Brewer's Rule.

It was common knowledge that at twelve o'clock noon the wealthy brewer called in all the poor men in the neighborhood who warmed themselves over stove and factory gratings and vended them small presents of food, clothing or money. The brewery gratings alone possessed no occupants.

"We don't dare stand there on account of the fumes," said one unfortunate who had been requested to vacate the trunkmaker's grating. "We won't give to anybody who smells beery."

No Waves.

A young mother who still considers Marcel waves as the most fashionable way of dressing the hair was at work on the job.

The precocious child was crouching on its father's lap, the baby fingers now and then sliding over the smooth and glossy pate which is father's.

"No waves for you, father," remarked the Little One. "You're all beach."

FREE HOMES
FOR A
Quarter Million
Northwest

Montana, Oregon and Minnesota, combined, can provide homes for a quarter million people and give each man a deed to a 160 or 320 acre farm, under the provisions of Uncle Sam's homestead laws.

Montana won the premium for the best wheat, oats, barley and alfalfa grown in the United States at the New York Land Show, and she has more than twenty million acres of government land within her borders capable of raising rich crops of these products yearly. You can homestead this land.

Central Oregon has been opened to settlement by the completion of the Oregon Trunk Railway. Crops raised on its bench lands won against the world at the last Dry Farming Congress. Seventeen million acres of good farm land await the coming of the homemaker here.

Minnesota, contrary to general opinion, has over twenty million acres of unoccupied farm land. A million acres of it is homestead land. Most of it is logged off and wonderfully fertile.

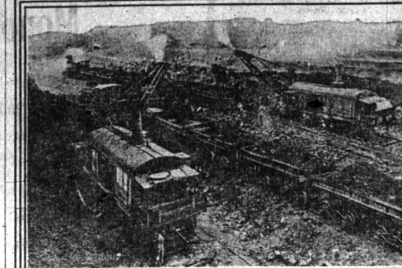
PANAMA CANAL NEAR COMPLETION



BREAKING every great engineering record of the world's history and surpassing its own most sanguine expectations, the canal digging army at Panama, which has marched from one victory to another under the leadership of Col. George W. Goethals, is now preparing for the final assault on the heights of proud Culebra mountain.

Against what odds this canal army has fought, few, even of its admirers, fully appreciate. When the plans for its construction were prepared, it was estimated that nine years would be required to remove the 103,000,000 cubic yards of material it was then proposed to excavate. Since that time one difficulty and another has arisen and has forced up, notch by notch, the total amount of material to be removed, until today it is estimated that the entire task will represent the excavation of 195,000,000 cubic yards. Slides in Culebra cut have been responsible for a part of this increase, while the widening of that part of the big ditch by one-half has added much more. Then the ocean currents in the Pacific carried the silt of the Chagres river on the Atlantic side have deposited large quantities of silt in the line of the canal and all of this must be removed, writes Frederick J. Haskin in the Indianapolis News.

Yet in spite of this tremendous increase in the amount of material to be removed, the last shovelful will come out in a little more than six years after the work began in earnest. Thus it will be seen that while the amount of work to be done has increased by more than seven-eighths, the time in which it was estimated it could be done has been cut down by approximately one-third. Furthermore, so magnificently has the canal army responded to the demands of its leader for efficiency that the vast amount of additional work is being done with money saved by economical operations on the work originally planned. When one stops to consider that all of this additional work is being done on savings effected elsewhere, and that it has not added one penny to the original estimates of cost, the marvelous results of the efficiency campaign on the isthmus become apparent.

Culebra cut always has been the backbone of the canal problem. Once it was thought Gatun dam would be the most knotty feature of the work, but this great dam has proved so much less of a problem than was anticipated that the canal officials long ago ceased to worry about it. They felt, four years ago, when they were beginning to plan the foundations of this great structure, that there would be many difficulties to overcome, and yet they were prepared to meet them. The actual work has not been nearly so difficult of accomplishment as they had expected, very much to the discomfiture of those people who insisted that the dam could never be built.

On the other hand, Culebra cut has proved to be a much greater task than was anticipated. When President Roosevelt ordered that its bottom width should be increased from 200 to 300 feet, he added a considerable element to the difficulties of the problem. The great masses of material that have been sliding into the canal from the adjacent banks, one slide alone having a surface area of 47 acres, have added immensely to the seriousness of the problem at Culebra, and yet, one by one, these difficulties and obstacles have been overcome, so that there now remains to be removed less than 16,000,000 cubic yards out of a total of more than 88,000,000. So rapidly has the work progressed that it is expected that within four months the big cut practically will be completed, except the three miles through the heart of Culebra mountain. There will remain on that date in that three-mile stretch, 11,000,000 cubic yards of material. It is expected that 30 steam shovels can be operated advantageously in this contracted area, as against 42 now in operation. Assuming that the 30 can do as well in proportion as the 42 now are doing, the last shovelful of dirt will come out in less than 18 months from the present date.

