

Many of the Gentler Sex Have Distinguished Themselves by Their Temerity in Ballooning.

Women aeronauts are not only of today. The first woman to note was Mme. Nadar, who lost her life with her husband by being swept from a balloon at Nieuwburg, Hanover. Next we find Mme. Sage crossing the channel in 1783. The party set out with the intention of surprising a friend in the country, and descended very near their objective. Mme. Garret, sister of the inventor of the parachute, was the first woman to descend in five years made of ascents. This was from 1815 to 1820. Mme. Blanchard was the star under the empire. She had charge of the aeronauts of the coronation fete, in consequence of Guerin having incurred the displeasure of the emperor, the aeronaut had been the creature of misfortune. He ascended at Milan with a balloon carrying an imperial crown. The air currents carried him out of his course, and the next day he made his descent, he broke the crown on the tomb of Nero. This untoward event cost him the emperor's displeasure, for the great wall would of a violent blow considered significant. Mme. Blanchard during her career achieved some note. At the marriage of the emperor with the archduchess of Austria she cast flowers on the procession from her balloon, and she did the same on the 27th of July, on the occasion of the marriage of the emperor into Paris. She perished in her seventy-seventh ascent, in 1819, through an explosion when aloft. Notwithstanding that she had and was established in their balloons, this did not deter other women seeking similar fame. In 1827, Mme. Johnson crossed the Mississippi in balloon, the first of a time the novelty waned, and has just been revived. Its second advent being marked in France by the founding of a woman's club, under the direction of M. M. Surcouf.

In Camp Bear Hunt.

Their cost when they have tried to kill one of these animals with the stroke of an ax. One stroke of that kind would be a violent blow, and another may send the wielder of the ax spinning 20 feet away. A black bear will ascend a tree with the agility of a cat and does so frequently to get the various nuts which form a choice bit of his diet.

In general appearance the black bear resembles the hog more than any other animal. The head with its round skull, sharp snout, short pointed ears and bright beady eyes is like that of a hog, while the bear will eat anything a hog will. The bear roars about among the leaves in quest of nuts, enters orchards to eat the apples which have fallen to the ground and if they are not there shakes the tree until the fruit comes tumbling about his ears, whereas he has the advantage of the hog and resembles the human again.

More than one black bear has come to an untimely end because of his proclivity for entering corn fields and eating the sweet corn from the stalks, a favorite occupation of the raccoon. Another reason why the black bear is a pest to the farmer is because of his habit of climbing the trees and shaking the nuts from them.

When the cold gets of fall arrive the black bear begins to think of a snug home during the winter months. He looks about until he finds the favorite place for his winter quarters. This is a hollow log, and if the hollow is already the home of a family of coons the bear has no scruples about turning them out.

It may be that the bear finds a blowdown where the passing years have deposited limbs and leaves until it is covered with a thick carpet of snow and rain, and he crawls underneath and burrows into the scurf to sleep for the winter. If he can find a crevice or a deep cleft in the rock the bear is as well satisfied and will sleep fully as comfortably until warm weather.

The Maine black bear has been a much maligned animal. Long observation by old hunters shows that the wild animal is not so ferocious as the popular belief has it. The bear is not so much a terror to the human race as the popular belief has it. The bear is not so much a terror to the human race as the popular belief has it.

The Maine black bear has been a much maligned animal. Long observation by old hunters shows that the wild animal is not so ferocious as the popular belief has it. The bear is not so much a terror to the human race as the popular belief has it.

The Maine black bear has been a much maligned animal. Long observation by old hunters shows that the wild animal is not so ferocious as the popular belief has it. The bear is not so much a terror to the human race as the popular belief has it.

The Maine black bear has been a much maligned animal. Long observation by old hunters shows that the wild animal is not so ferocious as the popular belief has it. The bear is not so much a terror to the human race as the popular belief has it.

The Maine black bear has been a much maligned animal. Long observation by old hunters shows that the wild animal is not so ferocious as the popular belief has it. The bear is not so much a terror to the human race as the popular belief has it.

