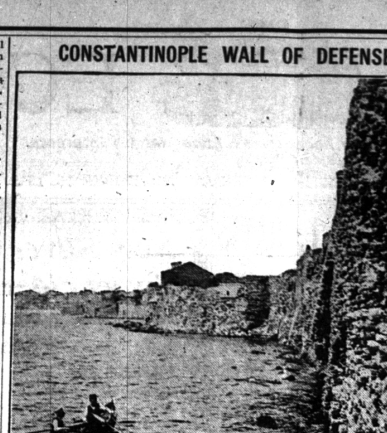
CONSTANTINOPLE WALL OF DEFENSE



The massive wall which the Turks hope and pray will keep the allied Balkan army out of the City of Allah. It was built in the fourth century to protect ancient Byzantum from Marmosa—Constantinople.

PITABLE PLIGHT OF TURKISH ARMY

RETREAT ON CONSTANTINOPLE IS DESCRIBED BY PARIS PAPER.

WRETCHES FIGHT FOR FOOD

Starving and Shivering, They Beg in Vain for Relief—No Medical Assistance for the Wounded, Who Perish by Wayside.

Paris, Nov. 13.—Jean Rodes, a staff correspondent of the Temps, who has reached Constantinople from the war zone, sends a vivid picture of the misery of the Turkish soldiers and the disorganization of the Turkish army.

"We have witnessed the failure of the Turk as a soldier," says Rodes. "We have seen him dying of hunger, worn out by fatigue, wrecked by suffering, and running away after having abandoned his place in the combat.

"I have never seen a more poignant picture of human distress than that presented by these unhappy men, thrown into one of the most terrible wars in history without food, without medical attention, almost without chiefs, almost without arms. At Seidler I saw a soldier whose right hand had been severed hold out to us, begging for medical help, the bleeding stump around which he had tied a piece of twine.

"I saw long lines of famished men who came to our tent begging for a crumb of bread and staggering away without a murmur of complaint when told that we had none to give. I saw a thousand wounded leaving a trail of blood as they dragged themselves toward Tchorlu. I saw hundreds of others fall by the wayside dying from wounds and fatigue.

Soldiers Fight for Food.

"At Tchorlu a column of soldiers, terrible in appearance, staggered through the streets in a driving rain and wind storm. No one paid any attention to them. They had no shelter, nothing to eat. From a near-by bakery an officer threw out handfuls of bread and the soldiers fought for the loaves. More than half of them got nothing, and turned away, ragged, pallid, and weak.

"All the houses were closed. Practically all the population had fled, and those who remained barricaded themselves within, trembling with fear. The soldiers knocked vainly at the barred doors.

"Groups shivering in the cold tried the doors of stables to seek refuge; even the stables remained inhospitable. Refugees smashed their way into shops and devoured all they found, including raw vegetables and candles, and sucked at pieces of greasy wood.

Calls It Image of Inferno.

"I never saw such an image of inferno. One of the most miserable of the wanderers succeeded in getting into a house where we were staying, drenched to the skin and teeth chattering. 'Take all my money; take my clothing, if you will,' he cried, 'but I beg of you to give me some bread.'

"I questioned him. He said he came from Asia Minor and had not eaten for eight days. I gave him a slice of bread and a chocolate tablet, and he went away to join the remnants of the retreating army, of which this was the end.

"Thus did the Turkish soldier appear to me. He seemed to have no understanding of the great drama in which he was participating, but his infinite misery and his horrible animal distress were enough to break one's heart.

"I do not know whether the accusations of a massacre are exact, but so far as I have observed, I can affirm that not only have the Turks committed no excesses but I believe that no army in the world under such frightful circumstances would have been more moderate, more docile."

NAZIM PASHA

Nazim Pasha, minister of war, was in general command of the Turkish forces in Thrace, which were so decisively defeated by the Bulgarians.

Onward and Upward.

"So you are going to be a grand opera singer?"

"Only for a little while," replied the ambitious young vocalist. "Just long enough to get a reputation which will enable me to establish a business in educating people in how to reduce weight and become beautiful."

The Alternative.

"Will they hang your client?"

"Not if we can manage to hang the jury."

No Trouble.

"I hear you had a little trouble down at the corner the other night, Mike."

"Throuble? Phwat throuble?"

"Weren't you in a fight or something?"

"Oh, yis, we had a little mixup, but it was no throuble. All I had t' do was hit me mon once."

Eccentricity.

Gillet—Anything eccentric about Macey's children?

Perry — Yes; they all mind.—Judge.

Maybe She Has.

Gladman—I think my wife has decided to give up bridge and afternoon teas.

Sadman—On what do you base your idea?

Gladman—I found a button sewed on my shirt that had been missing for months.

The Result.

"No shams for me!" declared Jones. The result in the house was a pillow fight.

