Latest From Our Sister Village

Clarence Hupert, of Detroit, was the guest of friends here Saturday.

Mrs. J. S. Mitchell, of Pontiac, was entertained by friends here the past week.

The board of supervisors is in session this week and next at the county seat.

The Misses Lena Heavener and Harriet Closser are attending business college in Detroit.

E. M. Carley, of Benton Harbor, was the guest of his brother M. J. Carley, the past week.

Miss Saida Broughton, of Washington, visited at the home of Lena Davis last Sunday and Sunday.

Roy W. Stevens, former principal of our school but now of Detroit, called on friends here Saturday.

Dr. Morrison's mother and sister, of Milford, spent last week at the doctor's home on Washington avenue.

It's no use to have a splendid article for sale if you can't sell it. Try a TRIBUNE liner advt.

The ladies quartet and the new male quartet made a great hit at the republican rally last Saturday evening.

Miss Lettie Russell gave a linen shower last Friday evening in honor of Miss Olive Knowles. A fine time was had by all.

Electric lights were placed in the M. E. parsonage and some other improvements made before the new pastor moved in.

The Birmingham foot ball team who were to play Royal Oak last Saturday did not show up. They evidently knew which side their bread was buttered.

Kindly send in your news items. We are always glad to get them. See that they reach us not later than Monday night and we will do the rest.

Mrs. P. Needham, of Detroit, and son Prof. W. P. Needham, of Traverse City, were the guests of their son and brother, Fr. J. F. Needham, a few days last week.

An 11 pound boy arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stevens Saturday, Oct. 1. In some way this event escaped the notice of the TRIBUNE last week. We extend congratulations.

Mr. George Penny and Miss Olive Knowles were married on Wednesday evening of this week at the home of the bride. We hope to give a full account of the wedding in our next issue.

Roy Gass, a prominent young contractor of this place, was united in marriage to Miss Rose Wilcott, of Mt. Clemens, one day last week. Mr. and Mrs. Gass will make Royal Oak their future home.

Fred W. Corbet, prohibition candidate for governor, spoke from the town hall steps in our village last Sunday afternoon. He is a good speaker and we are sorry that more people did not hear him.

A pan cake social will be held at the town hall Wednesday evening, Oct. 19, for the benefit of the Methodist piano fund. Pan cakes, coffee and fried cakes will be served. A big crowd and a fine time is expected.

The band boys were out last Saturday night to escort the speakers and the county candidates to San Sara hall, after which they gave an open air concert before the meeting began. We are proud of our band.

"Old Gourd," the grey heron, owned so many years by the late H. N. Livery and family, has gone to his reward. A broken leg received in the stable, in some way which could not be accounted for, necessitated the killing of this faithful animal.

The Ladies' Aid society of the M. E. church will meet this Friday at the home of Mrs. Almeta Campbell. From now on through the winter months the ladies will serve dinner instead of supper. They will hold their business meeting at 2:30. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Mrs. Alice Clack, of Pontiac called on relatives here the past week.

Mrs. D. Marsland entertained her mother from Detroit last week.

Have you seen the new holiday line of souvenir dishes at J. F. Codling's store. They are beauties.

Mrs. Fred Brace and son Harry attended the 55th wedding anniversary of her sister, Mr. and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Dewey, near Ball Mountain.

Rev. H. H. Hough, the new M. E. pastor, has moved his family here from Oxford, his former charge, and the members of the church gave him a reception at Moorey hall Wednesday evening. A fine banquet was served.

Mrs. J. F. Codling met with a painful accident Saturday evening. While pumping the handle of the pump got away from her and flying up struck her a terrible blow on the mouth, knocking out five teeth. It is considered fortunate that her jaw was not broken.

Mrs. Horace Hitchcock, of this village, aged 68 years, fell down stairs Monday fracturing her ankle. The break was a very bad one, some of the bones protruding through the flesh. Mrs. Hitchcock was the wife of the late Rev. Horace Hitchcock which is well and favorably known here where she has resided a great many years. Her many friends deeply sympathize with her in her great affliction. She is very prominent in Chautauque circles and is well known all over the country.

