Gently cleanse your liver and sluggish bowels while you sleep.

Get a 10-cent box. "Sick" headache, biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, constipation, food and gas, nausea, loss of appetite, indigestion, fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach. Poisonous material clogged in the intestine, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain, it causes, through irritation and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, indigestible food and gas, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated matter and poisons in the bowels. Cascarets tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. I don't want to say that Cascarets are the best, but they are the best I know of. They are the best I know of.

In the production of a play there is an important person who is never seen and should not be seen by the audience, and yet he does more lines than the principal actors—the prompter.

Here is a description of a prompter's labors, written by one of the "lads":

"I, as prompter, had been kept very busy throughout the piece. In addition to keeping the actors on their lines, it was my duty to make all the outside noises. I had screamed 'Help!' I had shouted 'Kill him!' I had dropped planks to cover up defective stage supports. I had thundered, hailed, rained, snowed like a woman, marched like an army, and blown like an inflated balloon. I had inflated by drink. The last straw came when the hero, supposed to be pursued by hounds, said to the wings and ladies: 'Bark, you fool, bark. Why don't you bark, you idiot?'

Ellenora had been the negro maid at Mrs. Hodson's for several years, and left to get married, says the Delimita. She moved to another city and nothing had been seen of her for a couple of years, when one day she called on her former mistress.

"And do you have a little son, Ellenora?" said Mrs. Hodson.

"Yes," smiled the woman. "A nice little boy."

"Well, we call him 'Eugene,'" replied Mrs. Hodson.

"Eugene?" said the other. "That's a funny name for a boy."

"Well, you see, mizant," explained Ellenora, "det grand'papa and I first lived down to me named Tom and Jerry, and I didn't want to be outside by her."

"Then turning to the little chap, she asked: 'I wonder if you know what a very pretty woman your mother is?'"

"Oh, I take good care of that!" replied the young fellow, complacently. "I picked her out myself."

MAYOR AMONG THOSE TAKEN

Dony Roberts Unable to Secure Bail and Goes to Jail—Officials Charged With Conspiracy to Corrupt Election November 3.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 29.—Practically every member of the city administration of Terre Haute is in the hands of United States authorities as a result of the arrest of 93 persons made there on Saturday on indictments charging a conspiracy to corrupt the election of November 3 last.

Mayor Dony Roberts, who is a candidate for the democratic nomination for mayor in 1916, Dennis Shaw, sheriff of Vigo county; Circuit Judge E. H. Redman; city judge Thomas Smith and other officials were among those arrested. Unable to furnish bond for $10,000 demanded by Marshal Stone, Mayor Roberts was included in a party of 23 of the prisoners who were taken to the city and placed in jail. Mr. Roberts said he would procure bail for her husband.

The others were released on bonds ranging from $2,500 to $10,000 each. Sheriff Shaw and Judge Redman were given their freedom on bonds of $10,000 each.

Almost the only important official of Terre Haute that has not been arrested by federal authorities is Edward H. Hollen, now serving a sentence in the Vigo county jail for contempt of court.

Frank D. Daverty, United States district attorney for Indiana, who is directing the investigation which resulted in the present jail imprisonments, said that Hollen was among those indicted, but that he probably will not be arrested until he has completed his sentence in the Vigo jail.

Mayor Roberts, who is regarded as the leader of the alleged conspiracy to corrupt the Terre Haute election, is charged with many overt acts in the indictment.

He is accused of leaving agents against proprietors of saloons, dance halls, gambling houses, and resorts, to be used for the registration of voters, of hiring and employing repeaters from one precinct to another, of conspiring to place any man's money could influence on certain election boards, of ordering the arrest of certain men to prevent their voting, and of directing the making of false registration cards.

The grand jury completes the investigation of Terre Haute conditions it will take up, according to Mr. Daverty, the conditions in Indianapolis, which in the last week were said to have rivaled Terre Haute conditions in many respects, and also in Evansville, where a number of organizations have resented Mr. Daverty to make an investigation.

Chicago, Dec. 29.—W. G. Maddoo, secretary of the American Chamber of Commerce, few hours on his way to California.

"I consider it phenomenal that this country should have gone through such a period of business stagnation without a panic," the secretary said in substance. "In every where else the signs of a recession have been tremendous. The era of prosperity that year. The tide has turned and conditions are already greatly improved over what they were a few months ago. We are going to have the greatest period of prosperity we have ever known."

"While it is the railroad freight rate increase had in Chicago? Are the roads taking on more men?" he asked.

"An excellent report from all over the country which shows that the rate increase and the organization of the reserve banks have done much toward leading business conditions."

"How about the effect of the European war?" he was asked.

"Any war is injurious to the world, but it has reached the point where the present war is in some ways an actual benefit. Ever since it began we have unconsciously begun to economize, more so than we did during the war. The attacks which preceded it."

