OUR CLUB NOTES

From the Woman's Literary Club Which Meets Tuesday Afternoon of Every Week

The Woman's Literary club met at the home of Mrs. Mary Cooper last week. Roll call was responded to with current events.

Mrs. Barr was unanimously elected to fill the vacancy on executive board, occasioned by the resignation of Mrs. Hupp.

Mrs. Hemenway read an interesting paper on "Philanthropic and Charitable Institutions in the U. S. 1890-1850."

Mrs. Poole read a paper on "The White Plgaue and What Can We do to Avert it." Quoting from this paper and the discussion that followed its reading.

"So much has been said and written about tuberculosis, especially the possible transmission of it from person to person, that the public mind has already reached the limit of apprehension. We have seen these unfortunate invalids ruthlessly pursued and in many instances, made so wretched by what seems a cruel system of espionage that they have been forced to abandon comfortable homes and loving friends and seek new localities in which they may be permitted to live undisturbed. No practical benefits can be traced to this proceeding, except when invalids find a better climate or more agreeable surroundings than those left behind.

"Even the doctor's disagree as to this disease being contagious, but physicians who have practiced in hospitals for its treatment support the theory that the disease is not directly communicated from one to another. Infection is caused by the poisonous germs in the patient's sputa, these germs dry and pass as dust into other people's lungs.

"The 'simple life' in the open air, avoiding, as much as possible, crowded cars or houses where the air becomes fetid; plenty of sunshine and fresh air in our homes, plain and simple food, with careful attention to the laws of nature, plenty of exercise especially in the open air, all tend to prevent this dread disease; and above all a cheerful mind and an optimistic view of life. In short, let us use our own common sense regarding the preservation of our health. And from the simple set of "Don't Rules" that Dr. S. A. Knopf, of New York, has recently issued to school children, we may pick out some that fit grown-ups as well as they do the younger generation.

Do not wet your fingers in your mouth when turning the leaves of a book.

Do not put money in your mouth.

Do not put pins in your mouth.

Do not put anything in your mouth except food and drink.

Peel or wash your fruit before eating it.

Never sneeze or cough in a person's face.

Do not spit except in a spittoon, a piece of cloth or a handkerchief.

Never spit on the floor or sidewalk.

Learn to love fresh air.

Learn to breathe deeply. Do it often.

After the reading of these papers a social hour was spent by the club and light refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. Cooper.

Served as coffee, the new coffee substitute known to grocers everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee will trick even a coffee expert. Pure, healthful toasted grains, malt, nuts, etc., have been so cleverly blended as to give a wonderfully satisfying coffee taste and flavor. And it is "made in a minute," too! No tedious 20 to 30-minutes boiling. Test it and see. Dr. Shoop created Health Coffee that the people might have a genuine coffee substitute, and one that would be thoroughly satisfying in every possible respect. Sold by all grocers.

MERCHANTS ASS'N

The Merchants Association Have Organized and Have Elected Officers For 1909.

The organization of the Merchants Association in Birmingham, installed by the International Consumers Rating Association of Detroit, has been completed by the selection of James W. Cobb, president; Hiram B. Parks, vice president; M. J. Maugh, secy; and T. B. Smith, treas.

These gentleman will hold office until the end of the year, when an election of officers for 1910 will be held. Birmingham will be a link in the chain which will extend to every city, town and cross road in the state of Michigan, and in which will be found a merchants association. The places not large enough for an association will affiliate with association in nearest town. This close association of men in every line of busines will cement them in to one general organization, from which all merchants, business and professional men will have full information in the form of a list, giving the name, address and occupation of all people who do not pay their bills, and whether or not they are worthy of credit.

This enterprising, energetic and progressive association have also organized a merchants association at Royal Oak, which sub association starts off with a vim and an interest taken by the members there as well as elsewhere, promises great things, and helps for every merchant there who joins. It's a good thing—push it along.

Royal Oak has come into the association with a full list of officers, and promises to be one of the very best towns in the state, all contributing to the grand success of its promoters.

Both Boys Saved.