BIRMINGHAM SCHOOL NOTES.

There are now 72 pupils in the sixth and seventh grades crowded in one room. We are trying to arrange a room for the sixth grade and employ another teacher that they may be by themselves. Saturday afternoon two more for any one teacher and do some for individual work.

Miss Minnie Starr took grade six out for a trip last Thursday afternoon to do some sketching from nature. A very pleasant as well as profitable excursion for all.

The regular five week's test was this week Thursday and Friday and all students will be given a card upon which shall be marked their standing in this examination averaged with their daily class work. We trust that each and every student will look over the card carefully and see for themselves what kind of work their child is doing.

Parents will kindly assist us in keeping your child up to his grade by insisting on his being re-schooled each and every day. An absence of even one day often puts your child back and causes discouragement and eventually failure to pass his work. No student, if he wishes to do good work, can afford to be out of school for any trivial reason. Of course sickness is excusable, also any unavoidable conditions which really demand the absence of a pupil from school. But for a child to leave his school work to go to Detroit to do shopping, which could in most cases, be done on Saturday, is making a serious mistake and his absence from school is making his work just that much harder for him. All such absences are inexcusable.

Here is a partial list of "do's" that we are trying to impress upon the minds of our pupils if they wish to be loved and respected.

1. Don't contradict people, even if you are sure you are right.
2. Don't be inquisitive about the affairs of even your most intimate friends.
3. Don't underrate anything because you don't possess it.
4. Don't believe that everybody else in the world is happier than you are.
5. Don't conclude that you have never had any chance in life.
6. Don't be rude to your inferiors in social position, that is, don't be "snobbish."
7. Don't repeat gossip, even if it does interest a crowd.
8. Learn to hide your ashes and pains under a pleasant smile. Few care whether you have the scabs, headaches or rheumatism.
9. Learn to attend strictly to your business—a very important point.
10. Do not try to be anything else but a gentleman or a lady; nor try to be more than you really are; for in the long run, you simply pass for about what you are worth.

GET CLOSER TO SUN

Waldberg's Simple Life Colony Does So by Being Nude.

Men and Women of Swiss Settlement Live Almost Without Clothing and Continue to Wear Nature's Best Say Nature So Intended.

Zurich, Switzerland.—In one small section of Switzerland the residents go through bare, snow storms and northern blizzards with impartial calmness. The name of the colony is the "Waldberg" (light sun ray house) and it is located on the Waldberg, overlooking the town of Zurich.

While in the town I heard reports of the thoroughness of the methods by which the residents in the Waldberg institution get right back to nature, so I decided to make arrangements for a close study.

To my surprise I found the people of Zurich, though they have their prudish societies, regarded the Waldbergers merely as local curiosities. They showed no desire for the imposition of restrictions. On telephoning to the head of the colony, Herr J. P. Muller, formerly an officer in the Danish army, I received a cordial invitation to go up and see for myself.

Herr Muller is a splendidly built man about 6 feet tall, showing the muscles of a boxer rather than a wrestler, tanned a dark brown from head to foot. He has an intelligent face and laughing eyes. Carl Block, the famous painter, described him as "physically the most perfect man I have ever seen," and I agreed with the description as I watched my companion striding along beside me.

"Come along," said he, "you will find all my friends at play." Presently we passed a large meadow where a score of Waldbergers—men, women and children—were engaged in a game of handball, while others stood round as spectators. The men and boys only wore bathing pants; the women and children wore nothing at all, single, loose decollete kamisole—their sole garment—and the children were naked, while all dispensed with head and foot gear.

Though I found the place interesting, the inmates were unimpressed. I was fully prepared to meet a fanatical set of freaks. I really met educated, refined men and women with a wide and cultured outlook on life. I am pledged to secrecy as to names—the only condition imposed upon me—, but I may mention that the diplomatic, military and social circles of several European capitals were well represented in the colony.

