November 20th the Sigma Tau Sorority will hold a Thanksgiving party at the home of Mrs. W. D. Clizbe, Southfield avenue.

The Pythian Sisters' supper and bazaar held this week Wednesday was largely attended and a big success. The supper was fine and the sales from the bazaar perfectly satisfactory to buyer as well as the Sisters.

Mrs. Flora Brooks Martin, of Tampa, Florida, is visiting with her father, Eugene Brooks of Peru street.

The Choral society weekly meetings are largely attended and much interest manifested. The pupils as well as the teachers are very enthusiastic over the work which to most ally inclined participators proves to be very satisfactory.

THE HIGH SCHOOL RETROSPECTION!!

Read Carefully all the Whole and Many Reasons Why the New House be on Elmcrest.

From entirely disinterested motives, we respectfully call attention to the following suggestions in favor of the site in the northerly side of the village, on Woodward avenue, corner of Vinewood, known as "Elmcrest."

First, There is no difference in the price between this location and that of the proposed site on Pierce street in the lower end of the village; but there can be no question as to the relative value of frontage upon the highest priced residence portion of Woodward avenue and the southerly end of Pierce street.

Second, Mr. E. C. Van Leyen, of Detroit, considered the best authority upon school architecture, gives his unqualified opinion that such buildings should face the south and east. The "Elmcrest" site is on the corner of two streets and can fill this important requirement.

Third, There are many reasons that primary and high schools should not be bunched. The requirements of the two differ so widely that this is unquestioned. The high school certainly be segregated from the "little folks."

Fourth, No objectionable business or buildings can be maintained in the neighborhood of "Elmcrest." The beautiful park-like property immediately across the avenue is restricted to high class residences. The fine old forest trees and the pretty little river make the view very attractive.

Fifth, The sanitary comparison should determine the location in favor of "Elmcrest." High and dry, fresh air, natural drainage; the prevailing winds from the west and northwest come across a stretch of country which has become widely celebrated as Bloomfield Hills, where health and fresh air, with beautiful environments have made the land so valuable that the whole section is restricted to the most desirable city people.

Sixth, One of the finest buildings in the county should be located where it can be seen. Auto travel, increased by the new paved road from Detroit to Pontiac, is the most delightful highway in the country.—will make it a very valuable advertising point for our village.

Seventh, Taxes imposed upon property owners in the school district does not fall upon the residents of the village alone. Those in the district outside of the village must bear the heavier burden of the tax, per capita. Then put the building where these classes can see it as they drive along our main thoroughfare and can say with justifiable pride: "This is our new Baldwin high school, a fit tribute to one of our most venerated citizens."

Broadway Theatre

The Denver Express.

The Broadway theater, Detroit, will be the rendezvous for those lovers of good old time melodrama when "The Denver Express" is presented, beginning with the coming Sunday matinee. Owing to two rentals the Broadway Players are not appearing this week. The very first act opens with the holding up of a stage coach on the prairies, and the introduction of a favorite hero of the times Dead wood Dick, a role which will be portrayed by Jack Roseleigh. The particular thrill of the piece is the attempt to wreck the Denver Express which is frustrated by Poppy, the heroine of the piece, part which will fall to Glad Gilton. The action of the last act of the play is supposed to occur in San Francisco. The settings of the play will be particularly elaborate. J. Ward Kett, whose character impersonations are always invested with a certain polished humor will have the part of Tommy Tucker. Bessie Kett will be seen as Tildy Ann. Beginning with the coming week, the Broadway theater will give matinees every day except Friday.

These News Items Were Published in THE BIRMINGHAM EECCENTRIC Just One Generation Ago.

The township library books have been moved to the school building where they will be under the care of the librarian, W. D. Clizbe. Books may be drawn at any intermissions of the school sessions.

From Redford came these items: "We never thought of revealing a secret, when we asked the question, If a granger ever uncovered his head?"

It is good for rheumatism to ride over the bridge at Du Bois ville. John Frindle is now under the care of Dr. Smith.

Towar Bros. have erected a new barn at Sand Hill, and will fill the old one with ice as soon as Jack Frost manufactures the material.

Wm. Bruce of Redford headed a gang of hunters against Dr. Holcomb of Southfield. It is needless to state that Bruce's gang had to pay for the oysters.

One of the decoy ducks in the mill pond has had its head shot off. The old duck hunter thought him too hard a subject and did not take him home.

Our first impulse was to contradict several falsehoods appearing in last week's Eccentric signed by "A Friend," but our impression is that the one who crushes a stink bug only gets his own fingers stunk up, therefore we will let him seek its own level. Louie.

