Receipts for Life.

To get, we must give; to become late, we must scatter; to make ourselves happy, we must thank; when we hear that our friends are happy, we must not be enviously vigorous, we must speak the spiritual good of others—C. H. Spurgeon.

Still Knocking

Hicks—"I understand that you and Sharp had buried the hatchet, but I heard that you were still getting awfully last night." Nicks—"Oh, so we buried the hatchet all right, but he still uses the hammer."

PAIGE
The Standard of Value and Quality

COME, brother—wake up. Sniff the air and you will find that the thrilling breath of spring is already there.

Look about you. Sense the newest—the freshness—of it all. See how the laggard step of the crowd has quickened into a full swinging stride.

See those cars "break" at the traffic officer's whistle—watch them come down three or four abreast at the "getaway"—hear the shrill, merry note of the sirens and the good natured chaff of the drivers.

This means Spring. This means the "open season." This means Touring at its best.

Surely, you are not going to be "left behind" this year. Surely you are not going to keep the wife and kiddies indoors when all the world is hiking far afield.

Perhaps, you already know it—but what you need is a big, handsome, sturdy Paige "Six-46".

Nothing less will completely satisfy you—nothing more is necessary for any man no matter how wealthy he may be. So, don't hesitate—don't procrastinate.

Tell the stenographer that you will be "out" for a short spell and haste right over to the Paige dealer. Tell him your troubles—and let him prescribe.

Lightning Killed him. A few years ago we had a very rainy spring. For twelve days it rained. On the morning of the thirteenth day (which was no exception) my friend and I drove over to the country grocery store. The sage of the community spoke of the weather and the number of days it had lasted, and advised every one to stay indoors. Of course we all laughed at his fear, especially my friend. That afternoon my friend went out on his farm to fix a piece of barbed wire fence. While busy at the work the rain and thunder increased. A sharp clap of thunder caused us to go in search of him. Imagine our horror on finding his body hanging lifeless on the barbed wire with marks on his forehead and body where the lightning had burned.—Chicago Tribune

"Bird Farming for Revenue."

It is quite within the bounds of possibility that within a very few years bird farming will be practiced in the tropics, because the least civilized of men respond to the possibility of making money; and whatever our personal views may be, it cannot be denied that the demand for the skins and feathers of birds is an ever-increasing one and is following the growth of national wealth. With committees for economic preservation in the great capitals of Europe, and with a trade willing to accept their findings and give prompt effect to them, we may look to a little time for the end of a reckless killing and the recognition of the simple truth that a live bird capable of reproducing its species and renewing its plumage is far more valuable than a dead one.

STATE OF MICHIGAN—Circuit Court for the County of Oakland do hereby certify that the following is a true and correct copy of the will of the late Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Smith, deceased, as the same is on file in the office of the County Clerk, Oakland County, Michigan: I, the undersigned, Clerk of said County, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of the will of the late Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Smith, deceased, as the same is on file in the office of the County Clerk, Oakland County, Michigan.

UNAPPRECIATIVE DADDY.

"What's that?" asked Mr. Church, who had looked at the notes from his wife's daughter, was trying to play the piano. "That's music." "You may think it's music, daughter dear, but if you could hear how it sounds you'd realize that it's a kind of an optical illusion."

The Tragedians.

What sadder fate than that of Helme Criddickson? asks the Smart Set. A fat woman in a tight bodice? A narrow making love to a married old star and compelled to apologize her beauty? Any man over thirty-five at the banquet table? An old maid ranting for sex hygiene? A socialist marching off to war?

Careless Omission Costly.

A "monkey wrench" mechanic will often omit placing cotter pins or retaining wires in the crown nuts in the motor transmission case or differential housing. Should one of these nuts shake off it will more than likely get into the gear mesh and break up the whole mechanism.
