The sudden death of any of our loved affliction.

The sudden death of any of our loved ones is a severe affliction under any circumstances, but the gentle, charitable and friendly disposition of Mrs Brooks makes it less severe, when we think that her disposition and temperalment together with her sincere Christian character made her one of those fare individuals who may be considered as a laway meparared for death. She Rose as 43 to each; Pekin duck eggs at real, and a protracted sickness and is gas a laway neparared for death. She Rose and is a real, and a protracted sickness and is at real.

The funeral occurs this (Friday) at termon at two o'clock from her late residence, with budjal in the family lof in Greenwood cemetry.

The story of the play is an absorbing one, but shoulted no idea of its thrilling development as shown on the stage can be had from a mere reading of the supposes. Many Turner's mother died when was a child, and her father, after giving his daughter an education, died without leaving her anything else, so that at the age of sixteens he was confipelled to earn her own livelihood. She wint to work in the Emporium, a large dejastrment store, at $6.00 a week, and wighted steadily for five years. She

Mary Turner is now the head of a band of crokes, and during an attempt-ed robbery a murder is committed, which results in all concerned being placed under arrest. The final act of the play occurs in the office of the po-lice inspector where everything is straightened out logically. There will be a popular price Wed-nesday matine.
