LETTER FROM STATE CAPITOL

SANITATION RULES MADE BY STATE BOARD OF HEALTH FOR SUMMER RESORTS.

GARBAGE MUST BE BURIED

Workmen's Compensation Act Has Stood All Legal Tests and Will Continue to Remain in Force for Many Years.

[By Gurd M. Hayes.]

Lansing—In an effort to provide proper sanitation at the various summer resorts in Michigan, the state board of health has issued rules and regulations to be observed by cottagers and other visitors and local boards of health are being ordered to see to it that they are enforced.

"Garbage must not be thrown into the lake," says the state board of health. "A garbage can or barrel with a fly proof cover should be used at each cottage. The contents should be removed two or three times a week and buried at least one foot under ground. No pits into which garbage is being dumped will be tolerated, unless each quantity of garbage is immediately covered with at least three inches of earth. The burning of garbage in bonfires is so seldom effective that it is not to be tolerated.

Throwing tin cans, bottles or other rubbage or refuse on the beach or on the grounds is prohibited. A covered barrel or box should be placed at the rear of each cottage for receiving such refuse, which should be removed to some suitable place and buried as often as may be found necessary.

"Cleaning fish upon the beach is strictly prohibited. It should be done back and away from the cottage and the refuse immediately buried. Refuse from lunch counters, lemonade stands, pavilions, and other concessions must be treated as garbage and immediately buried. Throwing refuse of any kind into the lake is strictly forbidden.

"The dumping of drains or sewers from sinks, toilets, closets, etc., into the lake is strictly forbidden.

"The relation which insanitary conditions bear to the breeding of flies should be carefully considered and no material in which flies have an opportunity to breed, should be exposed.

"Violations of these regulations will give rise to the establishment of nuisances which are detrimental to public health, and violators will be subject to the law relating to the maintenance of nuisances."

Although the workingmen's compensation law passed at the special session of the legislature in 1912 has been attacked from every conceivable angle, it has stood the test of the courts, and as it is considered highly improbable that it will ever be repealed, this important measure will be a part of the statute law of Michigan for many years to come.

In the decision of the supreme court, rendered recently, the section of the statute applying to municipalities is not passed upon. This particular section of the law was not before the court for consideration. The statute was attacked on general grounds of unconstitutionality.

It was alleged by those who were intent upon having the bill declared unconstitutional that it conferred judicial powers upon the industrial accident board, that the title of the bill does not cover the body of the act and that it discriminates against domestic, farm and casual employes and that it is class legislation. It was also claimed that it deprives a parent of right of action for injury to his child and that it deprives an injured employe of the right to be represented by an attorney or agent of his choice in making all attorney fees subject to the regulation of the industrial accident board.

Similar claims have been made by opponents of the measure ever since it was enacted into law at the special session three years ago. At the present time there are 14,000 employes of labor in Michigan operating under the provisions of this law. More than half a million employes are protected under this statute and litigation along the lines of personal injury causes has been materially reduced.

At the last session of the legislature attempts were made to make several amendments to the law would be improved to a considerable extent, but no changes of any sort were made. The legislature did grant the board the right to appoint two deputy commissioners but all other proposed amendments were killed.

As the result of a new law passed at the last session of the legislature, the chief of each city fire department, the president of each village and the supervisor of each township in which now fire departments exist is required to report each fire to the state fire marshal three days after it occurs.

Under the new law the state will pay twenty-five cents for each report. Since the organization of the state fire marshal's department several years ago these reports have been furnished by the fire chiefs without remuneration. Last year 9,960 fires were reported.

Adjutant General M. J. Phillips of the Michigan National Guard, has written to the war department at Washington asking permission to discontinue the use of the blue uniform that has been worn by the citizen soldiers of Michigan ever since the organization of the state militia.

Maj. Phillips explains that a majority of the men and the company commanders prefer the olive drab uniform and if the war department looks with favor on the proposition all the blue uniforms will be returned.

The song writers and speakers at patriotic exercises will have to eliminate all reference to the boys in blue if Maj. Phillips put his scheme into effect.

Despite all the fuss and talk there is little chance of anybody attempting to test the constitutionality of the Pierce-Alward bill.