Louis Boon, a leading merchant of Norway, Michigan, writes: "Three bottles of Foley's Honey and Tar absolutely cured my boy of a severe cough, and a neighbor's boy, who was so ill with a cold that the doctors gave him up, was cured by taking Foley's Honey and Tar." Nothing else is as safe and certain in results. Sold by all druggists.

The Bed-Rock of Success

Lies in a keen, clear brain, backed by indomitable will and resistless energy. Such power comes from the splendid health that Dr. King's New Life Pills impart. They vitalize every organ and build up brain and body. J. A. Harmon, Lizemore, West Virginia, writes: "They are the best pills I ever used." 25c at James W. Cobb's, Charles J. Shain's and J. F. NIMRODS BEWARE

The Hunting Season is Now On, But Look Out For the Law, Which is Here Stated

Beware, ye daring nimrods, lured on by this invigorating October air, lest when you sally forth in quest of game you invade forbidden ground and suddenly find yourself up against the law's strong arm. For be it known that spots in the immediate vicinity of Detroit where a man may with immunity hunt on the Sabbath, the only day the average mortal seems to feel he has for gratifying his longings in this direction, are as scarce as an unquenched thirst at a Hungarian wedding.

It may come as something of a surprise to the man who, attired in khaki, and accompanied by his trusty gun and dogs, clambers aboard an interurban car and preparatory to a long hike the country, to know that all of Oakland and Macomb counties, and practically everything in Wayne outside the city limits, is proscribed territory on the first day of the week.

It may also be well at this time to remind those with disregard for consequences that violation of the law carries with it the possibility of a heavy fine or jail sentence, or both in the discretion of the justice before whom the guilty party is haled.

The law specifically provides that it shall be unlawful for any person to hunt game with firearms, dogs or otherwise on Sunday on any lands or premises of another in Oakland and Macomb and the townships of Greenfield, Redford, Plymouth, Gratiot, Hamtramck, Grosse Point, Northville and Livonia in the county of Wayne, without the consent of the owner or lessee of the premises; provided that this act shall not apply to the shooting of wild water fowl in Detroit river, St. Clair river and Lake St. Clair.

You don't have to possess a bag full of game in order to become amenable to the law. If any person is found upon the premises of another, without his consent, with firearms in his possession, it shall be deemed prima facie evidence of a violation of this act. Any person thus detected may be arrested by an officer without the formality of a warrant, upon complaint of the owner or lessee of the land, and liable upon conviction to a fine not exceeding $5 and costs of prosecution, or 30 days in the county jail, or both.

Having succeeded in getting this point firmly fixed in your mind, there are other rules and regulations it might be well to paste in your hunting cap, provided it proves large enough for the purpose. The game laws of Michigan take up a voluminous book of 200 pages, in which is embodied sufficient information to enable you to keep out of the clutches of the game warden for all time to come. And while you are digesting this information and ascertaining what is lawful prey and what is not the game in quest of which you went forth will have had plenty of time to make a safe get away.

It is well to remember in the first place that all wild animals and wild birds, both resident and migratory, in Michigan are the property of the state, under jurisdiction of the game and fish warden and his deputies.

Just now the birds have the call with sportsmen, which brings to mind the fact that it is unlawful to hunt any quail before the 15th of October, 1911.

Pinnated grouse, or prairie chickens, must not be killed at any time.

It is unlawful to injure, kill or destroy or attempt to do so by any means, any kind of wild duck, snipe, plover, woodcock or any wild waterfowl, save only from September 1 to January 1, and then only from one-half hour before sunrise until one hour after sunset. However, in addition to the open season already described, it is lawful to hunt and kill bluebills, canvasbacks, redhead, widgeon, pintails, whitlers, spoonbills, butterball and snipe between the 2d day of March and the 25th day of April, and wild geese, brant and sawbill ducks between September 1 and January 1, and March 2 and April 25.

No person shall attempt to kill, capture or destroy any mourning dove or any Antwerp homing pigeon, and it is unlawful to kill or capture by any means any prairie chicken, Mongolian or English pheasants or any black fowl capercailzie, hazel grouse or wild turkey or wild pigeon until the year 1910.

