GATHERED SMILES
A SUCCESSFUL PROTEST.
A Glamorgan papa was about to apply the strap.
"Father," said Willie, who had just completed his second term at the Grammar school, "unless that instrument has been properly sterilized I desire to protest."
"Moreover," continued Willie, "the germs that might be released by the violent impact of leather upon a porous textile fabric, but lately exposed to the dust of the streets would be apt to affect you deleteriously."
As the strap fell upon a nerveless hand, Willie stopped to imbibe more science.

UNPLEASANT ASSOCIATIONS.
Bright Boy.
The pretty Sunday school teacher had been telling the class about the great Sahara desert.
"And, boys," she said in conclusion, "the camel can go eight days without water."
"That's nothing," spoke up Jimmy on the end seat. "I know some horses that go all the summer without water and carry people on their backs every day."
"Gracious, Jimmy! You mustn't exaggerate in Sunday school."
"It's not exaggerating, ma'am. They are the very horses on the summer park merry-go-round."

Singing Lessons.
Mrs. Hinkins—You think it is worth while for my daughter to go on taking singing lessons? She has been at it for five years and cannot sing yet.
Prof. von Note—Did you expect her to learn to sing? She will never sing in see vide vider.
"Then, why didn't you say so long ago?"
"I thought you merely wanted to strengthen her lungs."—Weekly Telegraph.

A BORN DIPLOMAT.
A Slight Gilt.
Diggs (reading)—Here's an account: In this paper of a man who paid $100,000 for a dog. Now, what do you think of that?
Mrs. Diggs—Oh, that's all right, I suppose.
Diggs—But you don't seem to realize the magnitude of the sum, dear. Just think—$100,000 for a pet. Why that is more than I am worth.
Mrs. Diggs (frowns). But, of course, some pets are worth more than others.

A Return Short.
"If you want to be up to date, Mr. Haaber, you'll have to get an aide-board," remarked young Sloppy.
"And if you don't come up to date with your payments soon, Mr. Sloppy," rejoined the landlady, "you'll have to get outside board."

THEY MERELY TALK.
Charles—During your long night watches before the moon don't the waves seem to talk to you?
Old Salt—Yes. But they don't ax foolish questions.
His Experience.
Peckem, who had loved and won. Once let this sentence fall:
"The better to have loved and lost, Than never to have loved at all."
Rubbing It In.
Sapleigh—Yaas, several years ago I fell in love with a girl, but she wedded me, doncher know—made a regular fool of me.
Miss Knox—Now, that which I call a messy shame. I've often wondered how it happened.

An Ordeal.
"Father," said little Rolio, "what is an expert witness?"
"In many cases, my son, an expert witness is a man who is willing, for a consideration, to go on the stand and let the lawyers give him the third degree."
The Tight Wad.
Mrs. Styles—See one of the new Lincoln pennies yet?
Mrs. Styles—No, my husband hasn't given me any spending money for a week, now.—Yonkers Statesman.

Carriage of Mail by Auto.
Baron Goto, minister of communications, is investigating the advisability of transporting mail by automobiles in the principal cities of Japan, and also possibly to distant points where railway traffic is not yet opened.
Measure of Safety.
"Why are you forcing the lady missionaries out of Chintown?"
"We had to do it in self-defense," replied the educator. "Chintown," the police having utterly failed to protect us."

MAN AND MOOSE FIGHT TO DEATH IN A LAKE
FISHERMAN IN BOAT KILLS ANIMAL WITH KNIFE AFTER THRILLING BATTLE.
Duluth, Minn.—Dan Murchinson of Aurora, a Moose range tow, while fishing in a boat in Colby lake was attacked by a bull moose. In the battle which followed he killed the animal with a sheath knife, but came near losing his own life, sustaining a broken left arm and a scalp wound four inches long.
Murchinson was fishing for pike when he discovered the moose swimming straight for the boat with battle in his eyes. Murchinson planned to shoot and get away, but he perceived that he would not have time. Seizing an oar he hit the moose over

WEE GIRL TRAPS BURGLAR
Makes the Intruder Crawl Under a Bed While Her Father Captures Him.
Massillon, O.—Margaret Ertik, 8, was called as a witness in Massillon police court against a burglar late trapped in her bedroom. She was just sprawling when she heard a scratching on the roof of a one-story wing to the house under her window. The next moment she looked up and saw a man.
She gazed right away that he was a burglar.
"What do you want, sir?" she asked, not to tremble.
"You shut your mouth," snarled the man.
"Now, be quiet, please," pleaded Margaret. "My papa and mamma are downstairs on the front porch, and don't want you to scare them. Papa might come up and—would you kill him?"
"Never mind your dad, see!" said the burglar.
Then Margaret heard her father starting up the stairs, and down stairs on the front porch and don't want you to scare them. Papa might come up and—would you kill him?"
"Never mind your dad, see!" said the burglar.
Then Margaret heard her father starting up the stairs, and down stairs on the front porch and don't want you to scare them. Papa might come up and—would you kill him?"

THE MOOSE OVERTURNED THE BOAT.
The head, but apparently with no other effect than to further enrage it.
The moose overturned the boat with the first blow of its forefeet and then went after Murchinson. The animal broke his left arm with a stroke of one of its fore feet.
In the mix-up Murchinson got his right arm over the moose's neck and then threw his right leg over. Bracing himself as best he could, he drew his sheath knife and attacked the moose's throat. It was during this part of the fight that Murchinson received the scalp wound from a thrust of the antlers. The animal then swam ashore and died from loss of blood.

GRAVE GRAFT.
"Graft has no end of ramifications," says a politician who was last week elected to congress. "Even the keepers of cemeteries seem to get into the game. Since my election I have received letters from a dozen different cemetery associations in various parts of the country, reminding me that should any forebears be buried in their graveyards, also that the graves are in bad condition and that it will be to my interest, as a public character, to see that they are put into good shape."
"Through these letters, I have learned the names of uncles and aunts, great-uncles and great-aunts, and even grandfathers and grandmothers that I did not know I had ever possessed I don't believe half of them really are mine; considering the number I don't see how they can be. How the cemetery keepers manage to trace the relationship so quickly is a mystery."

Save from Bull by a Dog.
Waterloo, Ia.—Miss Delilah Felt, living five miles from here, while gathering grapes was attacked by a bull. She was knocked down and had an arm broken. Her screams of pain and fright attracted the attention of a dog, and it attacked the bull, Miss Felt in the meantime crawling under a fence which happened to be near. Thus she fainted, and when she regained consciousness she found the dog, bloody and panting, watching over her, the bull having been driven away.