Tuesday Governor Ferris disavowed any move on his part, or any plan that he knew of to test the law. Friday night State Chairman E. C. Shields said plainly that he was not expecting to test the law and he did not think the Democrats would.

"I never said and never gave the impression," said Mr. Shields, "that I was going to test that law. I was asked for my private opinion and gave it. I represent nobody and know of nobody who is getting ready to attack the law. I have thought all along and still think the law is not according to the constitution, but I am not going to test it unless somebody wants to test it and retains me as attorney."

The Kearney-Horton case will likely be submitted on brief and will not be argued, if present plans are carried out.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Fred L. Keeler believes that the schools should remain open in all grades upto and including the eighth in every city in the state of more than 5000 population.

It is not Superintendent Keeler's contention that the attendance at summer schools should be compulsory but he points out that state laws make it impossible for the children to seek employment and he believes that the regular attendance of parents would send their children to school during the summer rather than have them on the streets.

Keeler believes that substitute teachers should be employed during the summer months as he would not like the regular instructor to remain in the school room continuously for twelve months.

Governor Ferris has appointed the following delegates to represent Michigan at the National convention of the Anti-Saloon League of America to be held at Atlantic City, N. J., July 6: Thad B. Preston, Flonia; E. K. Warren, Three Oaks; W. K. Moore, Palmyra; Elmer G. Carey, Harbor Springs; C. W. McPhail, Ludington; W. K. Sexton, Howell; Henry M. Leland and S. S. Kresge, Detroit; H. R. Pattengill and Grant M. Hudson, Lansing; Charles Lawrence, Palatka; Robert Sherwood, Watervliet; E. L. Southworth, Croswell; F. L. Baldwin, Escanaba; W. S. Talmadge and Mrs. W. K. Bishop, Grand Rapids; A. La Huis, Zeeland; M. E. Beurmann, Newberry; James C. Sheed, Olivet; W. E. Upjohn, Kalamazoo; Mrs. Ella Hanley.

Bad Axe.

According to officials of the state game warden's department the opening of the bass season, Wednesday, at midnight, was accompanied by but few violations of the law. The deputies in nearly all parts of the state have been heard from, and the reports all are that the fishermen waited until the allotted time and did not catch the fish too small.

"This simply shows," said Chief Clerk Charles Hoyt, "that fishermen are becoming educated to the laws and have learned that itisofar as possible we will make them obey them. The time was when we approached the opening of a trout or bass season with fear and trembling. We knew there would be a lot of violations."

The special committee appointed by the state board of agriculture to find a successor to President J. L. Snyder, who tendered his resignation a year ago with the request that it take effect at the close of the present school year, is having considerably difficulty in finding a desirable man to take his place.

Although the resignation was presented more than a year ago it has never been acted upon. Some of the members of the board say that in due time President Snyder's successor will be named and if no one is found within a few weeks it would not be surprising if the board would accept President Snyder's resignation and place one of the faculty in charge during the next school year.

Attorney General Fellows says that where a special meeting of a board of supervisors is called by a county clerk of which sufficient notice is not given to all the members, that the meeting is not valid unless attended by each member. Fellows contends that pay for such meetings may be allowed where members proceeded to attend in good faith.

The board of state auditors has fixed the rate of maintenance for the inmates at the Epileptic Farm Colony at Wahjamega at $4.40 per week per capita. It is said that the rate will be considerably lower after the institution, which was started two years ago, is well under way.

Warrants for half the value of 108 cattle, worth $6,900, slaughtered during the month of May for being afflicted with tuberculosis were presented to Governor Ferris Friday morning. This is the largest bunch he has been called to pass upon.

The state pays one-half the appraised value where cattle are considered hopeless and are slaughtered.

The largest single warrant was for $1,750, for the destruction of a complete herd of 270 at Grand Junction.

OLD AGE BRINGS JOY

Three Sisters Discover Brother in Kansas Soldiers' Home Whom They Had Not Seen Since He Went to Civil War.

Chicago.—"Way back in '63 a tall broad-shouldered young man went to war. His name was Edward Leavey. In the ranks of the blue he fought through the Civil war. He left behind him three sisters. Recently he saw them for the first time since he marched away that day with his regiment.

Last August his sisters advertised for information concerning their long lost brother. One of the advertisements appeared in a newspaper in Valparaiso, Ind. An old comrade of the soldier found it in that city and wrote to the sisters that their brother was in the Soldiers' home in Kansas.

