COMMISSIONERS' NOTICE

In the matter of the estate of Henry Blumberg, deceased. The undersigned having been appointed executor of the estate of Henry Blumberg, deceased, by the Probate Court of the County of Oakland, State of Michigan, I hereby give notice that all claims against said estate must be presented to me at my office, 1200 Michigan Street, Detroit, Michigan, on or before the 31st day of February, 1924, at which time and place I will hold a hearing for the purpose of receiving and adjusting said claims. I hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of the notice published in the Michigan State Telephone Co. on the 25th day of February, 1924, at Detroit, Michigan.

JACOB E. GARDNER,
Executor of the Estate of Henry Blumberg, deceased.

GATHERED SMILES

JOHN GETS BACK.

She stood there and stared at him. "And you mean to stand there and ask me to press your trousers?" she demanded with all the sternness she could muster.

"Why, certainly, my dear," responded Mr. Stubb, affably; "is that asking too much?"

"Well, should say it is, John Henry Stubb. I'd have you know that when you married me you did not marry a asidhr."

"That evening his turn came." "John, dear," chirped Mrs. Stubb just after supper. "I wish you would do me a favor before you go. But don't say wait up in the back, that's a good man."

But Mr. Stubb merely puffed his cigar and chuckled softly.

"Nay! Nay! Maria, I would have you know when you accepted me you did not say 'Yes' to a button-hook."

And picking up his cane, he strode out.

Newspaper Enterprise.

"How did the Morning Bluster manage to get a picture of Dr. Cook in the act of planting the United States flag at the north pole?" asked a curious subscriber.

"How?" exclaimed the managing editor, vexed at the stupidity of such a question. "One of the two Explorers with Dr. Cook was a Bluster reporter in disguise. He took a snapshot."

No Proof.

"Excuse me, sir," said the art museum attendant, "but no dogs are admitted here."

"Well, I haven't and don't," rejoined the man who had just entered.

"But this dog followed you in?" protested the attendant.

"So did you," rejoined the other, "but that is no proof of ownership."

CUPID'S GREEN-GOODS GAME.

THEY REALLY ARE.

"Do you believe women are really better than men?" she asked.

"I haven't any doubt of it. Where is there a man who would be willing to come in here and do my typewriting for $10 a week and at the same time take pains to make me forget that there is any such thing as trouble in the world?"

The World Moves.

Two aeronauts went speeding by with one another's wing, but they were "glissaged" by aero cops and fined for reckless flying.

Preposterous.

"I see that most of the human hair used in this country for rats and gets comes from China."

"Where in the world do they put it in?"

"Oh! the heads of the Chinese, of course."

"Human hair off the heads of China-men? You make me laugh!"

A Failure.

"There isn't enough analogy in the English language," pronounced the bright young student. "If we say 'male and female' to distinguish sex, why not say 'lion and felloo'?"

"Wouldn't distinguish," replied the practical professor, "considering both are felines."

A Strong Attachment.

Jinks—called on your friend, Miss Sweeps, last night, and could hardly tear myself away at the same time.

Miss Charming—Was she so delightful as that?

Jinks—Oh, it wasn't she I had to tear myself away from; it was the big dog.

A New Danger.

"I was fined a hundred dollars and costs this morning," said the owner of the aeroplane, sadly.

"What for?" queried his friend.

"My chauffeur lost control of the machine and it bumped into and smashed some fellow's air castle," answered the high flyer.

"ON STANLEY, ON."

New Arrival—But why is the photograph in the dining room playing that selection called 'The Grand Charge'?

Landlord—Sh! The guests are coming in to dinner.

Hardly Cordial.

"Tomorrow never comes, they say," intentionally said Miss Parker.

"Then dine with me to-morrow, pray," came quick from Mr. Close.

Made His Reputation.

Harker—"That fellow Blukins is an enthusiast, isn't he?"

Parker—"That's what! You know he likes to speak of himself as a sportsman?"

Harker—Yes.

Parker—"Well, the only thing he ever did in that line was to go on a wild goose chase three years ago."

In the Right Spot.

"That poor young man told a very affecting story of his misfortunes. Didn't touch your heart?"

"Yes, madam, he did. For $10."

A Black Record.

"There goes a man of low life and dark deeds."

"Mercy on us! What does he do?"

"Cleans cellars and shovels in coal."

Not Then.

"A man always gets mad when he finds the lion's head."

"Not when he's fishing."

Stratagem.

"Father, is the goddess of reform clayed?"

"No, my son. She's crossed-eyed."

A Quail Suggestion.

Chelly Suggestion—Do you know, Miss Vert, it would save me a bunch to say myself from college and study up all that, yah know.

Miss Vert—Don't doubt it. A sort of monkey-wrench, wasn't it?

The Rainy-Day Shopper.

First Baseball Crank—Funny! My wife always goes shopping on rainy days and asks me for a check before she starts.

Second Baseball Crank—Hm! Sort of a rainy-day check, eh?

How About That Winter Coat?

You know very well it needs either dyeing, cleaning, or repairing; and you know, too, that I have the best equipment outside of Detroit, and will give you quicker service and the most moderate of prices. Ask me.
