

ALIEN FELONS ARE MENACE TO LAND

Commissioner of Immigration Urges Drastic Changes in the Present Law

Would Have Foreign Nations Certify to the Character of Their Citizens Who Seek New Homes in United States

NEW YORK—Crimes of the Black Hand, the murders of the Mafia and the Canorra, the assassination at the altar of a priest by an anarchist are events of new days which point to the need of more drastic methods in keeping away from these shores the hordes of alien felons, says the New York Herald.

Robert Watchorn, commissioner of immigration at the port of New York, proposes a novel plan by which wherever it is feasible and it could be so in the case of Italy—foreign governments would be required to vouch for the good character of every immigrant leaving their dominions.

Police Commissioner Bingham, in a recent report, pointed out the conditions with regard to the admission of foreign criminals to this country, in reports against the immigration authorities, who in his opinion, do not do the wrongdoers as frequently as they are able to establish by the testimony of men suspected of being felons the facts which would result in their own exclusion.

Practically no effort was made two years ago to find out whether a man had a criminal record, and it has only been within the last two or three years that the authorities have seriously addressed themselves to the task of excluding the criminal classes that come to this country.

Observations made at Ellis Island show that the immigration laws, such as they are, with regard to criminals from other lands seem to be enforced with painstaking industry. The inspectors are laboriously conscientious, as a whole, in their duties and seem to do all they can within the narrow limitation of the statute to detect criminals. For practical purposes, however, the "whole attitude of the present law is supposed to be to say nothing of the specific provisions which are able to establish by the testimony of men suspected of being felons the facts which would result in their own exclusion.

AMERICAN WOMAN'S GOOD WORK

Lady Suffolk, who as Daisy Letter, was nothing if not frivolous, is beginning to take life seriously. She is going in for practical philanthropy. Manchester, where her husband's ancestral home, Charlton Towers, is situated, was once the center of a flourishing race of lords and ladies. Lady Suffolk is trying to revive it. At her own expense she has equipped classes, provided for their recreation, and is giving lessons to the girls of the district.

She also has lent for copying some fine examples of the Malmesbury point lace, which were part of the Dowager Lady Suffolk's gifts to her on her marriage. It is a scheme that deserves to succeed. American pennies spend money lavishly, but beyond that few of them do anything to identify themselves with the humblest sort of folk, among whom they reign as 'My Lady.' Lady Suffolk is setting an example which some of her fellow-countrywomen would do well to follow.

Not Satisfied. Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture told a dinner in Washington some of the strange and impossible things that were expected of his department.

"Why," he said, "one of my clerks overheard the other day two farmers talking. One said to the other, 'I think that department of agriculture is any good at all,' said the first farmer. 'That's what I think,' said the second. 'What's the matter now?' said the first.

"Shoot Fish with Arrows. Many of the natives of the islands are shooting fish with arrows. The art is a difficult one, and is allowed to be a monopoly of a few 'Detroit' boys.

"Think to take a flyer in the market," the first farmer answered, "I believe you are right. I was going up to see an' here we go back this mornin' an' can't give no satisfaction at all."

Graphic Description. Little Eddie (who has been with his father the barber's)—Oh, 'n' then the man squinted some cat on paper's hair 'n' made charlie ruse.

What's the best way to save money? asked the thrifty youth reading the racing news and the market quotations.

Literature. Literature is the stuff authors produce to add momentum to their lives. They are not busy writing for a living.