Naval is Driven Out to Sea—Believed Naval Arsenal Was Target.

LONDON, Dec. 28.—An attempted aerial raid on London by a German aeroplane was defeated on Christmas eve by the vigilance of the Royal flying corps. The star, after printing the official announcement of the hostile aeroplane seen over Sheerness, states that a German aeroplane also flew over Gravesend, practically in the suburbs of London, making its way down the Thames, flying from the direction of London. British aviators pursued it and eventually shot it down, without success. No bombs were dropped.

A hostile aeroplane was sighted flying over Sheerness harbor at 12:35 p. m. The machine was traveling at high speed from the east directly toward London.

Naal lookouts at Sheerness sighted the hostile flyer at a great height and a British machine was sent up to intercept it.

The battle in the air followed in which the British aviator hit the enemy's machine three or four times. After a sharp engagement the raiding machine was driven eastward over the sea with the British flyer in pursuit.

Thousands of persons gathered at the shore to witness the battle. The British machine was not prepared for a long fight and the English aviator returned to Sheerness.

At first it was thought that the German was intent upon dropping bombs on the naval arsenal at Sheerness or on some of the British warships anchored in the harbor.

Sheerness is in the mouth of the Thames and about thirty-five miles from London.

British aviators pursued it and eventually shot it down, without success. No bombs were dropped.

A hostile aeroplane was sighted flying over Sheerness harbor at 12:35 p. m. The machine was traveling at high speed from the east directly toward London.

Naal lookouts at Sheerness sighted the hostile flyer at a great height and a British machine was sent up to intercept it.

The battle in the air followed in which the British aviator hit the enemy's machine three or four times. After a sharp engagement the raiding machine was driven eastward over the sea with the British flyer in pursuit.

Thousands of persons gathered at the shore to witness the battle. The British machine was not prepared for a long fight and the English aviator returned to Sheerness.

At first it was thought that the German was intent upon dropping bombs on the naval arsenal at Sheerness or on some of the British warships anchored in the harbor.

Sheerness is in the mouth of the Thames and about thirty-five miles from London.

WHERE RASTUS FELL DOWN

Rather a "Giveaway" Was His Eager-ness to Demonstrate He Could File an Alibi.

At a special session in Washington reference was made to the matter of making bad breaks, when Congressman Rastus of Wisconsin was reminded of an incident along that line.

Some time ago, he said, a farmer out his way became so miserably drunk, and in order to better protect them he had the door of the coop fitted with iron bars. Still the fowls did not appear to be particularly alarmed. Rastus was arrested on suspicion.

"There seems to be no evidence against this man," said Rastus' lawyer to the justice at the subsequent trial. "and I ask your honor to discharge him."

"Let him file with a stipulated sentence," answered the judge, "providing he can file an alibi. Can you file an alibi, Rastus?" he continued, turning to the defendant.

"Yassah, boss, yassah," was the prompt response of Rastus. "If they ain't no bar, dat de hab on March 10, 1916, dat de hab on March 10, 1916, Philadelphia, Pa."

How "Bake" is Made.

The principal reason sent a consignment of "sake" to the British crew attacking Kiaochow. This beverage which should be drunk warm to appreciate its full flavor is of a clear, light yellow color and tastes like highly seasoned sherry. It is made of steamed rice, treated by a special method, and then the starch is added to the mixture. The character of the water has a definite effect on the "bake" that results. Hence, the best quality of sake only the best water is employed. An excess duty equivalent to 25 cents per gallon is levied on the "bake" which was raised in 1912 totaling $2,000,000. The name is said to be derived from the town of Osaka, which, from time immemorial, has been famous for sake brewing.

SYRUP OF FIGS FOR A CHILD'S BOWELS

It is cruel to force nauseating, harsh physic into a sick child.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "Moms" quinine insisted on—castor oil, calomel, salicylate. Now you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With four children's lives different. Motherly love is the old form of physic, simply "figs" realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. "Figs" tender little "insides" are looked after.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, also only delicate California Syrup of Figs. Its action is gentle, and the motherly love of motherly care which the "Figs" have to make it that it never fails to clean the bowels and soothe the stomach, and with a teaspoonful given today, saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask at the store for a 5-cent bottle of California Syrup of Figs, which has full directions for babies plainly on all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Adv.

ROUTS GERMAN FLYER

Naval is Driven Out to Sea—Believed Naval Arsenal Was Target.

LONDON, Dec. 28.—An attempted aerial raid on London by a German aeroplane was defeated on Christmas eve by the vigilance of the Royal flying corps. The star, after printing the official announcement of the hostile aeroplane seen over Sheerness, states that a German aeroplane also flew over Gravesend, practically in the suburbs of London, making its way down the Thames, flying from the direction of London. British aviators pursued it and eventually shot it down, without success. No bombs were dropped.