The canal authorities always are prepared for any emergency that may arise. They take nothing for granted, and accept no risks. Every step must be proved as well as human instrumentalities may prove it before it is taken. They prepare for every imaginable contingency. Recently they had a government geologist from Washington make an on-the-ground study of the geological formations of the Culebra region, and they are assured from these investigations that they have made all necessary allowances for further possible slides. Yet they are preparing to meet any new ones which may develop. Should there be any additional slides after June 1, 1913, the canal authorities will meet them by moving the great dredges of the Pacific division into the cut and dredging out the incoming material at the rate of millions of yards a month. By that time the locks and dams of the canal will have been completed and the water can be turned into Culebra cut. But this is a contingency that is practically certain not to arise.

Taking a journey through the canal from the Atlantic to the Pacific, one may see everywhere evidences of the rapidity with which the canal is being completed. The seven-mile sea level section between deep water and the Gatun locks is already opened to navigation. It can now be used by craft of moderate draft, and will be completed to its full width of 500 feet and its full depth of 41 feet before Thanksgiving day next year. At Gatun one finds additional evidence of remarkable progress. The locks at that place are now within a year of completion except for the installation of the gates and other lock machinery. By the first of April the Gatun dam will be ready to hold 55 out of the final 25 feet of water in Gatun lake. That part of the dam between the locks and the spillway is already practically completed, and the other section is being pushed to completion rapidly. The whole structure will be completed nearly two years before the official opening day of the canal.

After passing through Gatun locks, one finds the finishing touches being applied to the next 26 miles of channel. The completion of the relocation of the Panama railroad along the high ground to the east of the canal has taken the road out of the Chagres valley. This permits that entire portion of the old Panama railroad to be done away with, and by May 1 the 26 miles of the canal between Gatun and Las Cascades will be entirely completed.

DEPENDS ON WATER IN LUNGS

That a Drowning Person Must Rise to the Surface Three Times Is Merely a General Belief.

A group of old salts were discussing the popular belief that a drowning person must come to the surface of the water three times before he can possibly drown.

"Well," said Capt. "Tom" Morgan, "there is little ground for that supposition. The truth, a drowning person may sink the first time, never to rise again, or he may, as in the majority of cases, rise three times before he sinks forever.

"It all depends on the quantity of water he swallows when he sinks and the size of his lungs. The human body in life naturally floats while the lungs are inflated. So long as one keeps his head above the water he can float with very little effort.

"But as soon as the person sinks he gulps down a lot of water. If after he has swallowed this water he has any air left in his lungs he will undoubtedly rise again, and will continue to sink and rise until all the air has been worked out of his lungs.

"In most cases the frightened victim swallows enough water when he sinks the first time to leave him exhausted, but as there is still air left in the lungs he soon finds himself on the surface again. Each time he sinks, however, the supply of air in his lungs grows less, until ultimately there is nothing left to support him when he will drown."

Cold Storage Lady Bugs.

Lady bugs of Nevada origin are imported into California to destroy many of the insect pests of vines and orchards. They are found in moss under the snow; but at that season they cannot be pressed into service because the moss on which they feed have not yet appeared, while the lady bugs are still hibernating.

Accordingly the little Nevadans are placed in refrigerating wagons and thus conveyed to California, to remain in cold storage until their services on vines and trees are required. During all this time they take no food. With spring come the destroying worms, and then the lady bug is taken from her prison and dispersed where she appears most likely to do the work well. As she is ravenously hungry, the work is begun and continued until the worms are destroyed.—Harper's Weekly.

Attaining Correct Carriage.

To attain correct carriage one must walk erect and to achieve this end there is nothing better than trying to walk with a book or similar article such as a box of writing paper or several music books. This is sure to keep one from developing the swaying of the body more to the one side than the other. Stays that force the opposite of this rule should be discarded and destroyed, for they are not fit for the individual to wear, for if they work against erectness of carriage they are really a menace to the health. Throw out your chest; better to have commenters say that you are so straight that you appear to be falling over backwards than to be roundshouldered and moreover phthisical in appearance in looks, if not in fact.

SLEUTH HAS VERY HARD JOB

Is Going to Ask the Legislature to Pass New Law Making Burglary Capital Offense.

