ONE-DEER LAW HAVING EFFECT SOUGHT IN PROPOSED BUCK LAW

HUNTERS ARE SPARING DEER

Game Warden's Department May Recommend Open Season For Prairie Chicken And Quail

(By Gurd M. Hayes)

Lansing—State Game Warden William R. Oates is of the opinion that the one-deer law will serve in a limited degree, the purpose of the proposed buck law, inasmuch as the average sportsman will be inclined to allow one deer to pass without shooting so that his one deer may be a horned trophy. Warden Oates says that this law is being followed by many of the northern hunting camps this year. Compared with last season there is a decrease of about the same resident licenses of about fifty percent, indicating that a great value is not a commercial value, as a consideration with some of the hunters.

As an offset to the decreased sale of resident licenses the sale of non-resident licenses has more than doubled. This increase is assigned to the fact that the provisions made by the legislature that a deer may be shipped from the state without formality of a permit, the tag attached to a carcass in the field being a voucher for legal shipment.

(Commissioner) Oates has arranged for a checking of all deer via a number of traps set in Michigan. Set up to the present writing the number sent down from the upper peninsula is considerably below the average of for or more for the few days of the season. Reports at the Lansing office of the state game warden show that 44 deer have already been shot and 20 were absent. Absence of trapping snow has protected deer from the hunter thus far and indicates that the deer will be less reduced. Fear of continuance of a great temperature which would drive hunters from camp to save their venison from spoiling is another factor which restricts the hunt.

During the season of the Michigan two years ago Game Warden Oates made strenuous efforts to have law enforced in Michigan. It was one buck deer. However, the bill failed to pass and the legislature passed a law limiting each hunter to one deer which may be either a buck or doe.

May Have Open Season

The long-time hopes of the Michigan and conservationists of Michigan are in a fair way to be realized is evidenced by the fact that the state game department is considering the possibility of an open season again be placed on all small prairie chickens.
