The New Market (10th) Herald says: On Sunday May 28th. Rev. Levi P. Goodwin delivered the sermon in memory of the departed heroes. His text was taken from second Timothy, chapter, and seventeenth verse. The sermon was a masterpiece, and greatly appreciated by the old soldiers. It was not of the old stereotyped form, and pronounced one of the best memorial sermons ever heard in New Market.

Mr. Goodwin also delivered an oration to the old soldiers and townpeople, on Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock, and the Herald, says: "A public speaker it is too often a man that you listen to because you are too polite or too tired to go away. An orator is a man who brings such a message that perforce you must listen and would rather fight than leave. Mr. Goodwin is an orator, and if he never proved it otherwise, he established it securely by his wonderful address at the M. E. church on Tuesday. The writer has had the good fortune to listen to the best speakers, but never a better."

The Bridgport, (Conn.) Daily Telegraph, has this to say of the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bodine of that city. Mrs. A. J. Bodine in years past, was Miss Emily J. Adams, and both of them are Bloomfielders. The daughter, Miss Hazel Bodine is a high school phenomenon on her favorite instrument, the 'Cello', and comes by it most naturally, particularly on her mother's side. Their home paper says: "A pleasant surprise was in store for those who attended the concert last evening in the Sunday school room of the Park Cotgratational church, which was given by the Endeavor circle of the King's Daughters under the leadership of Mrs. George B. Clark. The greatest surprise came in the 'cello solos played by Hazel Bodine, thirteen years of age. She has developed a remarkable genius and her future as a musician looks very bright. She is the oldest daughter of A. J. Bodine and has been instructed by her mother since she was six years of age until now she is under training of a New York teacher."

A Child's Toy and A Woman's Utensil
Any little girl of school age can iron her own apron with a General Electric flat iron. It is as easy as dressing her doll. There is no need of lifting or carrying the iron. It needs no changing. It is always hot and clean, at your elbow.
Think of its Convenience
in the household, and the relief from having hot iron in the summer. For pressing seams of the sewing room it is indispensable. The G. E. iron costs but little and may be used in any household wired for electric light. The cost of electricity is a mere trifle.
