morning there is too much to do to take the time to massage the scalp, and at night one needs sleep more than a tonic. So it goes.

Knowing human nature, our company has manufactured a patent fountain comb. It is hollow, and when pressed by a rubber bulb and run through the hair the teeth spray the fluid directly on the scalp.

All one has to do is to comb the hair for five minutes, pressing the bulb as it passes over the scalp. There is a bottle full of tonic that comes with the comb which is poured into the hollow whenever it needs refilling.

Alcohol and Water Bath.

In case of exhaustion alcohol added to the bath is a great invigorator. The most economical way of using it is to have a basin of rising water, and into this put a tablespoonful of the spirits and let every one who enters the bath well sponged in this, letting the water go over freely. After such a bath fresh underclothes must be put on if one is dressing again.

No part of the body feels heat more than the head, and to prevent the hair from being injured the scalp must be given as much ventilation as may be throughout the night. No matter how thin the hair may be, it should be divided by a part from forehead to neck and two braids made, each just back of each ear. This draws the hair away from that part of the head that is most heated during the day and refreshes it.

Golden Rays to Live By.

Eight hours' work, eight hours' play, eight hours' sleep—that's the golden rule and the only one to live by. Money will never get its grip on you if you keep this up.—F. Hopkinson Smith, "Peter."

RAISERS OF THE MAX NORD

PRINCESS MARGARET

PRINCESS VICTORIA

PRINCESS CHARLOTTE

PRINCESS SOPHIE

The German kaiser has four sisters, all of whom are younger than himself. The first sister is Princess Charlotte of Saxe-Meinigen, who is married, and is now 48 years of age. The second is Princess Victoria, married to Prince Adolf of Schaumburg-Lippe, and is now in her forty-third year. The third is Princess Sophie, who made the best match of all, being married in her nineteenth year to Crown Prince Constantine of Greece. She is now 28 years of age. The fourth and youngest is Princess Margaret, who celebrated her thirty-sixth birthday in April last. She married Prince Frederick Charles of Hesse.

The princesses are all true Hohenzollerns, though they differ very much in their mental capacity and tastes. The eldest of them, Princess Charlotte, is a good deal like the kaiser himself. She bursts out whatever comes into her mind, and sometimes opposes her imperial brother in a very spirited sort of fashion, so that the kaiser is a little bit afraid of her. The second sister, Princess Victoria, is a special grievance against her brother or, as Greece is called, when Greece last made war on Turkey, in 1897, the kaiser gave his sympathy entirely to the Turks. German artillerists were present in the Turkish army, and Greece was beaten by her knees in a campaign of six days. Princess Sophie's husband, Constantine, is in Greece usually styled the duke of Sparta.

Princess Victoria, the wife of Prince Adolf, is the least loved of the four sisters. It was originally intended that she should marry Prince Alexander of Badenberg, but happily his career interfered to prevent the match, and Alexander ultimately died. At a family meeting Crown Prince Sophie is said to have asked in a deprecating tone: "What can our brother do, adaire in that nasty old Sultan?" To which Princess Victoria replied: "Ask my husband. He must know for the kaiser tells him everything." Prince Adolf, being thus appealed to, explained in these words:

"William says that he likes the Sultan because he is the embodiment of absolutism. He is a ruler who has resolved to reign even at the cost of seeing half his people killed so that the other half may learn to obey."

All these royal ladies combine in their personality a regal bearing and a handsome presence. They are far better favored in this respect than was their mother, Princess Victoria, daughter of Queen Victoria of England. She was the queen's oldest child, and was plain to a degree. In fact, she was keenly aware of this herself, though she was never sensitive about it, and used to speak of her father's touch of rheumatism, which had the fortune to marry Crown Prince Frederick of Prussia (afterwards Emperor Frederick of Germany), who was the most superbly handsome prince in Europe.

It was about the time of her betrothal to him that she is said to have been found one day by Queen Victoria examining her face carefully in the mirror. The princess turned around slowly, and with a comical grimace, remarked with an air of intense conviction:

Swindlers' Ruse.
The Toulouse police have arrested a gang of swindlers, whose stock in trade was the sale of cabinet and considerable off-spring.

With these they took on lease for the summer an old castle near Toulouse, and hired a very attractive-looking old lady to act as its owner. They then found an amateur, took him to the castle and sold him the cabinet. Then they invited the victim to lunch, and while he was eating the meal the real cabinet was replaced by a perfect imitation, which eventually the victim carried off with him. The swindlers, before their arrest, succeeded in selling their cabinet 25 times at prices varying from $50 to $125.

Bad Luck.
"Mother," said five-year-old Jack, "how much older than I am is father?" "Just 12 years," replied the unsuspecting parent.
"Well, mother," seriously continued the child, "the time you marry, sleeps in 12 hours, and don't marry a man 12 years older than you; don't you know it is bad luck?"

Put Your Money In a New Country

The Pacific Coast extension of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway now under construction, opens to the settler thousands of acres of excellent agricultural land. The new country in Adams, Hettinger, and Bowman Counties, North Dakota, and Butte County, South Dakota, is now reached by the new track. The soil is a dark loam with clay subsoil, and produces in abundance wheat, oats, barley, flax, corn and potatoes. The land is well adapted to farming, good water is found at a depth of from twenty to fifty feet, and the whole country is underlaid with lignite coal that outcrops along the streams, and in most cases can be had for the digging.

The climate is beautiful, the air is dry and invigorating, and the percentage of sunshine is high. Outdoor work can be done almost every day in the year. It is simple and efficient to raise the crops. Regular mail service has been established, the roads are good, rural telephone lines traverse the country, and automobiles are in common use. The deeded land in this country sells for from $10 to $15 per acre. There are many instances this year, where the crop equaled in value the cost of the land.

In Butte County, South Dakota, there is considerable government land open for homestead entry. Government land offices are maintained at Lemmon, Hettinger and Bowman, where filings and final proofs may be made. All of these towns are on the new line of the

Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway

In Montana, the new railroad traverses good farming land. It has been demonstrated that big crops of grain may be raised. Along the Yellowstone and Musselshell rivers, the water is used for irrigation, and phenomenal yields of alfalfa, sugar beets, and grain, are always certain. In the Judith Basin near Lewistown, Montana, is one of the most remarkable sections to be found on the new line. Under natural rainfall, the famous bench lands produced this year an average of 35 bushels of hard wheat per acre, and the price was 94 cents per bushel. The basin contains about 1500 square miles and is sparsely settled. Some government land still remains open for settlement. A government land office is maintained at Lewistown. In Fergus County, outside the Judith Basin, is one of the greatest stock countries in the world, and good ranches can be purchased at a reasonable figure.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Co. has established an immigration department for the purpose of assisting in the settlement and development of the new lands now being opened. Pamphlets descriptive of its resources will be forwarded free on request.
