

THE MAGIC CITY

At the Exposition, San Diego, Calif., Delightfully Described by W. Scott Jones.

(Continued from last week) Commerce and industry, all have their place; art and the sciences will be a prominent part. The modes of life of the aborigines are shown in striking contrast to those of the people of today. As the idea has been to show not only the reason seemed to be strengthened why San Diego, the first port of call on the Pacific coast, should have an Exposition, and when by popular vote a bond issue of $2,000,000 was authorized and subscribed for, the dream soon assumed tangible form. It is not only spectacularly attractive and beautiful, but its utilitarian features are broad and purposeful.

It is strongly educational, and among the salient features is education, conservation and reclamation of arid and semi-arid lands, reforestation, civilization and kindred things. Opportunity is here afforded to make a great outdoor display. To hold the Exposition for the entire summer, strates as in no other way so well that San Diego has the most equable climate in the world, permitting the outdoor life the year around. It suffices to demonstrate to the pleasure-loving America. San Diego does not attempt to rival the effort of San Francisco to promote a World's Fair. The Exposition is within 3,000 miles of the Panama Canal.

U. S. Grant, the oldest son of the great general, is the president of the Exposition management, and has associated with him, men of capability in the management and at the heads of departments. One of the prominent features worthy of mention is the out of doors pipe organ, costing $100,000, the gift for the Exposition use and to the city, by John D. Spreckels, a man always loyal to the best interests of the citizens of San Diego.

When the Panama Exposition has closed its gates and 1915 will have passed into history, the organ will remain a permanent feature of Balboa Park. The organ is housed in a covering of cement and steel, is one of the greatest organs in the United States and the only one, so far as known, built for open air concerts. It contains cathedral chimes, concert harp, drums and cymbals, features impossible in the largest auditorium instruments. The organ itself is encased in a steel frame and its installation in a beautiful temple will enable the visitors of 1915 to have the opportunity of hearing the most distinguished artists in this line in their interest.

Among the attractive decorative features, the California pepper trees, in their simplicity but entrancing beauty, compel the visitor to be glad he can live in California, even temporarily. HEAVY HORSE A MONEY-MAKER FOR FARMER

Better and Heavier Horses for Work in the Field—They Are Good Money-Makers.
(By J. M. BELL.)
Both for farm work and for sale, the heavy horse is a good money-maker. In past years the so-called "fast horse" was the ideal horse, but now the automobile has driven the running horse out of business. The carriage horse of today is a heavier animal than in days gone by.

The farmer who goes to work in the field, or who hauls loads on the road, cannot afford to spend his time with a light team that can draw only a small load. He has to get more and to high priced. Deeper plowing, and more work must be done on the same acre. It is imperative that heavier teams must be used.
For a number of years the weight of best selling horses on the city markets has steadily increased. Only a few years ago horses weighing from 1,200 to 1,400 pounds each were considered large enough for heavy teaming. Now the demand is for 1,600

PROPER CARE FOR HORSES AND COLTS

Oats Go Well With Timothy Hay—Straw and Corn Diet is Liable to Cause Trouble.
Oats are the best general food for a horse, and go well with timothy hay. Once or twice a week give a feed of bran and clover with bran mash. Give only what will be eaten up clean.
Some horses are predisposed to colic, and a straw and corn diet is almost sure to cause trouble at frequent intervals with such cases.
Horses fed regularly often get in the habit of passing in the stable. Feed them regularly, and if not driven or used every day turn the horses out into the yard for exercise.
Horses are ruined by being brought into the barn too hot and left to stand in a cold draft, or hitched to a post to stand, unblanketed, facing the wintry blasts.
If you starve the colt the first winter, he is liable to come out very thin in the spring and worth less than when weaned.
Some farmers keep their horses on straw with just a little grain in winter. Bran should make part of such a ration.
It is believed by many that clover hay gives the horses heat. This is a mistake. If a horse is fed the proper quantity of clover and not overfed, there is no danger of the heaves.
If a horse is fed the proper quantity of clover and not overfed, there is no danger of the heaves. After an hour after they have finished their meal is soon enough to water them.
The cold-traiting must begin shortly after birth. A halter should be put on so he can be caught and handled every day. Never leave him.

WEANING THE PIGS IS NOT DIFFICULT

Little Fellows Should Be Given Sufficient Food to Make Them Independent.
If the pigs have been properly managed for the first month after they begin to eat, and are taking feed in amounts sufficient to make them more or less independent of the sow's milk, weaning will not be a difficult matter.
The time to wean will depend on the way the pigs are eating. If they are not thoroughly accustomed to a grain and milk ration the time must be delayed. If the sow is not to be bred soon there is no harm done by letting the pigs run with her until the age of twelve weeks is longer.
Breeders differ widely as to the age at which pigs are weaned. The majority want at six to ten weeks; some wean earlier than this.
A considerable number let the pigs run with the sow until her instinct tells her that they are old enough to shift for themselves. If the sow is taken care of, the milk she is still making may be returned to the pigs once a day for two or three days until drying off is complete.

