

Midsummer Millinery Copied From Paintings of Beauties of the Past

PAINTINGS of beauties of other days have been looked to, to furnish inspiration for midsummer millinery of today. The Gainsborough and Rembrandt fashions are almost exactly as to line and poise, only departing from them in composition and trimming. Even here it is the necessity for variety that brings into use new ornaments and fashionable feathers or flowers. No one can fail to appreciate the beauty of this artistic headwear, and for the young woman who can carry it off (that is, dress in keeping and look after the carriage of her figure) there is nothing to compare to it for distinction.

Two of the finest examples of these picturesque styles are illustrated here. They are both black hats with white trimming. This combination always is brilliant. The Rembrandt is of fine Milan with double brim, worn so close that it rolls under the head. Black velvet ribbon and a tuft of black and white plumes afford its trimming. It is to be worn with a delectable, never less than that shown in the picture.

The wide brimmed hat of black lace follows its original model less closely, but is not difficult to recognize. The brim is outlined with white crystal beads and the cockade of white or black is mounted with a fringed cochon made of the same kind of beads. The brim is indented at the left and turns sharply off the face here. It widens toward the back. This hat may be worn with a much more decided tilt by girls who are tall and full of figure.

AN OSTEND BATHING SUIT

Gracefulness in This Respect Adds Much Charm to the General Appearance.

The sunshade seems to be a rock upon which many a woman's good state hopefully founders. Not only does one often see uncomfortable fashions, but quite as often the sunshade is held so ungracefully that the whole effect is awkward and unbecoming. There ought to be classes on "How to Hold the Sunshade," and nine women out of ten would benefit from the lessons of the doctor.

Dr. Dixon has recommended to the Bay City authorities that they build a bath house on the beach, and the leper suspect who returned home after several weeks of wandering. Unlike his fellow lepers, who are kept at his home, Izen is practically penitented and lives in a small rented house in this section of the quarter. This condition forces him to remain constantly within the house.

WAYS OF HOLDING SUNSHADE

Points to Need of Leper Colony.

That a leper colony is not a remote possibility, but almost a certainty, is the opinion of Secretary Dixon, of the state board of health.

The doctor says that with but little effort several more lepers could be added to the known list in state. "Leprosy is not to be dreaded for the present, but for the future," said the doctor.

Traveller's Helper

A treasure for the traveler is a new blouse which has four different incarnations and which will provide exactly the right sort of costume for various occasions. There is, first, a foundation of cream shade lace which fits neatly, though not snugly, and which is perfectly plain, with a stock collar attached at the neck. One of the transformations is in the shape of a deep lace bertha, which drops over the shoulders. A draped silk girde, edged with fringe accompanies the bertha; and also another transforming factor—a graceful fichu of chiffon weighted with little glass buttons. There are, lastly, two surplus overblouses, one of dark chiffon and the other of black crepe moire. The chiffon overblouse may be had in sage green, tan, navy or white. Otherwise the blouse is black and white.

Corsets for Fall

The widespread discussion of peasant styles is doubtless responsible for the reports regarding a change in corset lines, says the Dry Goods Economist. There is no cause for alarm, however, as the straight line still dominates both in costumes and in corsets. We shall have no cause for alarm, however, as they are modified styles with no fulgences to distend the hip line. Belts also will be widely used, but they will not draw in the waist. If fact, they are wholly ornamental and used in quite loose fashion.

Coloring Lace

Very frequently we desire to give that rich, old ivory tone to white laces. This may be accomplished by the following method. Place a few cents' worth of yellow ochre. Mix with this sufficient rice powder to produce a creamy shade.

MARQUIS CONFALONIERI

A Shotgun Heroine

By Lawrence Alfred Gray

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press)

When Colonel Glider had been called to town that morning on business, leaving his daughter Floy and the cook to care for the house, he had said to the girl before leaving: "Daughter, remember what I have told you many times over. A tramp may appear during my absence. You will be sitting on the veranda. He will gruffly demand food or money. You will order him away in your sternest tones."

"But he will go," she said. "He may or he may not. If he doesn't—if he shows a disposition to hold his ground or attack you and Miss Floy returned to the house. The cook had straightened the legs of the victim, put a pillow under his head and was sprinkling water in his face. "It is—he is dead!" was tearfully asked.

"Dunno, missy, thought I saw a leg 'fore I shot him," she said. "He was a young man and an innocent young man. He was growing rich and poor, and that there was no longer a show for a hard working man, when Miss Floy retired within the room, and she was the first advantage. The tramp took it that she had gone to call a man of some...

"Missy, could I get a fite to eat at the kitchen?" was gruffly asked. "No, sir. No traps here."

The man snuffed his shoulders and looked around in a leering way. He was about to observe that the girl was growing rich and poor, and that there was no longer a show for a hard working man, when Miss Floy retired within the room, and she was the first advantage. The tramp took it that she had gone to call a man of some...

"Out there! Out there!" gasped the woman as she pointed to the open door.

"And what's out there? Oh, missy, but here's a dead man! Was it you that killed him?"

"It's a tramp that attacked the house. Papa told me to retire within the fortifications and defend them."

"Tramp? It he's a tramp then, my lady?" It was the young man, misgiving a young man and well dressed, and upon my soul there's an oombolony the gate was closed.

The colonel had not instructed his daughter what to do with any dead the retreating enemy might have been behind her, and for a moment the girl could only stand and wring her hands. She had made a mistake in her quarry. She braced up after a moment and looked through the house and down the path to the gate and cried to the chauffeur, who was nothing but a dressmaker, who was nothing but a dressmaker, who was nothing but a dressmaker.

SEVEN YEARS OF MISERY

How Mrs. Bethune was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Sikeston, Mo. — "For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I had cramps, backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded inflation, ulceration, tumors, freckles, eruptions, etc. I could not eat and I had to have medicine to ease me in the room. The doctors gave me medicine, but I could not get any benefit. I had an operation, I didn't listen to that, and when a friend of my husband's told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like it, too. I can do all my own housework, work in the garden and entertain company and enjoy them, and can walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the week. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl, and tell them what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me." — Mrs. DEMA BETHUNE, Sikeston, Mo.

Remember, the remedy which did this was Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

It has helped thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, freckles, eruptions, periodic pains, backache, that bring down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means have failed. Why don't you try it!