The Maine black bear has been a much maligned animal. Long observation by old hunters shows that the wild animal is not so ferocious as the popular belief has it. The bear is not so much a terror to the human race as the popular belief has it.

Letter in the Red River.

There have been romances and romances, but the latest undoubtedly is the romance of a bear of steel ribs.

The outcome of the being eagerly awaited by 150 men employed at a plant of an iron company. At 10 o'clock the log arrived at the plant yesterday. When the head of the log was cut off the workmen were surprised to see on top of the log a man in a blue coat and a white shirt, who was the ironworker called a corpse and two and they opened the log and read, written on a daily bit of paper, a few sentences which asked the reader to continue with the log. A girl's name was signed at the bottom, above an address in a Massachusetts town.

The finder of the note told others about it and they in turn spread the news until nearly every one at the plant heard it. One hundred and fifty men wrote to the fair correspondent last night, some sending letters and others picture postcards—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The traveler recited an incident of an Oklahoma man who was engaged with elk teeth from a Wichita man for $100. He cut off the teeth and cleaned up $2,200 on the deal.

Increased Price of Elk Teeth. "I don't know how many the value of elk teeth has risen since you said a western traveler at the Fredrick, according to the St. Paul Dispatch, in 1901 you paid $100 for a number of fine specimens in Idaho, Montana, Washington and bordering states, and now you pay $2,200 for the same. Now you will pay $750 to $100 and bought all the teeth for get even that. The Apache, Sioux, Comanche and Chippewa Indians, who have been hunting and selling their possession and trade the 'rinks' and the redskin got wise to their value, and you can buy them in regular dealers' hands for less than from the Indian. The passing of the elk and the great demand made by the number of the Elk lodge for teeth for emblems, has boosted the price.

Perpetual Motion. Not a few seekers after perpetual motion have seen their error, and have been left with a waste of hope and time. One of them came to the prosaic conclusion that if a perpetual motion machine could be invented it would be of utility whatever, as it would require all its energy for its own movement. Another inventor, who had a Bible for a text, and based all his inventions on the words of the Bible, read Colossians 2:8: "Be ware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, to the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world." This view did not occur to John Wilkins, a seventeenth-century philosopher, who gave much attention to these speculations, which, he said, "do ravish and sublime the thoughts with more clear and distinct conceptions than any other." Some people swell up on "emotion" brewed from absolute untruth.

It is an old trick of the leaders of the Labor trust to take their conventions and their carry out the leaders' schemes, frequently abhorrent to the rank and file. It was at the late Toronto convention.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

Some people swell up on "emotion" brewed from absolute untruth. It is an old trick of the leaders of the Labor trust to take their conventions and their carry out the leaders' schemes, frequently abhorrent to the rank and file. It was at the late Toronto convention.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

Boys Lousy Pined.

A remarkable look at the poor Jewish youth in Whitechapel, London, England, is reported, which argues an eye for books and a business intelligence.

The young man in the blue coat and a white shirt, who was the ironworker called a corpse and two and they opened the log and read, written on a daily bit of paper, a few sentences which asked the reader to continue with the log. A girl's name was signed at the bottom, above an address in a Massachusetts town.

The traveler recited an incident of an Oklahoma man who was engaged with elk teeth from a Wichita man for $100. He cut off the teeth and cleaned up $2,200 on the deal.

Increased Price of Elk Teeth. "I don't know how many the value of elk teeth has risen since you said a western traveler at the Fredrick, according to the St. Paul Dispatch, in 1901 you paid $100 for a number of fine specimens in Idaho, Montana, Washington and bordering states, and now you pay $2,200 for the same. Now you will pay $750 to $100 and bought all the teeth for get even that. The Apache, Sioux, Comanche and Chippewa Indians, who have been hunting and selling their possession and trade the 'rinks' and the redskin got wise to their value, and you can buy them in regular dealers' hands for less than from the Indian. The passing of the elk and the great demand made by the number of the Elk lodge for teeth for emblems, has boosted the price.

