Good Jokes

REAL DANGEROUS.

The stranger in the public playgrounds noticed that the little boys were giving the little girls a wide berth. "This particular morning," "That's queer," he mused. "Say, sonny, I thought you little boys and girls played together?" "We do sometimes," explained the youngster on the sandpile, "but not today." "And why not?" "Cause it is as much as we can do to keep out of their way. They are playing tag and making making believe we are policemen."

Given by Mistake.
Disgraced Customer (who has brought back a watch he purchased from jeweler)—It was a disgrace for you to sell me a watch that it's absolutely impossible to make it go fast enough.

Jeweler (after examining the timepiece)—I most humbly beg your pardon, sir; you surely have good reason for being dissatisfied. I don't know how the mistake happened, but I find that I sold you a plumber's watch.

Under the Spell.
"About this time last night," said young Harlow, as he lighted a fresh cigarette, "I was sitting on a sofa beside a girl, telling her that she was the only one in all the world I had ever loved."

"And she believed it?" queried Dilson.
"Of course she did," answered Harlow. "Why, I believed it myself at the time."

Not Sympathetic.
When I had told Mittens about the unhappy existence of his old friend, Mary Utzauer, he gave not the slightest indication of sympathy, but snapped:

"It serves her right—it's the girl's own fault!"
"Is her fault?" I questioned.
"It's her fault," he explained, "because she refused to grasp the opportunity I once gave her for marrying me."

Too Late.
Dobson—"Were there no restaurants in Newville?"
Dinwiddie—"There were 10."
Dobson—"Then why did you have so much trouble getting a meal?"
Dinwiddie—"I arrived too late."
Dobson—"But you told me you arrived at 10 in the morning."
Dinwiddie—"So I did; but that was too late; the she'll had arrived the day before."

USED THE PADDLE ON HIM.
Will—Say, Jack, your father de- lights in telling people that he paddled his own canoe.
Jack—Yes; and I've often thought when I was a boy that he imagined I was one.

A Big One.
"I'd love to make a fortune," said a man at the check-out.
One big as fortune teller.
You can make making chickens.

Another Knock.
The manager came out before the footlights with all his nerve and egoism. "And our leading lady," he announced, "is a loud voice, 'is a dyed-in-the-wool actress." The old countryman in the first row had noticed the peroxide curls of the star. "Hi!" he remarked in a stage whisper. "Sort of a dyed-in-the-hair actress, too, eh, Mr. Manager?"

A Probable Short Term.
Mrs. Samuels—And such a man! But, of course, Mary married him for his money?
Mrs. Heardum—Yes, and also because no company would run the risk of insuring his life.

Realism on the Stage.
"Why don't the theatrical managers want husband and wife in the same company?"
"They think the public wouldn't care to see a man making love to his wife."

Looks too much like acting eh?

On Funds.
"Did Billy call up his girl on the long distance?"
"No."
"Why not?"
"He was too short."

Expecting Too Much.
"Has your wife got a cook?" "How do I know?" "It seems to me that you should know if anyone should."
"But I haven't been home since noon."

Market for His Product.
Hallfax—Sponger, the man who makes the "Energetic Rising Yeast," is preparing for a tremendous future business.
Fundy—Why is he so optimistic?
Hallfax—He has discovered that his product has an excellent anti-balist for a salarip.

New Reason.
Master—Why were you late for early school, Sir?
Wright—Please, sir, I must have overwashed myself.—London Punch.

We Want to Build a Smelter

The Montana Nickel & Copper Co. owns 12 mining claims at Nye, Sweetgrass County, Montana. It has enough ore in sight to supply a 100-ton plant more than a year.

It has one vein of nickel ore, 30 feet wide, that will average 5 per cent nickel, 3 per cent copper and $4.00 in gold. The total value of this ore is $57,000 per ton.

There are only two other nickel mines in the United States, and we imported $2,500,000 worth of nickel last year. Nickel is worth 50¢ per pound.

The first 20 men who bought stock in this company live within 30 miles of the property. The company is indorsed by banks and business men where the property is located.

We are offering a few shares of stock at 25¢ per share to build a 100-ton smelter. Would you consider and investigate a proposition that will pay more than 20 per cent, and may pay safely 50 to 100 per cent? If so, write for prospectus without delay.
