Mrs. Thompson one of Southfield's dearest very earliest pioneers who recently passed away, was a great friend of the Eccentric and of Whitehead and Mitchell. One of the family in a recent letter writes:—"It might be of interest to you that my mother, although she could remember very little of recent years during her long period of illness, yet she always remembered Whitehead and Mitchell. The Eccentric is the last paper she called for and she would sit with it in her hand even when she couldn't read it. These are extra compensations for an editor. Very truly, Mary E. Thompson.

The home that possesses a cheerful wife and mother is not only a veritable haven of rest, but the safe harbor whose beacon light will guide her bread winners safely past all rocks and shoals with unfailing certainty. The woman whose cheerful spirit can take that "brave attitude toward life" that enables her to bear courageously the inevitable burden of her life's environment; that strengthens her determination not to fret or worry those who, for her sake, are fighting the hard battle in the world, has reached that altitude that proclaims her price above rubies; and her influence and example are not felt only within the limits of the four walls she has made the unassailable bulwark of state and society, a happy home, but reach to those she knows not of.

To witness the wonderful pictures of life in the Phillipines and what the Americans have accomplished since their occupancy of the far eastern islands, which are being shown at the Broadway Theater, Detroit, this week is a liberal education in itself. The pictures which are both motion and color, were taken under the supervision of Honorable Dean C. Worcester and are in six reels. Every detail of life in the far east is produced. For the coming week, an equally interesting program is promised when "Joan of Arc" will be shown in picture. This historic drama of life in France, when that country was threatened within by internal dissensions and from without by the menacing English troops, is presented with historical fidelity. It is a complete and dramatically told story of France's deliverance from her enemies by the simple little peasant girl of Domremy. The Broadway Theater gives two matinees and two evening performances daily.