He was sent for. The three gray-haired women awaited his arrival in a station in Chicago. He came, but he tapped a cane before him as he walked. He had been blind nine years. There was joy, of course, in the reunion, but there was sadness too. He could not see them.

No Chance, He Thought.

"I wonder if there's any chance for you, brother?" asked one of the sisters as they walked slowly away. "Have you had medical attention, and have you ever been told you could never see again?"

"I guess it's too late, girls," the veteran replied.

He called them girls, because in his mind they were yet in their teens—mere girls, waving good-by to him and shouting words of success and good luck as he tramped away to battle.

Tenderly they led the stooped man to the office of an eye specialist here. They asked if suffery could not give him back what his affliction and age had taken from him.

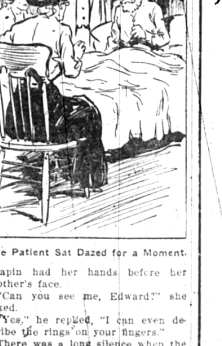
There was a chance, the physician said. An operation was performed. The eyes were bandaged. The patient must remain in total darkness.

Regains Sight.

At last the sisters appeared at the hospital, their hearts filled with hope. They are Mrs. Charles O. Chapin, Mrs Hugh Monroe and Mrs. Sophie Frechete. A nurse led them to their brother's room.

Slowly the bandages were removed. The patient sat dazed for a moment when the last bit of gauze was taken away. Then he made a movement toward his youngest sister, Mrs. Chapin, but before he could reach her, her arms were clasped tightly about his neck, and tears trickled down their cheeks.

There was no use for words. Mrs



The Patient Sat Dazed for a Moment.

Chapin had her hands before her brother's face.

"Can you see me, Edward?" she asked.

"Yes," he replied, "I can even describe the rings on your fingers."

There was a long silence when the old man's eyes blinked, and then he smiled.

"They say old age brings sorrow," he mused. "But it has brought to me the greatest happiness of my life."

Found $1,200 in Tin Can.

Hagerstown, Md.—While engaged in tearing down an old barn on the farm of Charles E. Virts of Weaverton workmen discovered a tin can containing over $1,200 in bank notes. It is the supposition that they were hidden away during the civil war. The old barn had been used as a hospital during the Civil war and the money was hidden then, it is believed.

SOUNDED LIKE BAD BREAK

Though Anyone Who Knows Irishman Will Know What Pat Meant to Convey.

The talk at a dinner party having turned to the subject of inadvertently making bad breaks, Congressman Jefferson M. Levy of New York related an incident about a party named Pat.

Some time ago Pat was taken to a hospital to be treated for an eye trouble. Eventually the bandages were removed, but it was several days before the patient could distinguish the adjoining scenery.

"How about it now, Pat?" said the doctor coming into the room one afternoon. "Are the eyes improving any?"

"Sure, doctor, an' they are that," was the glad response of Pat.

"That's good!" returned the doctor. "Can you see better; can you see the nurse now?"

"Sure, an' Oi can, sir," quickly answered Pat. "Faith, an' she gets plainer and plainer every day."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

GOOD WORD FOR THE BIRDS

Beautiful, and Useful in Their Destruction of Much Insect Life That Is Harmful.

The warm weather has brought the birds again. Their chirpings and wingings make a morning symphony the like of which can be heard from no trained orchestra. They dot the landscape with a beauty that no artistic skill can rival. They are beautiful, useful in their destruction of harmful insect pests and all us mightily in appreciating the joy of living.

Now, then, is a good time for a renewed appeal for the lives and well being of birds.

The best instincts of the human race are devoted to the saving of all kinds of life, and sanction the taking of life only when such destruction serves a purpose useful to mankind.

This cannot be urged in the case of the birds. For the most part they are not food animals. The higher intelligence and spiritualism of humanity should bring about a concerted movement for small bird protection.

Whereupon the Services Proceeded.

"Yes betcha," replied Mr. Jack Gap, a foremost citizen of the Rumpus Ridge neighborhood. "When the preacher asked, 'Who giveth this woman away?' four of us gents jumped right onto the feller that had been threatenin' to do so, and choked him so's he couldn't make a sound."—Kansas City Star.
