

Natural Constipation

May be permanently overcome by proper personal efforts with the assistance of the one truly beneficial laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs. A fair of Senna which enables one to form regular habits daily so that assistance to nature may be gradually dispensed with when no longer needed, as the best of remedies when required are to assist nature, and not to supplant the natural functions, which must depend naturally upon proper nourishment, proper efforts, and right living generally. It is of beneficial effects always by the gastric, liver, and intestinal systems.

THE GIRL AND THE LOBSTER.

Possibly Harmless Remark, Though Decidedly Malapropos.

Dorando Pletri, at one of the many Italian banquets given in his honor in New York, talked about professional athletes.

"Amateurism is no doubt more romantic than professionalism," he said. "I see live in an unromantic age."

He smiled.

"Only the other night, at one of your expert Italian restaurants," he said. "I overheard a dialogue that indicated forcibly the age's lack of romance."

"It was late. At the table next to mine a rich young Italian contractor was supping with a beautiful young girl. As the young girl played her marmoset:

"It is true, isn't it, that you love me and me only?"

"Yes," said the young man, "though this lobster is certainly mighty good."

SYNOPSIS.

Vanishing Hesperus is a story of "what might have happened" in Washington in the early days of the administration of the late President. The inventor of the "Hesperus" is introduced as a man of letters, war and the peace, and the inventor of the "Hesperus" is introduced as a man of letters, war and the peace.

CHAPTER XIII.

In the Beginning.

It was January of that momentous year when the world's attention was attracted by the news that the inventor of the "Hesperus" had been invited to appear before the committee of the Senate on the subject of the proposed annexation of Hawaii.

He went to Washington, and in the course of his testimony he related the circumstances of his discovery of the "Hesperus" in the Hawaiian Islands.

His testimony was received with interest by the committee, and it was decided to hold a public hearing on the subject of the proposed annexation of Hawaii.

MORE PINKHAM'S COMPOUND

Added to the Long List due to This Famous Remedy.

Camden, N.J.—"It is with pleasure that I add my name to the long list of those who are already long to avail themselves of this famous remedy."

Mrs. W. M. WATKINS, 176 Jefferson Avenue, Detroit, Mich. or C. A. LAUREN, Salt Lake, Utah, Ind.

This valuable medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I suffered from terrible headaches, pain in my back and right side, was tired and nervous, and so weak I could hardly stand. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored me to health and made me feel like a new person, and it shall always have my praise."

Mrs. W. M. WATKINS, 176 Jefferson Avenue, Detroit, Mich. or C. A. LAUREN, Salt Lake, Utah, Ind.

"I was a great sufferer from a female disease. The doctor said I would not recover until I was in the hospital for an operation, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound completely cured me in three months."

Mrs. S. A. WILLIAMS, R. F. D. No. 14, Box 30, Gardner, Me.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not fail to suffer, one after another, giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a try. It surely has cured many cases of female diseases such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pain, backache, etc., that bear down feeling, indigestion, dizziness, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result is worth millions to many suffering women."

"Got a match, Mr. President?" he asked with the utmost nonchalance.

They dropped back into their seats, some with exasperation and others smiling. The president gravely opened his waist, and then, as the evil odor of the weed wafted round the room, he sat back in his chair, with the tip of his fingers touching the president's hand.

The secretary of war was beginning to fidget with impatience.

Robert puffed three or four times, fixed his eyes on a corner as if he was the only occupant of the room, then calmly reached into a pocket and drew out a parcel which he laid on the president's desk.

"It contained only a moment before he again appeared, and the president turned toward him.

"The secretary brought a little annoyed," the secretary said, "but I insisted on my coming back to tell you that he wanted to see you now."

"What else did he say?" the president asked.

"Said he'd be hanged if he'd go on till he saw you." The laughter in the room increased. "Said he had found something that might enable the government to whip the Japanese, and he was reading reports showing there was no time to waste, and wanted to tell you about it at once."

The merriest subsided as quickly as it had been provoked, and the president asked:

"Then" he remarked triumphantly, "exploring two small plates of metal not known heretofore, prepared from two pieces of burnished steel. Eagerly all those in the room crowded forward, and the president gingerly took one of the plates in his fingers.

"New explosive?" he asked.

"No, it's harmless." The inventor smiled. (TO BE CONTINUED)

Lapland Has Many Resources

Recent Efforts to Develop Them Are Full of Promise.

With a recent period efforts have been made to develop the natural resources of Lapland, and there seems to be a considerable economic future for this region, which is especially due to the large deposits of iron ore. A great step was the building of the trans-Lapland railroad, which was finished in 1903. With the annex lines which are building it will soon put Lapland in connection with Turku, Finland with St. Petersburg and with the eastern region.
