The American apple at its best has long been recognized as one of the most healthful and appetizing fruits. It now has a new claim to fame for favor. An Iowa physician, a prominent member of the National Medical College, alleges that apples contain the desire for strong drink. # REVENUE FOR THE PUBLIC

Special Message Is Sent to Congress by President Urging Action by Lawmakers.

Washington, Jan. 21.—The president transmitted to congress a special message on the subject of the conservation of the nation's natural resources. In substance it was as follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

In my annual message I reserved the subject of the conservation of our national resources for disposition in a special message, as I felt that the subject of so much importance as to require a more detailed and extended discussion than can be entered upon in this communication. For that reason I shall take an opportunity to bring before you a special message to congress on the subject of the conservation of our national resources, and to recommend legislation and action thereon.

As a result of the investigation and report of the National Commission on the Conservation of Our Natural Resources, which was organized by executive order on March 4, 1909, I am convinced that it is the duty of the government to take prompt and effective action for the preservation and protection of the public lands and other natural resources which are owned by the people of the United States.

The public lands, which are owned by the people of the United States, are now being disposed of in a manner which is not in the best interests of the nation. It is the duty of the government to take prompt and effective action for the preservation and protection of the public lands and other natural resources which are owned by the people of the United States.
