Dividends to Policyholders

The fact that the Company enjoys an enviable record for persistency of business is convincing proof that its policies are right, and are sold right, and that the Policyholders are well satisfied.

To quite an extent the splendid success of the Lincoln Life is due to the fact that the officers of the Company do not assume the attitude of being the bases of the agents. We consider the Agent our fellow man, and seek to serve him in a great and wonderful business in which we have a common cause. We help the agent solve his problems by understanding and sympathicing with him. There is no gf requal to sympathy and no cooperation like the cooperation of the understanding heart.
