William Spicer and Samuel Baysen are hunting in northern Michigan.
Miss Esther Purdy is visiting her sister, Mrs. Paul Livingston, at Covington, N. Y.
Mrs. J. Parkyn, of Ocean Springs, Mississippi, is guest at the home of Mrs. J. Allen Bigelow.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Parker Hart, 71 years old, was held Tuesday afternoon. Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. J. Christy, of Birmingham, and a son, F. B. Hart, of Detroit.

The newspapers throughout the country are given to telling of the success in life of some of the young men and women who have gone forth from their native place, and as the saying is, "have made good." Now, the Birmingham Eccentric says from Birmingham, have out on the broad highways men and women, who stand up as a success, and this paper will publish any biography that you may send in. Or it will help you to prepare such an article. Write what you want to say on one side of the paper only and not over 500 words.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury
As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surface. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold as great as any possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, contains neither mercury nor anything internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Sold by druggists. Price 75c per bottle.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation. -Adv.

Men Feel Tired, Toss.
While much is said about tired women it must be remembered that men also pay the penalty of overwork. When the minders are weak, inactive or sluggish, when one feels tired out and miserable, has the St. Paul's Nervine and Stimulant, Foley Kidney Pills are tonic and strengthening. They act quickly. Sold everywhere. -Adv.

ADDY'S BEING

FAIRY TALE MARY GRAHAM BONNER

CHIPMUNKS GATHER NUTS.
"The Chipmunks were having a Fine time the other day," said Daddy. "Hurry up, hurry up," said father Chipmunk to the younger ones. "We must get out for the winter. There will be a long long time to eat, and we must hunt now."
"Mother Chipmunk was down in the hole in the ground and the Squares had their homes in the holes of trees but the Chipmunks like the ground better. She was teaching all the very little ones that they must only eat and we must hunt now."
"Mother Chipmunk was down in the hole in the ground and the Squares had their homes in the holes of trees but the Chipmunks like the ground better. She was teaching all the very little ones that they must only eat and we must hunt now."
"All the little Chipmunks hurried and scurried about and pretty soon father Chipmunk said, 'I will offer a Prize for the one who gets the greatest number of Nuts. Hurry, hurry!' He then started to go off on the hunt."
"Well," said Mother Chipmunk as she looked up from her hole where the Nest was hidden, "I think that's a funny idea, father Chipmunk. If you get the greatest number of nuts yourself, what will you do then? Keep the prize? For you are going hunting with the others."
"You are," said father Chipmunk. "Blinking his eyes and grinning, 'I have a very fine Prize. I would like so much to have it myself.' Mother Chipmunk talked on to father Chipmunk about winning the Prize."
"After some time had gone by a good many of the little Chipmunks began running back and forth with great piles of Nuts. They each picked out a corner, so that in the end all the Nuts could be counted and the Prize Winner decided upon."
"And it was not until then that father Chipmunk saw that he had been spending all his time Chatting, and that he hadn't found a single Nut."
"I would like to win the Prize," he said in a shrill voice. "What made you keep me here talking? Don't you want me to win the Prize?"
"Certainly not," said Mother Chipmunk.
"And so that is why you kept me here?" asked father Chipmunk. "Well, you're certainly very stupid. I never thought you were doing that. But why didn't you want me to have a good try for the Prize?"
"Because," scolded Mother Chipmunk, "I would never let you have a very bad example for the children. The very idea of taking your own Prize. You didn't realize how it sounded. Do you see now?"
"Oh yes, yes," said father Chipmunk. "Now I see. What a bad example I would have given."
"I know," said Mother Chipmunk, "you were just a little thoughtless and selfish. All of me need to be told now and then, for we're all apt to get that way."

"It was good of you to help me," said father Chipmunk, smiling pleasantly at her. "But I can't hunt like you can I, now? For I've certainly lost the prize—which, of course, I don't want when I think about it, but I would like to thank Nuts, for I am pretty good at it."
"Scamper right along," said Mother Chipmunk.
"Back and forth, again and again came the Chipmunks; and father Chipmunk found ever so many nuts, but when he thought he was getting a little bit ahead he would stop and Chat with Mother Chipmunk, or show some very young Chipmunk where, was a good place to look for Nuts, as he was ashamed of himself for not being thoughtful of taking his own Prize. For he was a good Hunter of Nuts and he could carry easily have won it."
"It would have availed enough, Nuts were gathered."
"We have plenty," said father Chipmunk. All the Chipmunks looked as ready at the question. They saw in piles all around them. And now contented father Chipmunk, "Chippy Chippy has won the Prize of a fine Hole in the ground of a very nice little House of spruce bark in the Nuts and he can eat a Room whenever he feels hungry! But now all of you, hurry and get your Nuts!" And off they scampered to their little Homes with their Winter Food."

When Tommy Found Out.
Small Tommy Martin had had a good roast beef he had for dinner. Wamma-Why you get it?
Mamma-Why Tommy, that wasn't beef. It was roast beef.
Small Tommy—Then why didn't you tell me before? You know I don't like pork.
Little Bill Vindickee.
Mother—Tommy, what are you going to give the boy next door for his birthday?
Tommy (remembering a recent gift). I know what I'd like to give him. But I'm not big enough.

Plausible Reason.
New Nurse—But why didn't you want to take your bath, Tommy?
Small Tommy—'Cause somebody said the good die young, and I'm afraid of getting drowned.
