GERMANS FIRE BRIGADES

London.—The official press bureau issued a descriptive account of the operations in France of the British units with the British army. It is a medley of news, communicated by an eye witness present at the headquarters of Field-Marshal Sir John French.

"Sept. 25, 1914—Four days there has been a comparative lull all along our front. This has been accompanied by the moving about, mediate touch with it, communicated by an eye witness present at the headquarters of Field-Marshal Sir John French.

"Sept. 25, 1914—Four days there has been a comparative lull all along our front. This has been accompanied by the moving about, mediate touch with it, communicated by an eye witness present at the headquarters of Field-Marshal Sir John French.

"Advantage has been taken of the lull to reorganize the units. Several units have been moved to the firing line for some time. Several units have been moved to the firing line for some time. Several units have been moved to the firing line for some time.

"Since the last letter left general headquarters evidence has been received which indicates that the British counter-attacks on the night of Sunday, the 20th, the German infantry fired into each other as the result of an attempt to cover out of files which was repulsed by a converging advance in the dark.

"Opposite our position of our position a considerable massing of the forces was observed before dark and some hours later a furious fusillade was heard in front of our lines, though no bullets came over our trenches.

Many Dead in Trenches.
"This narrative begins with September 21 and covers only two days. On Monday the 21st there was a lull in the weather took a turn for the better, which has been maintained. The action was practically confined to the artillery, our guns at intervals shelling and driving away the enemy, who were endeavoring to construct a redoubt. The Germans for their part expended a large number of heavy shells in a long range bombardment of a village.

"Reconnoitering parties sent out during the night of September 21-22 discovered some deserted trenches, and in them, or near them, in the woods, more than a hundred dead and wounded were piled up. A number of rifles, ammunition and equipment also were found. There were other signs that portions of the enemy's forces had withdrawn for some distance.

"Tuesday, the 22nd, also was a fine day, with less wind, and was one of the most uneventful days that has passed since we reached the Aisne—uneventful, that is, for the British. There was less artillery work on either side than on the previous day, giving another village a taste of the 'Jack Johnsons.'

WATER FROM THE SUPREME COURT HANDS DOWN MANY IMPORTANT DECISIONS.

The judgment of the city of Kalamazoo against the Standard Paper company, that city for $100,000 of water, was caused by the construction of a water pipe by one of the company's employees, which kept the meter from registering. He was prosecuted criminally and the city sued for the value of the water alleged to have been stolen. The verdict below is affirmed.

ACCIDENT BOARD REVERSED

Judge McAlvey in Written Opinion Goes Deeply into History and Logic of Modern Compensation Legislation.

(By Gurd M. Hayes.)

Lansing—Reversing the industrial accident board in the case of compensation for the death of Joseph Andrewski, a fruit canner, the supreme court Friday rendered a decision that, in the opinion of experts, is the most important since the law went into effect.

The decision, how to do with what might be termed "reasonable occupations" and forms a precedent and a basis upon which other compensation payments in all of such occupations shall be computed. Among the occupations in the class are coal mining, the best sugar industry, masonry and all work shortened by the weather.

Andrewski was a coal miner and worked in one of the mines of the Wolverine Coal company. He was accidentally killed and his estate was given compensation by the board on the basis of 300 working days a year, the usual working year. In the computation of the compensation, the board multiplied it by 300 working days and divided by 52 to reach the weekly wage demanded by the statute. The supreme court says that the weekly wage should be based on the man did not work a full year. Due to weather and other conditions, he worked but 211 days the year before he was killed.

For the nine years previous to the death, Andrewski received a total wage from the mine owners of $51,176. This made an average annual wage of $575 and his weekly wage was $110.6. They order the board to pay half that sum, or $55.32 for two weeks.

Andrewski's estate is considered by the employers and employees throughout the state as one of the most important the high court had yet tackled. The opinion in the case is written by Chief Justice McAlvey and is lengthy. He finds that the construction of the case under the Michigan law, owing to the way it is worded, has no precedent under the laws and the laws in other states have similar provision for such cases, but the Michigan law must be construed strictly. He then goes into the history of modern compensation acts, shows how they should be figured as to the intent of the legislature. He finds that the legislature, by so wording it, intended to protect the other provisions of the act did not mean that compensation for such cases as that of Andrewski should be computed as the accident board computed, but rather as the supreme court figures it.

Montcalm Court Reversed.
The Montcalm county court was reversed in a peculiar case, which has been hanging fire for some time. On November 1911, the driver of a Pullman W. Bullock, of Penwick, Montcalm county, was raised, under the search and seizure act, by Deputy Sheriffs Bogart and Gallup, under orders from Sheriff Latorv. Bullock's car was destroyed and later Bullock sued the three officers for that amount. He claimed the destruction of the liquor was illegal, owing to the fact that the warrant was improperly drawn and not clearly within the terms of the Warner-Cramton law.

The Montcalm court upheld the officers, deciding the warrant good, 108 births were reported to the department.

The monthly mortality report compiled by Secretary of State Martin, shows that during the month of August 1914, the number of deaths in Michigan during August. This number corresponds to the annual death rate of 111 per 1000, as compared to the previous four years. During the month of August 6, 108 births were reported to the department.

The Pere Marquette has paid its state taxes for 1913, a check for $573,000, was paid to the state treasurer Friday. By not paying the year when their taxes were due, the road has been compelled to pay $27,000 in penalties. This money goes into the primary school fund which is now credited with a balance of $29,917, the largest amount in the fund at this time of the year in recent times.

During the month of September 833 accidents were reported to the industrial accident board. Of this number 727 were reported to be fatal. Twenty-three fatal accidents were reported. Nine of the fatalities occurred among Detroit workmen.

Atorney-General Fellows Friday ruled that a supervisor, who got out of bed at 2 a. m. in order to catch a train, was not liable for an injury sustained to one of his employees, who was killed by a train. A Newago county supervisor died of the early rising and wanted pay for two days.

There was a balance of $2,865,884.08 in the general fund of the state treasury at the close of business on October 1. The primary school and interest fund contained $12,013.40 and the special tax fund $134,994.96.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent. do not survive the first year of their lives. In some countries the percentage is not more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen.

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures, soothing syrups, more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, and in many quantities, they retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse. You must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria is a pure, natural, vegetable preparation, opens the pores of the skin and always cures.
