Between Two Suns

By HARRY STILLWELL EDWARDS

Men in jeans and cambray, singly and by twos and threes, rode into the outer gorge. They spoke in whispers and each as he came into the circle of light...

The negro dispersed silently, the three named hounded negro, and then the owner of the dog took the ax which had been found in the house and suffered the animal to sniff at its handle...

"Colonel," he said, when they were gone, "under this statement of the case, we can't do nothing but turn 'em man loose. In a courthouse, if she want that, as you wouldn't have her, yo' daughter, with the ax, and a reasonable Public opinion wouldn't indorse any violence on our part, boys, until him."

"None whatever. The pistol, she held, was seized and would have been withdrawn from her but that in her desperation she succeeded in— Wait! Wait!" he cried, rushing forward.

"Hold, colonel!" said a gray-haired man, who had been mistaken as leader. "We mislaidn't—er—mistake. Let yo' minister identify this ax, and 'tend to the rest. Gentlemen, be contented, turning to the crowd, 'it will be embarrassing for 'th young lady to see out in the street negro, with all bows bound, and led by a plow line, he lost control."

PROOF OF ONE OPERATION.

Dr. George F. Shraley once was asked what he considered the star achievement of his long professional career. The great surgeon answered...

"One summer, years ago, I was out driving in the country up the state. I was going by a farmhouse when a man rushed out waving his arms at me. 'Drive for a doctor, quick,' he yelled."

"I heard afterward that the boy got well and that the operation was as complete a success as if it had been performed in a hospital with all the appliances. I have often looked back on that operation with an air of pleasure, because I worked so swiftly, surely and well without a second preparation—automatically, in fact."

Mr. Hall Edwards, who was, recently elected a civil engineer in recognition of his services in the development of medical radiography, underwent a further operation at his residence, Broad Street, Birmingham.

BABY CRIED AND SCRATCHED.

"My baby niece was suffering from that terrible torture, eczema. It was all over her body but the worst was just between her hands. She cried and scratched all the time and could not sleep night or day from the scratching. I had her under the doctor's care for a year and a half and he seemed to do her no good. I took her to the best doctor in the city and he said that she would have the sores until she was six years old. But if I had depended on the doctor my baby would have lost her mind and died from the want of aid. But I used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and she was cured in three months. Alice L.