The members of the colony hold that "Naked we were born into the world and therefore nature has intended we should go through life naked, as far as clothing is concerned." Clothing, according to the Waldbergers, is the outward sign of the ill-health, immaturity and deterioration of the present generation. The skin, they say, is the natural clothing, and as one of the most important organs of the body it should be exercised and cared for to the open air and not hidden and choked under a packing of clothing. The ordinary person who tries to keep a little skin as possible in, in his view, the slave of a foolish fashion, which causes many diseases, especially consumption.

The Waldbergers rise at sunrise and before taking a bath go through a number of exercises which are intended to become thoroughly warmed and prepared to enter the cool tub. The body that he has another course of exercises, producing a feeling of great physical comfort. Slipping off his "costume" he is now ready for the morning stroll across the meadows and fields or among the scattered woods.

Simple. Wholesome Food.

After a famine of a couple of hours the Waldbergers return home with a razor-edged appetite for breakfast, which consists of coffee, milk, rolls, butter, fruit and berries. No fish or meat is served. The morning is spent in reading, writing, study, playing games in the open or taking sun baths. At noon lunch is served in the bungalow. After breakfast there are only two meals a day—at noon, the principal meal, and a dinner, which is really tea. In the afternoon there are gymnastics and athletic sports of all kinds and, when the weather is fine, a bathing excursion is arranged to take a little lake or outcreek, a few miles away, or a picnic party to a quiet spot in the forest.

The Waldbergers return to their beds after a bathing excursion is arranged to the beds, tired out.

"Dead" Man Comes Visiting.

Cleveland, O.—"What to thunder! I thought you were dead and buried!" Jacob C. Wasser came to Cleveland from Flint, Mich., to spend a vacation with old friends, and was startled by the frequent greeting from his friends.

Wasser, 32, on April 25, 1909, succumbed to the travel fever. He left his clothes in a suit case at his boarding house and a few days later the body of a suicide was picked up in the river and identified as Wasser. The body was buried at public expense, and a story of the outside passed on Wasser's suit case. In a few months the suit case was sold.

Wasser, however, is still in the land. He has been seen at Toledo, Kan., then back to Flint, Mich., where he has been working since months.

FORCED TO LEAVE HOME.

Every year a large number of poor sufferers, whose lungs are sore and racked with coughs, are urged to go to another climate. But this is costly and not always sure. There's a better way. Let Dr. King's New Discovery cure you at home. It cures the most troubling cough, writes W. R. Nelson, of Calumine, Arkansas, "when all else failed and I gained 47 pounds in weight." It's surely the king of all cough and lung cures. Thousands owe their lives and health to it. It's positively guaranteed for coughs, colds, hiccups, asthma, croup, all throat and lung troubles. 50c and $1. Trial bottles free at C. J. Shain's and Cobb-Stanley-Harris Co.'s.

5 Strong Reasons for Fall Painting

1. The wood is thoroughly dry. Summer's sun has removed all moisture.
2. Paint penetrates deeper into dry wood. The deeper it goes the better it holds.
3. Fall weather is warm, dry and dependable. Little danger of cold, damp, rainy days, which endanger the durability of the paint.
4. Wet weather decays and destroys unprotected surfaces. Lack of paint makes weight and less valuable property.
5. Fall painting keeps out winter moisture. The greatest enemy to the life and beauty of all structures.

OBITUARY.

MARCISSA M. COREY.

The subject of this sketch was born in Onida county, N. Y., July 4, 1828, and came to Michigan with her parents when eight years old, settling in Clinton township, Macomb county.

She was married to George W. Corey May 14, 1835, and settled on a farm near Warren, Macomb county.

She joined the Methodist church in early life and took an active part in all church work until old age debarred her from further activity.

Her husband died Oct. 6, 1862, after which she moved to Birmingham with her family where she has since resided.

Four children were born to her; William, who died in infancy, Mrs. George H. Mitchell and Miss Ida Corey of Huntsville, Ala.

She was the last of a family of 12 children who settled with their parents in Macomb county in 1836.

Her funeral services were held from her late home Monday afternoon, conducted by Rev. G. H. Whitney, assisted by Rev. W. H. Jamieson, after which the remains were deposited in Greenwood cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to the many friends for their many acts of kindness during our sorrow. Especially to the singers and to many for floral offerings.