From a Big Beaver correspondent we read the following: Wm. Strong presided over a meeting addressed by Mr. and Mrs. Owen. Mr. Owen recitaling, and a speech by Mrs. Owen at the Red Ribbon hall. All pleased.

Our mill has commenced operations once more. Mr. Lamb has the prospect of a remarkable winter's work before him. Our shoemaker is working almost night and day and still is behind in his work. Our blacksmith ditto. Some changes have taken place in our wagon shop, but the old reliable Gust. Scholtz can be found there almost any time of the day or night, which is a sure guarantee of getting your job done quickly and well. Mr. Ebling is on hand with a splendid stock of goods—dry goods, boots and shoes, harware, confectionery, and drugs. He reports his business so far of the present year as most satisfactory. He has run a team on the road the present year and gathered in butter and eggs in immense quantities. Crossing Main street we enter the store of Mr. Isaac Pearsoll. After a most friendly greeting from that gentleman we proceed to look around us. To say that we are surprised does not express our feelings, when we view his excellent stock of dry goods, groceries, boots and shoes, hardware, etc. Although some of his lines are not as large as in some stores, still there is sufficient for the most fastidious to select from; the excellent quality alone make it difficult to make a choice. It is very surprising what Mr. Pearsoll has accomplished in two years. Messrs. Ebling and Pearsoll buy butter and eggs at Detroit prices and sell goods ditto. It certainly affords us pleasure on a Sunday evening to meet so many from around that picturesque hamlet spoken of in Modern Chronicle as Clawson, the home of one Codnor by name, also several other men of merchantile calling, and are glad to see our friends visiting our merchants, which is substantial proof of their prosperity. (Well, perhaps people do like to buy cheap.) Our doctor has all the traveling he can attend to. Other branches of business reserved for a future letter. Since Miss Buda left Precinct correspondent must have swallowed Webster's Unabridged for breakfast lately. Jerome Morr and wife of Clayton have been visiting in this vicinity. Theodore Eldred in a card of thanks to all his friends thanks them for husking six acres of corn for him while he was ill and unable to work. Among Royal Oak items: Mrs. Mary Moorhouse, formerly Mary Stiff, died of heart disease on Monday morning. Rev. Finn has closed his church for the purpose of preaching the gospel to the fire sufferers. Jimmie White of Birmingham spent a week here on his shooting gallery. Thomas Brown has opened a meat market in connection with his store. Mother Herring has exchanged her saloon for a farm. Rod's a hotel. Henry Russel has succeeded in the U. S. court in getting a divorce from his wife, formerly Miss Ida Starr. He is now plastering the Philips House.

BIRMINHAM SCHOOL NOTES

On Friday, Nov. 20, the junior class of the high school will give an entertainment in the Baptist church. The members of the class will present three sketches or plays, assisted by the high school orchestra that will furnish the musical part of the program. William Dean Howell's clever one-act farce, "The Mouse Trap," will be presented with Miss Alta Stephens and Seo Bird in the leading roles, assisted by Rosemary Thurber, Elsie Williams, Berdella Martin, Gertrude Brown and Mary Hanson. A humorous little sketch "The Dumb Waiter," depicting the troubles of some school girls trying to have a "spread" without being discovered by the teachers, will be given by five junior girls: Carrie Hamilton, Edna Shuler, Celestine Green, Alma Abelt and Isabelle Taylor. The last sketch, entitled "Christmas Chimes," is somewhat more serious and makes a little heavier demand on the cast. Roy Winegar, Carl Eley, Martha Ross and Bessie Sevinson have been cast in the leading roles. The work in rehearsals is progressing very well and a finished program will be ready by Nov. 20. All interested are cordially invited to come. The price of admission is fifteen cents.

The first grade are compiling a unique Thanksgiving chart. It is entitled, "What I Am Thankful For," and each child brings illustrations to picture something for what he is thankful. The variety of pictures is astonishing. There is everything from pictures representing father and mother to those representing the pet kitten or heaps of autumn fruits. Additions are made every day. A Thanksgiving and table is being constructed also.

Mr. Alvin Beardsley, president of the High School Literary society has appointed the various program committees who are now at work upon the programs to be given during the winter season. Miss Esther Wake field is chairman of the musical committee; Mr. Dudley Hays of the debating committee, and Mr. Roy Winegar of the dramatic committee. The first program will be given in the high school auditorium, Nov. 25. Further notes of this program will be given later.