WEED OUT USELESS RAMS AND WETHERS

Keep Sheep Supplied With—Variety of Feed Is Best—Keep Lambs Growing.
Weed old rams and wethers out of the flock and send them to the market. They are a nuisance with ewes and small lambs.
Don't let the sheep get half-starved for salt. If they do, when salted they will eat so much they will be sick. Give some every day. In everything be regular and moderate.
Feed rations that will keep the bowels regular. Variety is what we need to aim at.
There is little to eat in the pastures yet, so keep the sheep in. As soon as they get a taste of green grass they will not want dry hay, and are apt to fall on in meat; that you do not want for the lamb crop.
When your lambs get enough good milk from their mothers they will grow. If the hungry lambs will stand around bleating and with heads humped, it looks bad. Lively lambs are the ones that will bring you the money a little later.
Make a Cold Frame.
Every farm woman should have her own cold frame. If she is at all handy with the saw, planing and nails she can construct one herself in less than a week. The only expense about it, then, is the material. Any sort of ground sash may be used. The cold frame should be made to conform to its dimensions.
Culture of Blackberry.
Farmers' Bulletin 642, United States department of agriculture, contains a very interesting discussion of the culture of the blackberry. It is available at the head of the blackberry states with 5,000 acres. New Jersey, second, with 4,200, and Illinois, third, with 3,600 acres.

COMFORT OF HORSE IS OF IMPORTANCE

Remove Harness at Noon While Animal Is Eating—Remove All Dust and Sweat.
The work horses should be fed early in the morning and they should have a liberal feeding. The comfort and choice of the horse will be vastly promoted if the harness is entirely removed at noon while they are feeding. Rub them down carefully and cleanse from dust and sweat.
Allow them plenty of time for a good meal and partial digestion before they are put to work for the afternoon. It is poor policy to put them to work after eating a heavy meal.
Color Denotes Condition.
Look at the rain stain. It is a bright cherry color. If not, it should be a bright cherry color is a good indication of perfect health. If it is blue, the rain is going out of condition. A white skin is ordinarily infected with parasites.
Get a Good Stand.
The degree of success in securing a good stand lies almost wholly with the power of the farmer through the choice of size and kind, and its proper curing and preparation.

Old-Time Market Days.

"Market day" for ages an institution in England, still exists in certain localities, and may still be studied with interest by the tourist who visits Halifax, Nova Scotia, or Charlotte, Prince Edward Island. There large enclosures and roomy market houses are maintained for the benefit of the country people, and such citizens as have established a regular market business. Everything from live stock to a bouquet of flowers may be brought here for sale, the poorer being allotted a suitable place and charges a small fee for his accommodation, and while most of the market people are far from being especially frugal in their dress or speech, and sometimes the peculiarity of their offerings still suggest the important part which the English market and its local control played in the local and business life of three centuries ago—National Magazine.

To Clean Milk Utensils.

On dairy farms where many milk utensils are in use, the dishwasher will find that they may be cleaned neatly by first scouring each dish with ashes. Having done this, wash them in this way is sufficient; then rinse twice. They should be washed in cold or preferably tepid water, to keep them sweet and clean. The treatment will prevent rust spots from forming and keep the utensils bright without injuring the tin—Mother's Magazine.

His Helpmeet.

"Every time one of his acquaintances has a bit of luck and makes a pot of money he grieves over it." That's because he knows that when he gets home his wife will jump onto him because he didn't make a pot of money.

Land of Ideas.

In Russia, in the literary, artistic and musical world, there is a perfect ferment of new ideas and new methods of expression. More than that, in modern Russian literature, there breathes a spirit of kindness, which is entirely wanting, not only in French and German contemporary literature, but in our own—R. B. Cunningham-Graham.

We're Opposed to Mail Order Concerns

Because—
They have never contributed a cent toward the interests of our country.
Every cent received by them from the community is a direct drain on the national resources.
It is almost every one that prices can be met right here, without delay in receiving goods and without the possibility of mistakes in filling orders.
But—
The natural human trait is to buy where goods are cheapest. Local trade is usually secondarily in the hands of the played boys.
Therefore
Mr. Merchant and Business man, do not let your competition with their own weapons—advertising.
Advertiser!
The local field is yours. All you need do is to avail yourself of the opportunities offered. An advertisement in the paper will carry your message to hundreds of homes in the community. It is the surest method of killing your present competitor. A space this size will cost you only a few cents. Come in and see us about it.
