atrid. Lapyrd said after a frind. Tanyrd said after a frind rated I know what you est thinking. One can't do your case the injustice to imagine work understood me—read all as it my mind and"—his voice in my heart. I own that I was to speak se transparently, to a under such conditions. I am of the conditions of the conditions. I am of the conditions of ought her abruptly to her ring him a face of glowing with eyes distractingly arm drove the gir to the nearest wal aid her there trans mpt-He ourse."

But that seend thump—"the girl demanded.

A bullet," he answered, placing the bundle on the lable and cutting the bundle of the bundle

But she, wouldn't ountenance suddenl on the we unscrewed and removed the fuse-plug, plunging the entire house in complete darkness.

'That'll keep 'em guessing a while!' he explained with a chuckle. "They'll hesitate a long time before rushing a dark house infested by a desperate no such necessity."

Then, hand in hand, like frightened children, these two stols down the tunnel-like passageway, through a small, forborn court, more like a sew inments, and Ase came out into the gloomy, sincous and silent, Rue d'Asas.

Here they encountered few ways fairers; and to those few preoccupied and shoulders bowed against ing mist, the girl in her trim clinging trustfully to his arn Avoiding the nearer stop underground Metropolitan ar-ous. Lanyard steered a ro-ceurse through byways to th Sevres station of the Nords future be must achieve for himself.

And, sitting with shin cratled on the backs of her interlaced fingers, the sirr listened with such indusprate as women find always for their lovers. Of herself she had little to say. Lanyard slied in to his take the outlines of the simple history for the young winnan of good family obliged to become self-supporting.

And if 'at times her grave eyes clouded and her altenting wandered, it was less in ennji than because of occult trains of thught set in motion by some chance word or phrase of Lanyard's.

Stepped Out Into the Dark

t you must listen to use. I want understand, Bjurke used to say '. The man who lets love into Go open and God on mortal hand lose—and God lonly knows what lose in the control of the cont not particular or a little restaurant of porribly hark," she said undestord proceedings flust noistly of Los Halles.

They feasted famously—the citisting if bourgooles, was adaptrable and, settle still, well within the resources of the land of the meaning the said of th

"If we speak English to be heard it will attra a most tremendous loke. "Ha face is all in shadow." Patience!" counseled the adventurer. "Hell lake heart of course when convinced of our innequence." The lake heart of course when convinced of our innequence. "He lake heart of course when convinced of our innequence celling food in patient lake he la d occasionally discful-ere to be a chanfieur f a crazy Englishman constantly traveling and forth between m. That's to account tity with which I use now me, monsieur and outside the newself e're not going to need the but the home of Mme.

asked. "Do

a spine

(TO BE CONTINUED.) WANTS DAMAGES FOR BITES ployee of Minneapolis Library

an he ejected from ile library at the Gate-lith, employed at the is dandages from the workingman's com-partment said Smithls nost unusual that had lice.

MARKET QUOTATIONS

T BUFFALO-Catt one load extra prin fair to 300d. $8.25@ oarse, $1.75%; 'Canac to 1.450 lbs $8.25@ to 1.350 lbs. $8.28 ering sters and heife yearlings, dry-ded, 's handy steers and heife sigher; heavy, $10,30@10.35 $10.30; pigs, $9.50 eep and lambs—Receipts; market slow; top lambs, 75; yearlings, $10.50@9.

me alsike $9.25; 3.50. 1 timothy $18@

ng Vota:

General Market