Perpetual Motion. Not a few seekers after perpetual motion have seen their error, and have been left with a waste of hope and time. One of them came to the prosaic conclusion that if a perpetual motion machine could be invented it would be of utility whatever, as it would require all its energy for its own movement. Another inventor, who had a Bible for a text, and based all his inventions on the words of the Bible, read Colossians 2:8: "Be ware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, to the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world." This view did not occur to John Wilkins, a seventeenth-century philosopher, who gave much attention to these speculations, which, he said, "do ravish and sublime the thoughts with more clear and distinct conceptions than any other." Some people swell up on "emotion" brewed from absolute untruth.

It is an old trick of the leaders of the Labor trust to take their conventions and their carry out the leaders' schemes, frequently abhorrent to the rank and file. It was at the late Toronto convention.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

Some people swell up on "emotion" brewed from absolute untruth. It is an old trick of the leaders of the Labor trust to take their conventions and their carry out the leaders' schemes, frequently abhorrent to the rank and file. It was at the late Toronto convention.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

Letter to Honored.

It was agreed at a committee meeting that the up to a certain point in the manufacture of a bread that has the favor of the fruit, with the addition of some nourishing ingredients, which bread, it is said, will keep longer and milder than ordinary bread.

The young man in the blue coat and a white shirt, who was the ironworker called a corpse and two and they opened the log and read, written on a daily bit of paper, a few sentences which asked the reader to continue with the log. A girl's name was signed at the bottom, above an address in a Massachusetts town.

The traveler recited an incident of an Oklahoma man who was engaged with elk teeth from a Wichita man for $100. He cut off the teeth and cleaned up $2,200 on the deal.

Increased Price of Elk Teeth. "I don't know how many the value of elk teeth has risen since you said a western traveler at the Fredrick, according to the St. Paul Dispatch, in 1901 you paid $100 for a number of fine specimens in Idaho, Montana, Washington and bordering states, and now you pay $2,200 for the same. Now you will pay $750 to $100 and bought all the teeth for get even that. The Apache, Sioux, Comanche and Chippewa Indians, who have been hunting and selling their possession and trade the 'rinks' and the redskin got wise to their value, and you can buy them in regular dealers' hands for less than from the Indian. The passing of the elk and the great demand made by the number of the Elk lodge for teeth for emblems, has boosted the price.

Perpetual Motion. Not a few seekers after perpetual motion have seen their error, and have been left with a waste of hope and time. One of them came to the prosaic conclusion that if a perpetual motion machine could be invented it would be of utility whatever, as it would require all its energy for its own movement. Another inventor, who had a Bible for a text, and based all his inventions on the words of the Bible, read Colossians 2:8: "Be ware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, to the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world." This view did not occur to John Wilkins, a seventeenth-century philosopher, who gave much attention to these speculations, which, he said, "do ravish and sublime the thoughts with more clear and distinct conceptions than any other." Some people swell up on "emotion" brewed from absolute untruth.

It is an old trick of the leaders of the Labor trust to take their conventions and their carry out the leaders' schemes, frequently abhorrent to the rank and file. It was at the late Toronto convention.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

Some people swell up on "emotion" brewed from absolute untruth. It is an old trick of the leaders of the Labor trust to take their conventions and their carry out the leaders' schemes, frequently abhorrent to the rank and file. It was at the late Toronto convention.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

Boys Lousy Pined.

A remarkable look at the poor Jewish youth in Whitechapel, London, England, is reported, which argues an eye for books and a business intelligence.

The young man in the blue coat and a white shirt, who was the ironworker called a corpse and two and they opened the log and read, written on a daily bit of paper, a few sentences which asked the reader to continue with the log. A girl's name was signed at the bottom, above an address in a Massachusetts town.

The traveler recited an incident of an Oklahoma man who was engaged with elk teeth from a Wichita man for $100. He cut off the teeth and cleaned up $2,200 on the deal.

Increased Price of Elk Teeth. "I don't know how many the value of elk teeth has risen since you said a western traveler at the Fredrick, according to the St. Paul Dispatch, in 1901 you paid $100 for a number of fine specimens in Idaho, Montana, Washington and bordering states, and now you pay $2,200 for the same. Now you will pay $750 to $100 and bought all the teeth for get even that. The Apache, Sioux, Comanche and Chippewa Indians, who have been hunting and selling their possession and trade the 'rinks' and the redskin got wise to their value, and you can buy them in regular dealers' hands for less than from the Indian. The passing of the elk and the great demand made by the number of the Elk lodge for teeth for emblems, has boosted the price.

