morning—that's what I should have done—gone at once. Now it's too late, unless you help me—"
"Will you help me?" replied the other doggedly. "But I've promised Judge Brewster to clear up this matter to-night."

Underwood who introduced you to your husband. It was Underwood who aroused your husband's jealousy. You went to his rooms that night. Your husband followed you there, and the shooting took place!"
Turning to Judge Brewster, he added, with a sarcastic grin: "Palse confession, eh? Hypnotism, eh? I guess it's international and constitutional law for you and your attorney."

"It does not seem to me," said Judge Brewster, "that you have done anything more than to tell me what I already know."

"I can't tell you," said Annie, "that I have done anything more than to tell you what I already know."

Delicate Works of Art

Wonderful Ingenuity Displayed in Turning Out Microscopic Articles of Great Value.

In 1878 a London locksmith constructed a lock made up of 11 different pieces of metal, and when it was finished and the key attached, the locksmith looked at it and said: "This is a perfect work of art."

This little craft is fashioned out of a single pearl. The shell of the boat is of beaten gold, studded with diamonds, and the innards are of the whitest ivory.

Children are better in playgrounds than in prison. It is better for the community to have children exercising on ladders and horizontal bars and swings, than to have them hanging from the doors of penitentiaries or smoking in the shadows of a jail.

Half a block from the electric, just west of the city hall, is a beautiful location on Pine Lake, with a small lake, and a grove of thirty acres of trees, and a building worth $200,000.

During the presidency of Mr. Hayes I had occasion to call on Daniel Webster, then secretary of state. Glancing at my card, he turned and inquired: "Is this the same Webster?"