Policeman McCarthy of the Union Market station, saw three men loitering in the vicinity of Goldstein & Millinger's jewelry store on the East side at three o'clock in the morning. "Aha!" he says, "I'll sleuth some." And he did. He hid in a doorway. Soon he saw two of the men boost the third over the front transom.

"Aha!" says he, "I'll pinch 'em." But he didn't. The two fled, leaving the third inside the store, making a most careful inventory of the stock, as is done by all burglars in the best sets.

"Come out'r there!" ordered McCarthy, but the burglar merely hoisted his hand to a position at right angles with his face, placed his thumb against his nose, and wiggled his dexter fingers—a most uncompromising position.

"Come in and get me, yer big stiff," he finally muttered.

"That I will, me bucko, and 'twill be no ladylike reception you'll receive when I make your acquaintance," muttered McCarthy. The robber's fingers continued to sway back and forth.

McCarthy got a box and tried to climb over, but couldn't reach the transom. The robber advised him to get a ladder. So McCarthy got a barrel and put his box on top of it. Thus he managed to reach the transom. The burglar encouraged him.

"You're doing fine, you big stiff," he remarked.

"You'll be doing finer when I reach reach you," puffed McCarthy. Then he tried to wriggle in, as the burglar had done. The robber was voluable with advice. "Move a little to the left, fatty," he jeered. "Keep on coming, or wait until I get some grease and oil your sides."

Thus encouraged, McCarthy came through until he was amidship—and then he stuck, for no human being ever said McCarthy was sylphlike. The robber got busy. He collected six little missiles—like lumps of coal—and bombarded the wedged-in McCarthy.

"Come on; yer doin fine," he jeered.

There was a supreme effort, and with a mighty "Oof!" McCarthy wriggled through and, like a ton of bricks, landed upon the little robber.

Charles Schwartz, muchly battered, is held on a burglary charge, and McCarthy is going to ask the legislature to pass a law so he can be sent to the electric chair.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Unreasonable Woman.

Although much has been said and written on the subject, we do not yet realize how desperately lonely a woman can be in a thinly settled farming community. Probably no one can ever realize it except the woman herself.

They had taken Seth Hodgkins' wife to the state insane asylum. The day after she left him, Seth—who had been a good husband to her from the date of her tin-wedding anniversary to the date of her silver-wedding, and through all the intervening anniversaries—which there had been no parties to celebrate—received a visit of condolence from his nearest neighbor, two miles away.

Seth turned from a sink piled high with dirty dishes, to clear a chair for his guest.

"I shall have to hire more help. It seems as if she had been gone a year," he said.

"I always supposed that Harriet enjoyed good health," said the sympathizing friend.

Harriet Hodgkins husband looked in dazed and futile inquiry from the sprawly pattern on the bright new oilcloth that she had bought with the carefully saved egg-money to the view from the kitchen window, a wide, snowy field, solo tall, funereal evergreen trees and a patch of darkening sky. The kitchen did not face the road.

"I cannot understand," he said, "what ailed Harriet. She has hardly been out of this kitchen for fifteen years."—Youth's Companion.

Her Personal Plate.

A young girl who has a great many valuable small belongings and never loses any of them, says that it is solely because of her plan of marking everything distinctly with her full name and town and country address.

For her parasols and umbrellas she has a set of small silver plates of oblong shape and with screw equipped ends, which are readily detached from a handle and put upon another one. Her golf sticks, tennis racquets, hand luggage and the valuable collars which her dogs wear are marked in the same manner and on all of her toilet articles she has plate markings which cannot be obliterated or easily wrenched off.

The first cost of these plates was not very great, although all are of solid silver, and they were accumulated so gradually that the money was not missed from her allowance.

Adventurous Small Boys.

Two small boys who went pigeon hunting the other day caused some excitement in the streets of Paisley, Scotland, before their sporting expedition was over. In their zeal they managed to get on the roof of a house about 30 feet high, but while they were there a policeman spied them and commanded them to descend. The lads became frightened and refused and eventually they became so scared that neither threats nor bribes could tempt them to make the perilous descent. Meanwhile great crowds of anxious people assembled, but in spite of all advice the marooned young sters clung dismally to a chimney stack. Eventually the little boys were rescued from their dangerous position by the fire brigade.

Too True.

Mrs. Bacon—Did you see that talking doll that they wind up at the store?"

Mr. Brown—Yes, I did.

"Acts almost like a human being doesn't it?"

HOUSEWORK IS A HEAVY BURDEN

The woman who "keeps house" has enough to do when she is in good, sound health, but if she is weak, tired all the time, and suffering from morn to night with an aching back, house-work becomes a heavy burden.

