ANY winter day of back breaking labor has the average farmer spent stooping over the old kitch stove, zig-zagging its way through tough wood for the broken saw supply. But the wise ones don't do it now. They have a handy engine to run the saw, which rest and plan for next summer's work.

That engine is about the busiest and most convenient machine the wise man has on his farm. It pumps water for him, runs the separator, washing machine, feed grinder, corn sheller, and grindstone. Often it runs a hay press, ensilage cutter, small threshing, or a repair shop. The year round it drives for him, saving the man's strength for more profitable things. And the wisest man has an because it does most for him at least cost. Its simplicity renders it almost trouble-proof. Its construction makes it easy to start and to operate, and it is most economical in fuel consumption. It is made of best material, and when necessary it will deliver 10 to 20 per cent above its rated horse power. I H C responsibility for the engine lasts all the years it is in service.

I H C engines are made in all styles—vertical and horizontal, portable, stationary and skidded, air and water cooled. There are pumping, sawing and spraying outfits. Sizes range from 1 to 50-horse power, to operate on gas, gasoline, naphtha, distillate, kerosene, and alcohol. Oil tractors, 6-12 to 30-60-horse power for plowing, threshing, etc.

The I H C local dealer will show you the engines and tell you all about them. Get catalogues from him, or write the

BUDDHA BUILT GREAT

Great Brahman God Constructed Town of Benares.

Mysterious Place of Marvelous Temples, Terraces and Palaces—Hardly a Ruling House in India but Has Helped in Their Building.

London—Five hundred years before the Christian era, Buddha came from Gaya to Saranath, four miles from the present Benares, to establish here his religion. The great "rope," a huge upright cylindrical mass of stone and brick work, which rises 110 feet above the surrounding one of the Buddhist dagobas at Anuradhapura in Ceylon, stands in the middle of what was called the deer park. The story is that Buddha struck by the lovelessness of the gazelles, took the form of one and becoming king of the herd. A certain rajah, hunting one by a cheetah, saw this splendid creature, and ordered the cheetah to be loosed upon him. Just as the cheetah hood was about to fall from the cheetah's eyes, the mind of the rajah became enlightened, and prostrating himself in the dust, he cried out: "Oh, sublime deity, truly thou art a man—and what a man—in the shape of a beast, whereas I, that wickedly sought to kill thee, I am a beast—and oh, how stupid a beast!" hidden under the shape of a man.

Saranath became a great place of pilgrimage, and the remains of the monastery and other buildings which were erected in the deer park have now for many years been in the course of excavation. Among other details I specially noticed a square chamber surrounded by short columns connected by rows of wide rails of stone, lozenge-shaped in section, and on some of such cross-hair circular medallions carved with patterns.

Perhaps the most remarkable among the finds at Saranath is a large quadrangular lion capital and the column it surmounted. These are of polished granite, and the column, which was found in several pieces, must have been 45 feet high.

In the tenth century of our era, Buddhism was crushed out by the Brahmins—the votaries of the very faith from which Buddha had succeeded—and at Saranath, the great monastery was destroyed by fanatical fury, and its stupas and other buildings were burned in a gigantic holocaust.

Not far away from these ruins, along a great roadway of the bank of the Ganges, the mason's handiwork spreads out today the marvels of its temples, its terraced embankments, its vast flights of stone steps, and its
