"Harry Lauder."

When Harry Lauder, the famous Scotch comedian, comes to the Washington Theatre, on Monday January 26 for a six day engagement with daily matinees he will again be under the direction of William Morris, who may be said to have "made" Lauder in this country. Mr. Morris has engineered three other tours of Lauder in the United States, sometimes as an independent vaudeville manager with his own size of the attraction to pay.

DEATH OF DANIEL DONOVAN.

From the Daily Evening Item published at Lynn, Mass., July 19, we learn the following—

Daniel Donovan, retired shoe manufacturer, author and charter member of the Father Mathew Total Abstinence Society of Lynn, died at his home, 21 High Rock street, where he had resided for a great many years. Death came after an illness of a little more than a week with pneumonia. He was 61 years of age.

The soft rather high crowned turban made of velvet and trimmed with wired mott ribbon has a premonition of spring modes in it. First, it is considerably taller than the average turban, and it is not brooked quite so far down over the head. The crown is round, but made so by draping not by shaping in the frame.

There is a wreath of standing fancy feathers almost concealed by the drapings about the crown, and a little bouquet of small flowers at the side set flat against the velvet, near the brim edge.

Mr. Donovan was identified as one of the early residents of Lynn in the lands. He frequently displayed a prominent part in the furtherance of temperance, and was deeply interested in the local Father Mathew Total Abstinence society. He was noted among the times shoe manufacturers of the city, and, although one of the most active of shoe manufacturers, yet he never entered into politics. He was an attendant of St. Mary's church for many years.

FAVORITE AMONG FRENCH COIFFURES IS THE CASQUE

Among those coiffures which are classed in a style known as the "Casque," one is illustrated here which seems to be much favored by the times who enter the business of fashion with solid cloths, and face unshorn, and muddy boots, is not apt to get a job. This may be due to superficial judgements, but people have to make the best use they can of exterior indications.

Where there is not much hair of it must be varied to dress it in this style successfully. Otherwise the hair is to be parted off and combed away from the crown of the head, all around, and the hair parted off as desired.

Waving may be accomplished in several ways. The curling iron method is the most popular. It is used for those who have time is most comfortable. It will not hurt the hair unless done too frequently. A second good method is that of rolling strands of hair, slightly dampened on kid rollers over night, and a third is to wave back and forth on a heavy hair pin or a curler made for the purpose. But it may prove somewhat uncomfortable in this way.