Many women who were afflicted in this way say that Doan's Kidney Pills have made life easier for them.

Women are subject to kidney disease. The clothing they wear, the work they do, the worry and strain of bearing and rearing children, the lack of proper exercise; all tend to it.

Backache, bearing-down pains, headache, dizzy spells, faintness, fits of "blues," and other troubles often thought to be peculiar to the sex, are found frequently in kidney disease. When any one of these ills appears, together with a discolored condition of the kidney secretions, with passages too frequent, scanty or burning, just make up your mind that your kidneys are weak, and be quick to help them.

Doan's Kidney Pills have helped a great many weak women through the trying times when kidney disease means so much added misery. They do not disturb the stomach or bowels, and contain no poisonous, dangerous nor habit-forming drugs. Doan's are harmless for children too.

When Kidney Troubles Keep You in Misery Day and Night

"I just can't get up!"

The following case is typical of the cures effected by Doan's Kidney Pills. Grateful testimony is the best evidence.

SAVED HER LIFE.

Made Well After Doctors Gave Up Hope.

Mrs. F. M. Hill, 158 W. 10 St., Waterloo, Iowa, says: "I enjoyed the best of health until the winter of 1905 when I was seized with kidney trouble. I gradually grew worse until I was deprived of all energy and ambition. There was a stinging pain through my kidneys, followed by a dull, grinding ache across my loins. The whites of my eyes changed color and the eyeballs bulged. My hands puffed and my feet became so swollen I could not wear my shoes. The kidney secretions caused great pain and were annoying by their too frequent passage. I got so I could not eat, lost weight and was gradually growing weaker and weaker, when my father advised Doan's Kidney Pills. I obtained so much benefit from the very first that I continued and by the end of the first box the backaches and headaches had disappeared. I grew steadily better, and was at last completely restored. Doan's Kidney Pills saved my life when I was so sick that I did not care whether I lived or died. The doctors gave me up myself and I gave up hope of my ever getting well. I am so grateful that I cannot recommend Doan's Kidney Pills too highly."

JUST A LITTLE TOO HASTY

Mr. Newlywed Resented What He Considered Impertinence, but the Joke Was on Him.

They were on their wedding tour, and imagined that every civility given them related to their new condition of servitude.

Having stopped at a way station, the bridegroom was approached by the station agent, who asked:

"Are you going to take the next train?"

"It's none of your business," retorted the bridegroom, indignantly, as he guided the bride up the platform, where they condoled with each other over the impertinence of some of the natives.

Onward came the train, its vapor curling from afar. It was the last to their destination that day—an express. Nearer and nearer it came at full speed; then in a moment it whizzed past and was gone.

"Why in thunder didn't that train stop!" yelled the bridegroom.

"Cos you said 'twarn't none of my bizness. I has to signal if that train's to stop."

THE CARELESS GROCER

Blundered, and Great Good Came of It.

A careless grocer left the wrong package at a Michigan home one day and thereby brought a great blessing to the household.

"Two years ago I was a sufferer from stomach troubles, so acute that the effort to digest ordinary food gave me great pain, and brought on a condition of such extreme nervousness that I could not be left alone. I thought I should certainly become insane. I was so reduced in flesh that I was little better than a living skeleton. The doctors failed to give me relief and I despaired of recovery.

"One day our groceryman left a package of Grape-Nuts food by mistake, so I tried some for dinner. I was surprised to find that it satisfied my appetite and gave me no distress whatever. The next meal I ate of it again, and to be brief, I have lived for the past year almost exclusively on Grape-Nuts. It has proved to be a most healthful and appetizing food, perfectly adapted to the requirements of my system.

"Grape-Nuts is not only easily digested and assimilated, but I find that since I have been using it I am able to eat anything else my appetite fancies, without trouble from indigestion. The stomach trouble and nervousness have left me, I have regained my plumpness and my views of life are no longer despondent and gloomy.

"Other members of my family, especially my husband, (whose old energy, the 'heart-burn,' has been vanquished) have also derived great benefit from the use of Grape-Nuts food and we think no morning meal complete without it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Felt Rather Fat.

"Mamma, I had the nicest dream," said little Mary, age six, just after waking in the morning.

"What was it?" mamma asked.

"Why, I dreamt I was a young lady," the child explained.

"That felt pretty good, didn't it?" the mother remarked.

"Yes," was the reply. "But I felt rather fat."

Explained.

"Helghol" sighed Mrs. Stoutly. "You used to sit with your arm around my waist, John, but you never do it any more."

"I'm sorry, dear," replied Stoutly, "but there are some things that are beyond my reach."—Harper's Weekly.