Perpetual Motion. Not a few seekers after perpetual motion have seen their error, and have been left with a waste of hope and time. One of them came to the prosaic conclusion that if a perpetual motion machine could be invented it would be of utility whatever, as it would require all its energy for its own movement. Another inventor, who had a Bible for a text, and based all his inventions on the words of the Bible, read Colossians 2:8: "Be ware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, to the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world." This view did not occur to John Wilkins, a seventeenth-century philosopher, who gave much attention to these speculations, which, he said, "do ravish and sublime the thoughts with more clear and distinct conceptions than any other." Some people swell up on "emotion" brewed from absolute untruth.

It is an old trick of the leaders of the Labor trust to take their conventions and their carry out the leaders' schemes, frequently abhorrent to the rank and file. It was at the late Toronto convention.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

Some people swell up on "emotion" brewed from absolute untruth. It is an old trick of the leaders of the Labor trust to take their conventions and their carry out the leaders' schemes, frequently abhorrent to the rank and file. It was at the late Toronto convention.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

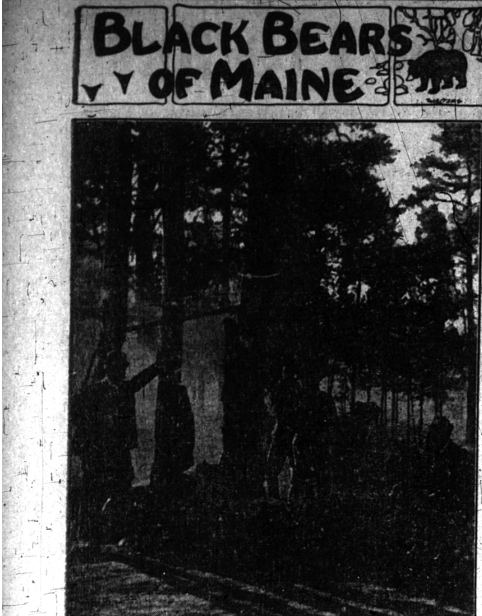

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

Hard Luck Still With Her

Of course she could not permit her picture to appear in a newspaper, but still...

"Are you Mrs. Brown?" asked the reporter.

"Yes," replied the lady, who was Mrs. Brown in residence with the picture of you for publication in the Morning Bulletin. Have you a photograph of yourself that I may borrow?"

"I have one," she answered. "I would think of permitting you to publish a picture of me."

"Yes," she said, "I have one. It is a photograph of myself that I may borrow?"

"I have one," she answered. "I would think of permitting you to publish a picture of me."

"Yes," she said, "I have one. It is a photograph of myself that I may borrow?"

"I have one," she answered. "I would think of permitting you to publish a picture of me."

"Yes," she said, "I have one. It is a photograph of myself that I may borrow?"

"I have one," she answered. "I would think of permitting you to publish a picture of me."

"Yes," she said, "I have one. It is a photograph of myself that I may borrow?"

"I have one," she answered. "I would think of permitting you to publish a picture of me."

"Yes," she said, "I have one. It is a photograph of myself that I may borrow?"

Don't Weep At Thee House.

excite a wave of sympathetic enthusiasm for the cause, which would cause the delegates of their feet, and result in his reelection.

"Organized labor, through its leaders, has done more for the workers in the past few years than any other organization, and it is the duty of every worker to support it."

"The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them."

"Some people swell up on 'emotion' brewed from absolute untruth. It is an old trick of the leaders of the Labor trust to take their conventions and their carry out the leaders' schemes, frequently abhorrent to the rank and file. It was at the late Toronto convention."

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.

The paid delegates would applaud and cheer as the speakers waxed, but now and then some of the real workers insist on being heard, something like the case of the Canadian Federation of Labor, which was only adhered to the law we would think a lot more of them.