SOME SUPPOSED CITIZENS ARE TO BE APPRIEH THAT THEY ARE NOT

Many Cases in Washtenaw County and Elsewhere Requiring Attention of Foreign Born Voters

It is estimated at the county clerk's office in Ann Arbor that there are between 500 and 1,000 men in Washtenaw county, who are either foreign born or the sons of foreign born parents who have been voting for years at local and general elections, but who, under the new naturalization laws, are not citizens.

They are chiefly of German stock, for most of the foreign born who are registered in this county, belong to that stock.

A large majority of those who have lost their citizenship on account of the new law are said to belong to the second class, that is, those who were given first papers, but did not bother about second.

Under the old loose naturalization procedure, they exercised all the rights and privileges of a complete citizen, even to holding township offices, and being elected to one and no other to question their citizenship.

When the family of one of these fathers came to the attention of the new law it is clear that unless a father took out both sets of papers before a son attained the age of 21 years, the son would be ineligible for first and second papers.

An instance from Washington who was in Ann Arbor, Michigan, was mentioned in Washtenaw was not exceptional, but that there are hundreds in a good many counties who belong to this class of citizens, but are not, and who may be inactively, applied of the fact should be found by their fathers, they be challenged at the polls, to prove their citizenship.

He says that all this class of citizens should have no time in ascertaining whether, before they reached their majority, their fathers took out full papers.