For the purpose of simplifying the situation somewhat, the game warden's department has briefly enumerated game birds, including geese, brant and wild ducks, rails, coots, gallinules, shore birds, snipe, woodcock, plovers, sandpipers, tatlers, curlews, wild turkeys, pheasants, grouse, prairie chickens and quail.

All other species of wild resident or migratory birds are considered non-game birds. It is unlawful to have in your possession, living or dead, or purchase, offer or expose for sale any such non-game bird. The law goes further and makes it an offense to possess even a part of the plumage, skin or body of a non-game bird, irrespective of whether it was captured in Michigan or not.

English sparrows, blackbirds, crows, cooper hawks, sharp skinned hawks and great horned owls are not included among the protected birds, but even these must not be sold or offered for sale or shipped beyond the confines of the state.

Just now the eyes of the big game hunter are turning longingly toward the north woods, for the season when deer may be slaughtered will soon be at hand. There is other big game, including moose, elk and caribou, but it must not be molested until 1913.

Only between November 10 and 30 may deer be hunted legally, and no person shall kill more than two in one year. Plenty of sportsman have difficult in getting one, let alone two; but there are numerous other cases where wholesale slaughter of an animal now all too scarce is prevented only through fear of the law. You can not use any artificial light in hunting deer, nor, are dogs permitted, the mere presence of one in the woods, or at a logging or hunting camp during the hunting season being regarded as evidence of their unlawful use. If you find a dog following the track of a deer you are privileged to shoot the dog. However, it is well to make certain that it is trailing venison. Indiscriminate shooting at such times and inability to produce satisfactory evidence has repeatedly been known to result in a sharp advance in the price of dog meat.

You must not hunt a deer when it is in the red coat or any fawn in the spotted coat, and the possession of such deer or fawn or the skin of either will be construed as evidence of guilt.

It costs you $1.50, if a resident of the state to secure a license from the county clerk permitting you to hunt deer during the open season. If a non-resident you must produce $25. Even then you are not permitted to ship a carcass out of the state. It is well for prospective hunters to scan the deer laws carefully, for even the most ardent lover of venison must agree that $125 and costs, the maximum penalty that may be imposed for disregard of the provisions, makes it dear meat in earnest.

The closed season for mink and raccoon begins April 1 and ends October 31. Even the much prized—in some localities—muskrat and the thoroughly despised skunk are watched over by a thoughtful government, and cannot be killed between April 15 and October 31. Beginning January 1, 1911, it will be legal to kill beaver unless legislative action to the contrary is taken in the meantime. Until then it is an offense. Otter, fisher or marten must not be hunted or trapped from the 1st day of April in each year to the 31st day of October, disregard for this act bringing a penalty of $50.

Squirrels may be killed only from October 15 to November 30, and you can't use a ferret for hunting rabbits in Wayne county at any season without violating the law.

On the other hand, if the hunter is fortunate he may turn his sport to profit. For example, there is a bounty of $25 for each wolf over six months old and $10 for each wolf whelp under the age of three months that may be killed. A lynx also brings its slayer a bounty of $5 and a wildcat $3.

Last but not least, a beneficent and farseeing legislature, aided and abetted by the game warden's department, has seen fit to establish a closed season when it is unwise to take a pot shot at a fellow being who may be in quest of game. The law specifically provides that whoever, while hunting or in the pursuit of game, negligently or carlessly shoots and wounds or kills any human being shall be punished by imprisonment not exceeding 10 years, or by a fine not exceeding $1,000. Which is well to bear in mind when you sally forth with a gun in search of sport. Sunday Free Press.

ST. JAMES' CHURCH NOTES.

The services at St. James' church for the month of October are as follows:

Oct. 31, Rev. Francis D. Currall.
Service at 10:45 a. m.

Stomach troubles would more quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause, rather than the effect, would come into practice. A tiny, inside, hidden nerve, says Dr. Shoop, governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the heart, and one to the kidneys. When these "inside nerves" fail, then the organs must falter. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed specifically to these failing nerves. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment patients say they realize a gain. Sold by Charles J. Shain.
