A STRIKING POEM

A Good Poem Brought All The Way From Florida by Uncle John Wilkinson Who Is Home.

All the way from Florida Uncle John Wilkinson who has returned North for the summer, brings us the following poem to print. After you read it carefully through you will know who to thank. Say it must be nice to be rich like Uncle John and just follow the seasons of the year and be in June weather all your life. Long live Uncle John, now read the poem.

THE HE-MALE OF THE SPECIES.
I saw an old cow grazing in a meadow by a stream.
Her mouth was full of grasses and her eyes were full of dream.
I was filled with apprehension as I watched her switching tail.
For Kilgus says the female is more deadly than the male.

But the day was warm and sultry, and while gazing at the cow,
With a red bandana handkerchief I wiped my heated brow.
And—no way came a raging bull, and drove me up a tree.

For the he-male of that species is more deadly than the she,
And when at last I got away, full well I used my legs.
I jumped a fence, and scared a den who sat upon her eggs.

With cacklings wild she waddled off, I felt myself grow pale.
For I feared the fearsome female that's more deadly than the male.
But the cow came running up, with wrath and ruffles on his brow;

He saw another rooster, and he blamed him for the row;
And the way they made the feathers fly was terrible to see.
For the he-male of that species is more deadly than the she.

Then a frenzied turkey gobbler got mixed up in the fight,
And I turned to leave the barnyard, when I saw a startling sight.
A wild-eyed, wondering nanny goat—she really made me quail.

For I thought "Suppose this female should be deadlier than the male!"
So I tried to shoo her off, but I reckoned without Bill.
Who galloped up, and butted in, and helped me down a hill.

More mused up and discouraged than I felt that I could be;
For the he-male of that species is more deadly than the she.
Some sheep were feeding near me, and I caught the old ram's eye, and I caught the old ram's eye, and I caught the old ram's eye;

And there I saw a woman, and my courage gave to me for fear.
For here was Kilgus's critter, who's more deadly than the male.
But as she let me in, I heard a person raging 'round.

Whose intemperate actions filled me with a sense of great profound.
And I fled before the aspect of Tim Sullivan O'Grady.
For the gentlemen of the species was more deadly than the lady!

On a Dark Night
It is very distressing to have someone in the family awake with an attack of cholera morbus, cramps or dysentery, and it is worse when you have to travel a mile or two for medicine. A bottle of Kilgus's Pain-Killing Magic Oil kept in the house is a real treasure. It quickly checks diarrhea, relieves cramps and eases pain. Effective also for rheumatism, lame back, strains, cuts or wounds. Price 25c per bottle. Sold by Cobb-Stanley-Harris Co.—Adv.

NOT ENOUGH PIE.
BY A. WHITEHEAD.

The true democratic wheel-horses, that faithful and hungry old bunch, are all of 'em out for an office, they'll succeed of course, that's a hunch. They're all putting up a good holler, you've heard it 'er this I'll be bound.

But what will they do to poor Woodrow if there aint enough pie to go 'round?
One wants a small country, post office, another inspector of beer, Here's one for collector of customs, a thousand more want it, that's clear.

Last fall they stampeded the whole country with arguments more or less sound.
They quarrelled and fought while everyone thought there'd be plenty of pie to go round.

Robinson wants to be game warden, while Smith oil inspector would be, Jones says a consul would suit him, he longs foreign countries to see, Brown's willing to take most any old thing and sets forth his reasons profound.

Bit boys, listen here just a minute; there ain't enough pie to go round! Tom claims he can settle the tariff, Dick would clean up the Mexican war.

Harry thinks the Jap question is easy—can fix it so they won't be sore. They won't go so hard last November while Teddy just ripped up the ground.
Bull mooses were there tearing holes in the air, now there aint enough pie to go 'round.

A man living at Auburn, New York, had a severe attack of kidney and bladder trouble. Being a working man, and not wanting to lose time, he managed himself completely by using Foley Kidney Pills. A year later he says: "It is a pleasure to report that the cure was permanent." His name is J. A. Farmer. For sale by all druggists. A.C.V.

WILSON REED, pastor.
Best Medicine for Colds.
When a druggist recommends a remedy for colds, throat and lung troubles, you can feel sure that he knows what he is talking about. C. Lower, druggist of Marion, Ohio, writes of Dr. King's New Discovery: "Throat Dr. King's New Discovery is the best lung and throat medicine I sell. It cured my wife of a severe bronchial cold after all other remedies failed." It will do the same for you if you are suffering with a cold or any bronchial, throat or lung cough. Keep a bottle on hand all the time for every one in the family to use. It is a home doctor. Price 50c and $1. Guaranteed by C. J. Shain and Cobb-Stanley-Harris Co.—Adv.

A BIRD TRAGEDY.
Four little baby-birds,
Chirping in a nest;
"Mother, come and warm us
With your downy breast."
"Father, come and—"
Do not stay away;
Four empty tummies
Are gnawing all the day.
Poor little baby-birds,
Chirp until you die;
Your father's on a woman's hat,
Your mother's in a pie.