Not the Real Kind.

The Doctor—But my dear sir, you must masticate your food; what were your teeth given you for?

The Sufferer (calmly) — They weren't given me—I bought 'em.—London Sketch.

Each to His Trade.

"This poem was written by a prominent lawyer of this city. Has it any value?"

"About as much value," said the editor, "as a legal opinion written by a poet."

SLAUGHTER BY KURDS IN CONSTANTINOPLE

BANKS AND FOREIGN EMBASSIES GUARDED BY THE TURKISH TROOPS WHILE MASSACRE GOES ON.

CAPITAL BUILDINGS SAID TO HAVE BEEN BURNED.

Surrender of 25,000 Moslem Troops to Greeks at Saloniki Formally Signed.

Serious disorders are reported to have broken out in Constantinople where soldiers are said to be killing Christians in the Galata quarter, according to a special dispatch from Bucharest, Roumnania, published by the Paris-Midi under reserve.

Some buildings in the Turkish capital are said to have been set on fire.

The banks and foreign embassies are guarded by detachments of Turkish troops, who are still obedient to discipline.

Another milestone in the victorious sweep of the Balkan allies was the entry of the Greek army into Saloniki, which means almost as much to the Greeks as the ancient capital Uskup to the Servians.

Crown Prince Constantine, after an interview with the commandant and the foreign consuls, received the surrender of the Turkish army under conditions imposed by him.

Twenty-five thousand Turks gave up their arms and were paroled until the end of the war. All foreigners apparently are safe and will be able to depart by ship if they so desire.

The Bulgarians and Servians have taken another important seaport, Kavala, to the east of Saloniki, and an important town on the railroad to Constantinople, Gumurdina, further strengthening their footholds in the cordon separating the main Turkish armies in the east from the scattered garrisons in the west.

TO CONTEST ON EQUAL SUFFRAGE VOTE

Amendment Was Not Printed on Ballots in Several Counties.

It became known in Lansing that opponents in the state are going to contest the election in several counties on the vote for equal suffrage.

There are at least five counties known so far where the amendment was printed only in part on the ballot and the law strictly says that the amendment must be printed in full. Three of these five counties are Genesee, Ingham and Emmet. The two others cannot be learned, but that the five counties represent a majority in favor of the amendment of 5,110 votes is known. Attorneys are now preparing their contest cases in each of these counties.

If the courts holds that the vote should be thrown out in these counties, the result would be changed and the cause lost in this state.

The secretary of state sent a written notice to all county boards of election commissioners in the various counties with instructions to have the amendment printed in full and has copies of these letters on file, so the boards of election commissioners cannot plead ignorance of the law.

It is understood that the equal suffrage forces will obtain legal aid to defend their side of the case.

TO CLEAN UP JACKSON PRISON

Detective Burns Tells of Plot Discovered; Urges Prison Reformation.

Sensational developments, which may involve a number of persons outside Jackson prison as well as prison inmates, are promised if the rumors relative to the probe of Burns detectives into the convict conspiracy are to be believed.

I am willing to make this statement for the benefit of your readers in Michigan, regarding the Jackson prison case, said Burns. Bear in mind that I cannot tell you all, for obvious reasons.

Several convicts are latent upon taking the life of Warden Simpson. Trouble began because he began to enforce discipline. Immediately after the burning of the sisal storage plant, the warden conferred with the governor, and I was asked to investigate. We were carrying our plans into effect when the plot to burn the canning factory developed. I came on from New York with Guy Biddinger, chief of our criminal bureau. With Roy Kelley, manager of the Detroit branch, we arranged for the immediate transfer of the eight ring leaders to Detroit.

We showed them that we had positive proof of their conspiracy, and one by one they confessed after we had "sweat" them. There still remain things to uncover, which we expect to get next week.

The convicts had a very simple modus operandi for setting fire to the sisal house. They lit a piece of candle and placed it where, after it had burned low, it would set fire to the sisal. The same plan was to have been worked in the canning factory.

Two More Jackson Convicts Removed

Two more convicts, it is stated, were taken from the prison late Saturday night, under heavy guard. The men are believed to have been removed to Detroit, where the surrender of the leaders of the plot to burn the prison and kill Warden Simpson are held.

Many rumors were heard about the streets regarding the latest trouble at the prison. It is said that Burns detectives, who discovered the plot to burn the prison and kill Warden Simpson, while posing as convicts are still at work in the prison.

The news that a portion of the 750 convicts in the prison have sworn to "get" Warden Simpson, was the main topic of conversation, both on the streets and among the guards and keepers at the prison.

Guards also fear attacks from the convicts. It is known that several of the guards have been openly threatened by inmates. The guards and keepers are on the alert at all times, ready for a fresh outbreak among the inmates, which is feared may take place at any time.
