An Interesting Exhibit of Newsman From Distant Lands: Oddities of the Foreign Press

We extend a cordial invitation to the public to examine a collection of newapapers from the most vimote parts of the world now on exhibit as our office. The world now on exhibit as our office. Chamberlain Medicine company, Des Moines, Iowa, manufactures of Chamberlain's Cough Rémedy, and one of the heaviest advertiseers not only in this country but/also in foreign land. A copy of each fissue of every newspaper containing their advertisements is sent to the Affice of the Chamberlain Medicine company as a proof of the insertion of the advertisement. The Medicine company as a proof of the insertion of the advertisement. The package sent to us is selectedfrom these voucher copies. Some of the papers hear names of places which require us to recall forgetten georgishy or refer to the atlast to locate. Some of the papers have a particularly curious as they are published in the vernacular or native languages which might be likened to the carefully written notes of a shorthand written.

ed to the carefully written notes of a when than dwritten when the well known Chinese We find the well known Chinese reading from top to bottom, the lines granged from right to left. "Sin Wan Pao" published daily at Shanghai is printed on a strip of tissue pages 50 inches long and two feet wide. The inches long and two feet wide. The paper is extremely, thin and is printed on one side only. It is one of the most "readable" papers published as one can read the entire paper by a sort of unrolling process without having to turn a page or fold and unfold the sheet.

with few exceptions the advertising pages would give our 'ad' writers the nightmare. They seem to have little conception of the value of space or of conception of the value of space or of attractive methods of presenting either the text or the illustrations. A pleasing relief to this monotony is afforded by the 'ads' of American ad-vertisers which are rather numerous on their pages. We see many old friends among these advertisers, and promint among these is the Chamberlai Medicine company.

There is no quinine—nothing whatever harsh or sickening in Preventica. These little candy cold-cure tablets act as by magic. A few hours, and your threatening cold is broken.
